HYPERION WAY BLVD. TO TAKE GLENDALE IN?

Appelate Court Ruling on Zoning Affects Many Cities Adversely

Our City Comment & discussion by THOMAS D. WATSON

Why Not A Big Celebration When Glendale Permits Reach Ten Million Mark?

GLENDALE'S building permits for the year of 1923 up to this noon amount to $9,876,818. This leaves only $123,182 necessary to bring the permits to ten millions for the year.

If nothing unforeseen happens the ten million mark will be reached and passed, for the amount needed averages only about twenty thousand a day, which ought to be an easy figure to reach, especially so when we take into consideration that the daily average of permits taken out so far this month is $34,500.

A FEW DAYS ago it was suggested to us that it would be a fitting thing for Glendale to hold a celebration the day the ten million figure is reached. We think this is an excellent idea for the event is worthy of notice and a celebration such as this would prove excellent publicity material and would undoubtedly be broadcasted all over the country.

THIS CELEBRATION could take the form of an old-time affair with a huge parade and bonfires in different sections of the city. We pass this thought on for consideration with the hope that either the Realty board or the Chamber of Commerce will accept the suggestion as a good one—and make it a reality.

THE DECISION as rendered yesterday by the Second District Court of Appeals, declaring city ordinances establishing zones to be unconstitutional is liable to have a disastrous effect in the endeavor to control the planning and building of a city.

The decision was of course a legal one and rendered in accordance with the construction the Judges placed on the laws.

IT WAS BASED on the assumption that these restrictions invaded private property rights to a greater extent than public necessity requires, the exceptions to the decision being in cases when public health, safety and welfare are concerned, in which event a city can exercise police power to control.

UNDOUBTEDLY the decision is being more than justified in many cases but it will mean that the one-or two-family residence sections in a short time will be a thing of the past.

In a city the size of Los Angeles, with a cosmopolitan population, the decision will not be such a hardship but to the smaller cities, just in the building, it means much.

* * *

ACCORDING to present plans an appeal to a higher tribunal is to be made and the decision will not become a law until the final decision of the court of last resort has been handed down.

FORMER RESIDENT OF BURBANK FOR 20 YEARS, DIES

George H. Crane, who had lived in Burbank for over 20 years and was consequently well known to many people of the San Fernando valley, died in Santa Barbara, where he had been living for some time and was buried there Thursday. This will be a great surprise to those old friends who talked with him on the streets of Burbank about two weeks ago when he came down to attend to some business, for at that time he was in usual health, although of course afflicted with the informities of old age, as he would have been 85 years old on January 31, 1924. His sudden death is particularly sad to his daughter, Mrs. George Rhea, of Tenth and Allen avenue, Glendale, as she did not know of the illness which took him quickly, and with loving hands had prepared a Christmas box for him and was just ready to start it when the message of his death came.

The deceased was a native of Massachusetts, but came to California in 1875, living for a time in Los Angeles and Compton, then coming to Burbank. He bought five acres of land which two years ago were purchased by Mr. and Mrs. Rhea and on which they now reside.

COURT DECISION IS DEATH TO ZONING

Offensive Buildings Only Can Be Barred From a Residential Section

The Appelate court decision, affecting Los Angeles zoning ordinances, in the opinion of City Manager W. H. Reeves, is significent for Glendale and all other cities of the state that practice zoning.

Because such ordinances invade private rights "to a greater extent than public necessity requires," the one in question was declared unconstitutional by the Second District Court of Appeal. The decision maintains that only in case where the public health, safety or welfare is concerned can the city exercise arbitrary police powers. It adds that where the safety or health of the community is not concentrated, individuals should be given the unrestricted right to use and enjoy their property. It expressed the opinion that a zoning ordinance which limits the character and size in the way of designating the number of families to be accommodated therein, is intended primarily for esthetic purposes.

The case in question concerned an attempt by the board of public works of Los Angeles to prevent George Lee Miller from erecting a four-story flat building at 3802 West Adams street in residence district No. 20.

"Private property cannot be arbitrarily invaded under the exercise of police power," asserts the decision. "It consists not merely of the ownership and possession of a thing but in the unrestricted right to use and enjoy. Private rights are never to be invaded to a greater extent than public necessity requires.

"If a law he adopted as a police regulation under pretense preserving public health, safety, comfort or welfare, nevertheless, if that is not its real object and purpose, it will be the duty of the court to set it aside.

"A law or ordinance the effect of which is to deny to the owner of property the right to conduct there on a lawful business, is invalid unless the business to which it relates is of such a noxious or offensive character that the health, safety or comfort of the surrounding community requires its exclusion from that particular neighborhood."

It is claimed that the case will be appealed to the state Supreme Court.

BROWN IS CHARGED WITH LIQUOR SALE

R. L. Brown of 602 South San Fernando road, Glendale, was arrested at 7:30 p. m. yesterday on a charge of having in his possession and selling liquor containing more than one-half of one per cent of alcohol. Five gallons of moonshine whisky and five gallons of wine were confiscated. After spending the night in headquarters' jail, Mr. Brown was released this morning upon $500 bail. He will be arraigned before Judge F. H. Lowe Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

YOAKUMS ARE GRATEFUL FOR AID

Say Never Before Have They Met So Generous a People

Gratitude is the keynote of the attitude of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Yoakum of 1210 East Lexington drive toward Glendale.

Through the efforts of the Glendale Welfare Bureau and the Glendale Press, the barren shack into which they moved only eight days ago has now been furnished and transformed into a real home. With the exception of a dining room table and some dressers or chiffoniers it is almost completely furnished.

Two more $5 donations were received this morning. One of them is from the Casa Verdugo Tennis club and the other is from Mr. and Mrs. George Lamont of 223 East Acacia avenue. Altogether, cash collected amounts to $97.

The future looks much brighter now to Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Yoakum. They are confident that most of their troubles are over.

"Now that my husband is working, we will be all right," asserted Mrs. Yoakum. "We always make it a rule to live within our income."

Although the family now numbers nine kiddies, Mr. and Mrs. Yoakum are determined that each of them shall have a good education. They are looking forward to putting the older children back in school at the first opportunity.

"No matter what a boy or girl may do in life," declared Mrs. Yoakum, "an education never comes amiss."

Frank, the oldest boy, has made arrangements already to work after school hours and on Saturdays, and Grace, the oldest girl, is able to cook, wash, iron and help her mother greatly about the house.

The gratitude of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Yoakum was expressed this afternoon in the following statement:

"We are without language with which to express our gratitude to the people of Glendale for the very liberal assistance that we have received during the past few days. To say that the citizenship of Glendale is composed of a big-hearted people is stating facts in mild terms. In fact, this is the

Gordon C. Cook, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Silas Cook of 333 Vine street, this morning won the baseball bat and baseman's mitt given away by Pendroy's.

Each bag of candy thrown to the kiddies yesterday morning by Pendroy's Santa Claus contained a slip of paper with a number upon it. Duplicates were deposited in a large box. In the presence of Mrs. Frank Dow of 1229 East Lexington drive Mrs. J. G. Huntley of 249 North Central avenue this morning drew out the lucky number.

BIG COMMUNITY CHRISTMAS PROGRAM

Glendale Community Service Has All Things Ready

Everything is in readiness for the second annual Community Christmas program to be given under the auspices of Glendale Community Service on Monday evening, December 24, at 7 o'clock at the Glendale Union High school grounds on Harvard street. The large tree in the center of the grounds was lighted for the first time last night and will be lit each evening. The boys of the fire department placed the lights on Friday afternoon, co-operating with the public service department, which, through the courtesy of Peter Dederich, is providing the wiring and electric current for the tree. This afternoon the Carpenters' Union is constructing a platform, the lumber for which is being provided by the Bentley Lumber company. Christmas tree ornaments will be put in place on Monday afternoon.

The program this year is to be short and simple. It will open with music by the Glendale Community band, which is being sponsored by the Exchange club, and is under the direction of Arthur Balue. The Glendale Choral club, assisted by members of the Oratorio section of the Glendale Music club and the church choirs, will sing "Silent Night." J. Arthur Myers is director of the Choral club and Mrs. Gertrude Champlain Erb will be the accompanist. The opening prayer will be given by Rev. H. I. Rasmus. Words of welcome will be extended by V. M. Hollister, chairman of

PRIZE WINNERS IN THE REALTY BOARD'S ESSAY CONTEST

Not long ago the Glendale Realty board offered a series of nine prizes for the best essays from school pupils on "Why Glendale Should Have a Sewer System." Prizes of $10, $5 and $2 were offered to High school pupils and the same to Intermediate and Grammar school pupils. Five hundred essays were handed in and the task of reading them was no slight one. Nor was it easy for the judges to select from these the nine best, so meritorious were a large number of them. However, three were chosen in each class which nearest met all the requirements for perfection, then the three next best and the third best. The prize winners in the High school division were Lee Osborne, 5238 College View, Eagle Rock, first, $10; Mary Mullen, 215 South Pacific, second, $5; Daisy Whitefell, 328 North Isabel, third, $2.

In the Intermediate department Wilbur Wilkinsen won the first prize of $10; Winifred Root, 545 West Doran, second prize, $5; Virginia Neffen, 518 Palm drive, third prize, $2.

In the Grammar school department Helen Jessen of 418 North Glendale avenue won the $10 first prize, Margaret Byerly of 1016 Florence place, the $5 offering and Robert Holmes of 418 Hawthorne the third prize of $2.

The judges were the teachers of the various school departments.

The prize-winning essays and possibly all that were offered, will be published in subsequent issues of the Daily Press.

The action of the Realty board in offering these prizes and thus stimulating thought and expression on so important a subject is highly commendable.

It will be noted that only three out of the nine prize winners were boys.

"EAGER HEART" DREW GOOD AUDIENCE LAST NIGHT

Between 600 and 700 people enjoyed witnessing a very artistic performance of "Eager Heart," the Christmas mystery play by A. M. Buckton, given under the direction of Mrs. Geraldine Jacobi Russell by Glendale Community Service at the new High school auditorium on Friday night. A silver offering of $49 was collected and this will go to the community Christmas fund. The play was very well received. Particularly beautiful was the music of the invisable choir, singing behind the scenes, and the vocal music by Mrs. R. Penland. The lighting was most effective.

The time of the play is Christmas everywhere. Act 1 is laid in Eager Heart's home, act 2 shows the shepherds on the hillside and act 3 is Eager Heart's home. The cast included — Eager Heart, Margaret E. Brown; Eager Fame, Florence HacLaughlin; Eager Sense, Charlotte Busy; the Wanderers, Emma Laura Cooper and Ernestine Henry; shepherds, Mary Jo Philips, Christine Krum, Beulah Barnette and Charlotte Busby; kings, Jack S. Dr. Ritchey, who is an Elk, Kiwanian and Legionnaire, will be missed in Glendale.

NINETY DAYS OR $250 IS FINE FOR LEONARD

"Bill" Leonard, employe of the Southern California Edison company residing in camp No. 9, this morning was sentenced in the Glendale police court to serve 90 days or pay a fine of $250 on a charge of reckless driving. He was arrested about 3:30 p. m., December 13, after the truck he was driving had collided with an automobile driven by E. B. Clark of 1000 South Adams street. Mr. Leonard was accompanied by "Old Taylor."

LEGION CHOICE OF OFFICERS IS MADE

After Lively Session a Full Corps of Leaders for 1924 Elected

Joe Wilson of 328 North Jackson street, former adjutant, last night in a stormy session was unanimously elected commander of post 127 of the American Legion.

An eleventh-hour withdrawal was made by three other candidates, F. C. Butler of 247 North Louise street, Mitchell Frug of 123 North Kenwood street, and Ryland Sizer of 104 East California street, each of whom presented a different reason.

Every seat in the hall was occupied at last night's session and many comrades appeared for the first time in many weeks. The election, which was not commenced until about 10 o'clock, required about two hours and was not over until midnight.

Commander Chalmer D. Day had some slight difficulty during the discussions in preserving quietness. Although the session was somewhat boisterous, there was no disorder.

Announcement was made that Eugene E. McWain of Los Angeles has been appointed adjustant of the post and will assume his duties the first of the year. He was in the forty-second division and fought in many of the major engagements of the war.

Two solos by Comrade Leland T. Abbott of 1115 Irving avenue were much applauded. All united in singing "Yes, We Have No Bananas."

After discussion lasting over an hour in regard to a suggested project, the subject was tabled.

The executive committee for next year will compose the board of directors of the post after its contemplated incorporation. The five comrades elected are as follows: W. H. Reeves of 500 East Maple street, 49 votes; Dwight W. Stephenson of 420 East Randolph street, 46; Chalmer D. Day of 521 East Elk avenue, 42; James H. Wittmyer of 429 West Broadway, 41; and George L. Kaeding of 227 North Central avenue, 41.

Three trustees were selected from five candidates as follows: J. D. Fraser of 643 North Maryland avenue, 49 votes; Harley G. Preston, 43; and E. P. Hayward of 513 North Isabel street, 40; L. J. Fortier of 624 North Glendale avenue, 38; and Charles B. Guthrie of 1641 Grand View avenue, 32.

Other election results were as follows:

First vice-commander, W. H. Regelin of 505 Patterson, 48; E. W. Gilliland of 415 East Stocker street, 31.

Second vice-commander, E. W. Gilliland of 415 East Stocker street, 37; Walter Grayson of 364 West Lexington, 34. On the first ballot H. S. Richards of 354 West Acacia avenue received 16 votes and Mr. Grayson and Mr. Gilliland tied with 28 votes apiece.

Treasurer, William T. McCormack.

After other candidates had withdrawn, James F. McBryde, Don Packer and Al Dix were unanimously elected to the interpost council. Withoutout opposition Ivan Crooker of 407 Burchett street was selected as post historian.

GLENDALE GETS NEW STATE HIGHWAY

Changed to Run West on Colorado to Brand and South to Hyperion

Harry White and L. T. Rowley of this city represented Glendale at a banquet held at Hotel Maryland, Pasadena, last night by the Santa Monica Boulevard association and co-operating committees striving to secure a foothill route to connect with Hyperion way, and action was taken which may prove of vital advantage to Glendale.

An 100-foot boulevard is the aim of the promoters. Prior to this time a route had been adopted which diverged from Colorado in Eagle Rock, going around the hill or south on Central avenue in Eagle Rock and coming out under the viaduct of the bridge south of Ivanhoe, from there making its way to Hyperion way. That had been adopted by the committee on route. Meanwhile the Glendale representatives had been trying to bring about a change of plan which would route the boulevard through Glendale. The heavy traffic on Colorado had been the objection raised.

Friday night the matter was taken up. "It was recognized," states Mr. Rowley, "that Glendale had right to know whether or not it would be on this through highway.

"The promoters find it will be necessary to raise a fund to strengthen certain points in the road and secure certain concessions from owners for widening. It will mean work and propaganda. They are, therefore, passing the hat in the different communities along the route and they recognized Glendale should have a definite answer. Action was taken which reversed the recommendations of the route committee, viz., a motion was made by Mr. Barnes, secretary of the Santa Monica Boulevard association, and seconded by Harry White of Glendale, that the road follow Colorado street as first proposed. This carried unanimously and if put through will bring the route along Colorado to Brand, down that street and Glendale boulevard to a point near the present bridge across the river where they expect to build a good viaduct to lead to Hyperion way, which comes over the hill.

"A committee was appointed to prepare a constitution and by-laws for an organized association to carry on the work, and Harry White was made a member. The committee will have a meeting in the Glendale Chamber of Commerce in about a week. Another meeting of the full association will be held at Hotel Maryland in Pasadena in about three weeks, at which the report of the organization committee will be received."

EAGLE ROCK WANTS SETBACK LINES ON ALL STREETS

The citizens of Eagle Rock who live on streets which still have vacant lots should get up a petition and present it to the city council asking the establishment of a set back line. There is only one street at present in Eagle Rock that has such a law and that is Park avenue. Now with this ordinance for each street in effect, and resident have their buildings say 20 feet back, no one can come in and put a building further to the front than those already built.

In this manner property values will not be depreciated. It helps to give the owners a sense of security and adds to the artistic value of the streets. It really does not look well to see a street with the house all set back a certain distance, and then have one or two vacant lot owners place houses close to the property line. Fifty-one per cent of the owners on a street can prevent this, if they take action.

Many people have been talked out of their idea of putting their buildings further to the front than the others because they could see the disadvantages of so doing. Applications for a set back line can be had at the chamber of commerce.

Glendale's Sewer

EXPERT INFORMATION FURNISHED DAILY ON THIS GREAT PROJECT

(In this column will appear from day to day, comments on the sewer project, which is the biggest thing that has ever confronted the citizens of Glendale, also articles prepared by the publicity committee of the sewer committee of the chamber of commerce which may be considered as expert information.)

H. L. Miller, real estate and insurance, 109 South Brand, 27 years in Glendale, says:

"Vote for the sewer bonds. The prosperity of this city cannot continue without sewers. Glendale is ready for big buildings, but she will never get them unless we first get sewers. Hotels, large office buildings, large apartment houses and the like cannot exist here with cesspools and septic tanks. If these bonds are voted you will see a wave of prosperity such as Glendale has never experienced. From the health standpoint, also we must have sewers. The ground of this city is saturated with sewage and sickness may result if cesspools are not discontinued. We might as well look this problem squarely in the face. It is serious and we must remedy it. We have our chance—will Glendale 'fall down?'"

Percy J. Hayselden, 901 South Glendale avenue, realtor:

"Sewers will hit the pocketbook of the small property owner, but his property will increase in value ten, yes twenty times the amount sewers will cost him. They will be a great financial benefit for the bookkeeper, clerk, mechanic and the like—the salary man. Sewers are actually cheaper than cesspools. The growth that will be brought about by sewers will make up for the cost of the sewers many fold. The health standpoint should not be overlooked. Cesspools are a serious menace to this city and we should eliminate them on January 8 next. This is our one big opportunity."

SEWERS MEAN PROTECTION OF WATER SUPPLY

The importance of a good domestic water supply is realized and appreciated by every person living in Southern California. To provide for future growth and population means that every available source of surface and underground supply must be conserved and protected from pollution. Many of the cities, including Glendale, in this region obtain their domestic water supplies from underground sources and even the city of Los Angeles, which many people think is supplied entirely by the Owens river aquaduct, obtained twenty percent of the total water used in the past three years from the Los Angeles river drainage basin and wells, according to the 21st annual report of the board of public commissioners.

A part of the Glendale water supply is obtained from a shallow water stratum in Verdugo canyon, which several years ago was in danger of being condemned on account of possible contamination by use of cesspools being sunk into or close to this water-bearing area. The wells along San Fernando road take water from a water stratum that underlies the city of Glendale. The Los Angeles wells near Griffith park to the southwest of Glendale, also penetrate the underflow of the San Fernando valley and surrounding territory. The general inclination or flow of this water plane naturally follows the slope of the ground, being in a general direction of the valley slope and from the mountains and higher ground on each side.

The continued use of cesspools and the discharge of sewage into the porous soil overlying this water plane will saturate this soil and the effluent will drain into the water-bearing strata. The natural purifying agencies of the soil will be exhausted and overloaded to the extent that eventually this water supply will be contaminated and the water supply condemned.

The water supply is now chlorinated to remove all possible dangerous contamination, but sometimes accidents may happen to the chlorination plant and it will be out of order for a short period and the supply left unprotected. Pittsburg, Calif., had a similar experience in 1920 causing between 125 and 150 cases of typhoid fever. The city was sued for neglect and the plaintiffs were awarded $32,821.29 in damages.

The pollution of the underground water supply of Glendale and possibly a part of the Los Angeles supply, not only means an economic loss by the abandonment of this source and the securing of a supply at a much greater distance and expense, but also a menace to the health of the community.

SANTA CLAUS PLEADS FOR BIG "OH-HO" SEAT SALE

The "Oh-Ho" show will be staged this evening at the New Glendale Union High school auditorium.

This genuinely fine musical comedy will be given to raise money to buy Christmas gifts for the poor children of this city, and it is a cause that holds an appeal to everyone, as it is a regular "Santa Claus show."

"Santa Claus is literally giving this show" said Postmaster D. Ripley Jackson, this morning. "The stack of letters that have been received at the Glendale postoffice addressed to 'Santa Claus' runs into the hundreds. We have had a committee engaged in tracing these letters and find that ninety per cent of them are from the very needy, children who have little chance of having their slight longings for Christmas satisfied unless some phantom 'Santa Claus' helps. That is the reason we are staging the 'Oh-Ho' show. These children are appealing to you and to me, and we cannot overlook them. And, when one considers that he is seeing a regular two dollar's worth of show for fifty cents, the duty is paramount."

Then Postmaster Jackson looked at the prospects for the success of the "Oh-Ho" show. "Sure, we have had a fair seat sale, but I had hoped that the 2000 seats would be entirely sold out by this time. There are more seats still to be sold than have been sold, so there are still enough good seats for everyone."

The reserved seats for "Oh-Ho" can be secured at the Roberts & Echols drug store up until 7:30 this evening. After that hour, reservations can be had at the new High school.

Those who have been mailed tickets are urged to use them. Those who have not had tickets mailed to them are urged to get their reserved seats either at Roberts & Echols' or at the High school tonight.

"There are going to be a lot of disappointed children in Glendale unless we completely sell out the house for 'Oh-Ho'" said Dr. Harrower, chairman of the committee this morning. "Everyone should attend this show tonight."

NOT TOO LATE YET TO DO CHRISTMAS SHOPPING

"It is too late to do your Christmas shopping early, but it is not too late to buy high-grade jewelry gifts," says Ed N. Radke, proprietor of the jewelry establishment bearing his name, located at 109-B South Brand. "We are fully prepared to meet the demands of last minute shoppers, our stock having been replenished, and several extra clerks have been added. We will remain open until 9 o'clock tonight and Monday night, and the people need not feel that our stock has been "picked over," as new goods have been received every day."

According to Mr. Radke, the present Christmas rush has been the greatest he has ever seen and he has been in the same business for more than forty years. Last year he was able to handle the rush with a personnel of five clerks, while this year fifteen extra salespeople are on the job to give the best and quickest service possible.

Hundreds of gift suggestions for the last minute shopper are to be found here, the stock being complete from a cheap novelty that's good to an exquisite dimond or platinum pin or ring. Gifts for the entire family are on display, and the Radke prices are worth investigating.

Mr. Radke is a great booster for Glendale and feels very much gratified to the local citizens for the wonderful trade which he has enjoyed since his opening here about two years ago. He also highly recommends the Daily Press as an advertising medium, stating that hundreds of new customers have come to him by reading his ads in the columns of this paper.

EAGLE ROCK'S LEGION AUXILIARY HOLDS ELECTION

Following the hearing of committee reports, election of officers of the American Legion auxiliary, Eagle Rock unit, was held last night at the home of Mrs. Gertrude Rose, 5211 Acacia. Mrs. O. M. Hensley was elected president, Mrs. W. F. Witcher, first vice president; Mrs. A. Bessolo, second vice president; Mrs. W. F. Hansen, secretary; Mrs. Alice Dirks, treasurer; Mrs. L. E. Hammond, chaplain; Miss Jennie Swenson, historian; Miss Ruth Jackman, sergeant at arms, and Mrs. A. R. Rose, retiring president, Mrs. Augusta Prindle and Miss Catherine Bessolo to compose the executive committee.

The American Legion auxiliary this year is assisting with the benevolence plans of the county council, which body has taken charge of one of the wards at the Sawtelle hospital, where over 60 patients are confined to their beds. Each patient in this ward is to be given a huge basket of fruit and a dollar bill.

The auxiliray voted to lend assistance to the chamber of commerce committee in charge of the program to be broadcasted over KHJ for the entertainment of the inmates at the Sawtelle home. A number of the members offered to assist in reporting the names of friends who would be in a position to present program numbers if called upon. Lieutenant E. W. Welty of the fire department is chairman of the committee and plans to call a meeting in the near future to lay before it definite plans for the entertainment.

The auxiliary also voted to have the Eagle Rock community song, "Eagle Rock Is Homeland," the proceeds of which are to be given to aid disabled veterans, sold at the community celebration which will be held under the auspices of various Eagle Rock organizations on the evening of December 28, at the city hall grounds. Miss Jennie Swenson was placed in charge of the selling of the song on that night, and she will call upon a number of pretty high school girls to assist her. The songs will be sold before the preformance and after its conclusion. "Eagle Rock Is Homeland" may also be procured at any time at the Eagle Rock Music company, and the entire purchase price is being given to the relief work among disabled veterans, through an arrangement effected with Julius Kranz, the composer, Lieut. Welty, who wrote the lyric, and J. C. Krause, proprietor of the store named.

MERRY CHRISTMAS AT THE PACIFIC SOUTHWEST

The Brand boulevard branch of the Pacific-Southwest Trust and Savings bank was the scene Thursday night of much merriment; the occasion being the annual Christmas tree of the employees.

There was an exchange of gifts between all the officers and employees, and Mr. D. H. Smith, Glendale vice president and manager, was given a handsome gift with the sincere good wishes of all his co-workers.

Each employee received a gift from the bank, which was in the form of a cash Christmas bonus.

Mr. Smith said last night that the Brand boulevard branch was closing its most successful year, and that the deposits had reached the highest point during the closing days of 1923. He commended all the employees for their loyalty and earnest efforts during the year, and said that each had done his share in making it possible to handle the tremendous increase in the volume of business, which reflects the growth and prosperity of Glendale.

PERSONAL AND LOCAL ITEMS

Stillman Chase of Riverdale drive is making his holiday vacation profitable by working at the Arcade postoffice station.

A. W. Reynolds left Friday for the San Jacinto mountains, where he will remain over the week-end at Idyllwild. From there he will go to San Diego to spend the Christmas holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Kirk of Santa Barbara, son-in-law and daughter of the late Mrs. John Hyde Braly, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Bartlett of 333 West Broadway, Friday night, and will return to Santa Barbara today.

Another new arrival in Glendale. J. Randolph Bevis of Colorado Springs, just could not resist the call of the south and is now here, with the intention of settling permanently. He arrived last week in his automobile. His family is still in Colorado. He spoke of the dullness of the times in Colorado and was impressed with the air of alertness in Glendale.

MONTROSE NOTES

Captain and Mrs. Frank Green will entertain Mr. and Mrs. S. Scott of Eaton, Colorado, Christmas Day. The families are friends of old standing and plan to enjoy a happy reunion on Christmas.

Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Howard are planning to spend Christmas Day at Long Beach with Mr. Howard's brother, I. R. Howard. The two brothers have not met for over 25 years and until recently were unaware of their close proximity.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Ross will be dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Nelson on the 25th. They are being entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Nelson and Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Elliott. Represented at the pleasant affair will be four generations, Mr. and Mrs. Ross being the great grandparents of charming little Miss Nelson.

The newly-formed Verdugo Hills post of the American Legion has been very fortunate in securing the services of the Glendale Sicots' Gold Medal band to play for the big dance and carnival which will be given early in January. The affair will be held at the time the charter and colors are presented to the Legion post and will mark the first formal function after its complete organization. The post recently staged a very jolly informal party in the Sparr Heights community club rooms.

The pre-Christmas dance given Friday evening by the Montecito club surpassed even the fondest hopes of those who had worked and planned for many days to make the first entertainment of the social organization a big success. The entertainment committee, headed by A. Craft and by Theodore Belanger, president of the club, worked out every detail of the dance and staged a party that will not be forgotten for many a day. The hall was beautifully and appropriately decorated with festoons of red and green extending in every direction from the center of the hall. Bright lights, confetti, serpentines and all the other festival novelties added to the spirit of holiday time and increased the joy and hilarity of the evening. "Noise producers" were there in plenty in the shape of horns, singing snakes and snappers. A delightful surprise was the singing and saxophone numbers given by little Miss Kathleen Woodbury of Pasadena. A charming little miss was Kathleen, and a finished artist. Kelly's Shrine orchestra of seven pieces furnished the dance music. Refreshments were served during the evening, which did not close until midnight. The club is planning another entertainment to be given early in January, which will be for members only. By that time the membership will probably have reached the limit, which is 100. There are at present approximately 90.

LA CRESCENTA NOTES

The local Boy Scouts, with their scoutmaster, C. W. Angier, enjoyed a hike to Cook's canyon yesterday afternoon. Each boy was given the privilege of inviting a guest for yesterday's outing. They had supper in the mountains and all report a wonderful time. The local boys who are planning to join the Glendale boys in their annual "snowball" hike on Friday, December 28, are Neal Darby, Walter Smith, Stuart Collins, Robert Potts, Harold Swanson, Lawrence Potter and others. A. C. Cox, one of the popular committeemen of the local organization, will possibly accompany the boys on their two days' hike next week.

An added feature at the Christmas entertainment of the Community church next Sunday evening will be Luther's "Manger Song" which is being rehearsed by a choir of girls. The program begins promptly at 7:30, and a cordial invitation is extended to all residents of the La Crescenta valley.

E. Gould of Glendale, who recently purchased the Edwin Evans' home on East Montrose avenue, also purchased some business lots on South Pennsylvania avenue on which he erected a one-story stucco store building. Today Mr. Gould is opening a general grocery store in his new building. Mr. Gould is very optimistic over this location for business as there are many new homes under construction in this vicinity which also is the terminus of the Glendale and Montrose railway.

The local Girl Scouts are spreading cheer among the children who are ill and less fortunate than they by distributing fruit, toys and Christmas treats this afternoon. This organization is growing very rapidly under the splendid supervision of the captain, Mrs. Jessie Hanson.

The Swami Paramananda of the Vendanta Centre has returned from Boston. He will hold special services on Sunday afternoon, December 23, at 3:15. There will be a public service with address by the Swami every Sunday afternoon.

Dean Culberson will arrive home from Ithaca, New York, Monday and remain over the holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Culberson. Mr. Culberson is a student at Cornell.

The La Crescenta Improvement association will give their last dance of this year on Saturday evening, December 29, at the school auditorium. The proceeds are to be used for the maintenance of the local fire truck.

EGYPTIAN VILLAGE CAFE IS TRULY AN IDEAL RESTAURANT

The famous Egyptian Village cafe, in the Jensen building, has recently been taken over by Frank Duffy, a cafe man of long experience, under whose management the popular restaurant will be run on a strictly pleasing policy. Several minor changes have been made by Mr. Duffy, one of which is the elimination of a cover charge for those not caring to dance, and also the doing away with the troublesome hat check, the tips of which usualy add considerable to the expenses of the guest. According to Mr. Duffy, the Egyptian Village is not an expensive place in which to eat, it being a family restaurant as well as a place to dine and dance. "The prices charged," says Mr. Duffy, "are no more than you would pay for a good meal in a restaurant with much less service, and those who care to dine in a high class cafe at remarkably reasonable prices are invited to visit this, the most beautiful cafe in Glendale."

Under the new policy, regular dinners at set prices will be served between certain hours. A delicious luncheon is served from 11:30 to 2, from the latter hour till 5:30 being a period for tea and light refreshments. At 5:30 the special family dinner is served, lasting till 8 o'clock, at which time dancing starts, continuing until midnight. Music begins at 6, Jerry Parker's orchestra furnishing the rythm for the dancers. The floor is very good, being of the finest hardwood, and a large crowd visits the cafe every night to enjoy refined dancing.

Many of the local civic clubs and organizations use the Egyptian Village for their regular weekly meetings, held in the large banquet hall, a luncheon preceding every meeting. The organizations using this cafe are the Rotary club, Exchange club, Glendale Realty board, Credit Men's association and the Kiwanis board of directors.

As before stated, this cafe is one of the most beautiful and best appointed of any in the south, the booths in the main dining room having richly finished overstuffed settees. The lighting effects are extremely beautiful, the dull lights making the entire interior symbolic of the Nile.

An experienced Chinese chef prepares tempting dishes of chop suey and noodles, and the regular chef, Mr. Stewart, has been in the restaurant business for thirty-five years in Southern California, fourteen years of this time having been spent with Al Levy, famous Los Angeles cafe man. For those who care for excellent cuisine service and a beautiful place in which to dine, the Egyptian Village is the ideal restaurant.

CHRISTMAS PARTY OF OMAR TENT HAS TRUE SPIRIT

The banquet hall at Masonic temple was crowded Friday night by members of Omar Tent No. 9, White Shrine of Jerusalem, and their families who came to attend a most delightful Christmas party. All came with generous donations for the barrell, which was placed at the door. Articles of canned goods, sugar, flour, clothing and other supplies were brought and are to be distributed among the needy in Glendale.

An interesting little playlet called "The Night Before Christmas" was given with "Ma" and "Pa," played by Mrs. Alvah Leland and E. E. These were played by Mrs. Maude Smith, Mrs. Mae Warrick, Mrs. Evelyn Pierce, Miss Minnie Parsons, Mrs. Maude Evans, Mrs. Nana Custer, Mrs. Grace Brown, Eleanore Marek, Ruth Reed, Kathleen Custer, Grace Jackson, Louise Emerick, Dorothy Bourne and George Marek. Mrs. Evelyn Pierce gave some recitations and little Eleanore Marek gave several fancy dances. At the close of the program appropriate Christmas refreshments were served. There was a special birthday table for those whose birthday anniversaries occur in December, with a large birthday cake and other features.

BEREAN BIBLE CLASS SURPRISES SHUT-IN

The regular meeting of the Berean class of the First Baptist church, of which Mrs. M. J. Piercey is president, was held Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Edith Dockeray, 723 South Louise street. After the regular business was transacted, the meeting was turned into a surprise Christmas party for "Grandma" Ellen Bundick, who has been away from the Sunday school for ten months on account of a broken hip. In spite of the 85 years that have gone over her head, she is as young in spirit as any of the class. Her courage, in spite of lameness and failing eyesight, is an inspiration to all who meet her.

There were 28 members of the class present. During the afternoon Mrs. J. F. Moody and Mrs. J. H. McKeever sang "Holy Night" and other Christmas songs. Delicious refreshments were served by the assisting hostesses: Mrs. H. W. Sloat, Mrs. J. D. Allabach and Mrs. J. W. Headlee.

CHEER UP

Don't waste your time in complaining,
And telling folks what to do—
For maybe this self-same fellow
Is thinking the same of you.
Don't make the mole-hill a mountain,
And don't throw stones in the way,
Just look to your own house cleaning—
Perhaps you'll find motns and decay.
So put on your smiles, like sunbeams,
And sing when the Christmas bells chime.
You're only one life and you're passing
Through now for the very last time.

VIRGINIA UPHAM.

EVOLUTION of HOUSEHEATING

The original inhabitant of this country, the American Indian, through force of circumstances was compelled to gain relief from cold through the means of a bonfire.

The fire was built in the center of his tepee, with an outlet at the top for the egress of the smoke.

When the American continent was settled by our forefathers, the grate fire came into use.

This was followed by the coal and wood heaters and later came the furnace, which was in general use for a number of years.

One of the most modern ways of heating, used in the better class of California homes, is the gas steam radiator. No more healthy heat can be found than that produced by gas steam—the heat being even and mixed with enough moisture to make it healthful. These radiators do not require either basement or vent pipes and are absolutely odorless.

Should you have your mind set on some other system, we have it. No matter what your needs or desires may be, we can supply and satisfy you.

Why not let our estimator call on you? It will in no way obligate you. Just phone Glen. 3059.

The Hills Were a Mass of Flaming Gold

Last night at sunset time,
Someone in our office looked out the window.
And at the expression on his face,
All the rest of us looked out.
And it was worth it.
For what we saw was this:
The hills to the northeast,
(The lower range of foothills,)
Were a mass of flaming gold,
Standing out in bold relief
Against the darker background
Of blue mountains.
And it brought a vivid touch of beauty
Into the drab apparel of everyday living.
And the flaming light burned out for a time
The mass of cynicism and bitterness
That had been seething in my heart,
And I was glad to be alive.
And I wished that others,
Whose lives seemed hopeless,
Could have been touched by those golden rays,
And had their lives glorified for one gorgeous moment.

GLENDALE, CALIFORNIA, SATURDAY, DECEMBER 22, 1923

BETTER ROADS FOR CALIFORNIA MOTORIST COMING

MAMMOTH PROGRAM OF HIGHWAY REPAIR AND MAINTENANCE TO BE STARTED SOON IN STATE

More Than $5,000,000 Will Be Expended in Rebuilding, Widening and Generally Strengthening Many Prominent Roadways

MONEY WILL BE AVAILABLE IN MAY, 1924

Sum of $500,000 to be Used in Bringing Coast Route Between San Diego and Los Angeles up to Highest Possible Standard

An elaborate system of road rebuilding and repair work will soon be started by the state highway commission. Upwards of $5,000,000 will be expended in this work, which will consist, not in laying new roads, but in thickening, widening and generally strengthening a number of the existing highways.

This improvement work will be accomplished with funds secured by the state as its share of the new gasoline tax and the motor vehicle license fees. This work will be entirely apart from the work contemplated and to be paid for from the state highway bond funds.

The rebuilding and improvement work to be done will be distributed over the various parts of the state, the idea being to make the repairs on the roads where the needs are most apparent, keeping in mind at all times the distribution of funds equally over the entire state, so far as is possible.

No contracts have been advertised for up to this time, thereby giving a definite idea of the work that will be ordered done. However, it has been learned that the improvement of the following roads will be effected just as soon as the funds are available:

A nine-mile stretch of road just south of Sacramento on the Stockton route; paving south of Stockton in the Manteco section; rebuilding of the highway between Oceanside and San Diego; rebuilding of the Rincon causeway in Ventura county; widening of the Calabassas highway that lies within Los Angeles county; widening and regrading of the Pacific highway north of Redding, in Shasta and Siskiyou counties.

It is understood that within a short time contracts aggregating approximately $500,000 will be let for the improvement of the roadway along the coast route, between San Diego and Los Angeles. The motor travel between these two points is especially heavy and it has been deemed wise to maintain the best type of highway possible. The money will be spent in the work of doing away with curves, widening the narrow places and removing the three grade crossings that now exists. The improvement of these roads are of especial interest to Glendale people as thousands of local motorists enjoy tours to the southern city through the summer, as well as during the winter months.

The plans include the widening of the roadway to twenty feet over a distance of twenty-two miles between this city and Oceanside; the construction of a subway railroad crossing at Del Mar and the changing of the highway to the west side of the railroad tracks between Cardiff and Encinitas.

Two bad curves just south of Solano Beach and one in Del Mar will be straightened, while the steep grade near Solano will be cut down. In Del Mar the highway will run east of Stratford Inn, and under the Santa Fe railroad through a subway. Probably no section of the State highway is subject to heavier travel, especially during the winter months, than that between San Diego and Los Angeles, and the proposed improvements will be welcomed by motorists who travel this route because it is the shortest and most direct between the two cities.

Specifications prepared by the State engineers call for a shoulder of six-inch concrete on either side of the present pavement along the

THE BEST WAY TO DRIVE CAR

"In spite of the large number of expert drivers handling automobiles and trucks it is surprising how few of them hold the steering wheel in a correct manner," says Arthur G. Zeller, President of the Michigan State Automobile School, Detroit.

"A popular but quite improper way," Zeller states, "seems to be to grasp it near the front side, resting both forearms across the wheel and leaning the body slightly forward. While this gives fair control of the car, all the engine vibration and steering gear road shock passes from the wheel rim into the muscles and bones of the forearm. A feeling of fatigue is quickly caused by the continued vibration and frequently sets the driver to napping at the wheel.

"I have on doubt that many highway accidents come from this method of driving.

"The next time you go for a drive try it this way. Settle yourself comfortably in the driver's seat, grasp that portion of the steering wheel rim closest to your body in such a fashion that your elbows hang closely to your sides; each upper arm and forearm bent to approximate a letter L. The right hand palm should be up, the left hand palm down.

"With the steering wheel held in this fashion the car will steer easier and you will experience less fatigue."

POLICE MADE ACCIDENTS

In the beginning there was the automobile accident, for which the driver, the owner, the manufacturer or the repairer was always blamed. Many years later it was discovered that a large portion of accidents were the direct result of pedestrians, and someone brightly suggested that we regard these as pedestrian accidents.

But times change, and new things are happennig every day to make life more complicated, more interesting or more frightful, depending upon the way you look at it. Now they have discovered that a lot of accidents at street intersections are due to poorly trained traffic officers, or misjudgment on the part of those who, though in authority, are human to the extent that they, too, make mistakes.

Police accidents can be avoided if motorists would bear in mind that the traffic officer is human. He conducts the crossing as though he had eyes in the back of his head, but he hasn't. His hearing is supposed to be super-human, but it isn't. Even his judgment is prone to skidding.

When he motions for you to come on, though another car is dashing for the intersection, use common sense and temporarily disobey him by lingering. He doesn't see the other car; and when the situation is plain to him he'll thank you for doing the sensible thing.

Don't fail to heed the squeak that calls for oil

LOCAL FIRM TAKES DELIVERY OF DODGE

Hoffman & Pixley, Now Using This Economical Truck

"Business is picking up," said Guy Pixley of the plumbing firm of Hoffman & Pixley, 108 South Glendale. "In fact it has grown so rapidly of late that we have been compelled to add a modern Dodge commercial truck to our string of delivery vehicles. This car, we feel, is just the one we have been looking for. It fills the need of the plumbing business in every sense, and so far as power and economy are concerned it is always up and ready to go."

"For several years we have been doing business in Glendale. From the first day of our operations here our business we have known a fair measure of success—not too much, so that our business became top-heavy—but just enough to let us see that by continuing our fight we would eventually come out on top.

"We are proud of the extent of our present business. Honest work and fair prices have turned the trick.

"This increased business demands the very best there is in the way of motor trucking facilities. That's why we purchased this Dodge commercial. Seems like this car was made for the plumbing business, so versatile is it in its uses. We are thoroughly pleased with this car."

This truck was purchased through R. E. Corrigan, 116 West Colorado, dealer for the Dodge car in Glendale.

BANNING GAP TO BE PAVED SOON

If a satisfactory agreement is reached with the board of supervisors of San Bernardino county relative to extension of financial assistance to the state in the paving of approximately 6.5 miles of the main trunk highway north of Banning, the California Highway Commission will take over the present county pavement between San Bernardino and Redlands and between the latter city and the Riverside county line.

This is the announcement of Chairman Harvey M. Toy, in urging completion of trunk lines in Southern California at the earliest possible date.

On November 27, the commission accepted the bid of the Pioneer Transportation company of Calexico for the grading and graveling of four miles of the main trunk highway near Westmoreland, in Imperial county. The bid of the firm was $38,000.

TRAILS INTO 'SAN BERDOO' HILLS ARE GOOD

Auto Club Sends Car Over Roads to Note Condition

Generally speaking the roads in the San Bernardino mountains are in good condition, according to the Auto Club of Southern California's touring bureau. A club car was sent over the various roads a day or so ago for the purpose of ascertaining road conditions.

However, it is liable to snow or rain or hail or "slide" up in those hills any day, now, so that the wise motorist will call the club's bureau immediately before starting for "last minute dope."

Mill Creek Road

This mountain road is at the present time in exceptionally good condition, although the usual winter storm drains have been put in. Pavement is continuous from Redlands through Mentone to the junction of the Forest Home road, a distance of 12 miles. While the control men have been removed, the control is still in effect and upgoing travel is allowed from Harvey's only at 2, 5, 8 and 11 a. m. or p. m., leaving Seven Oaks Control for Bear Valley every hour and a half after the control opens at Harvey's.

Waterman Canyon—Crest Route

Paved from San Bernardino north for approximately 7 miles to the junction of the road leading to Arrowhead Government Hospital. The road up Waterman Canyon to the summit is in wonderful shape, and from there by way of Green Valley and Snow Slide Grade to Big Bear Lake is in fair condition, although some snow has fallen and it is advisable to use skid chains. Storm drains have been installed in many places. The new Deep Creek cutoff, which is to connect Fredalba with the west end of Big Bear Lake, is expected to be completed soon.

City Creek Route

From San Bernardino follow the Base Line road, which is paved, to the junction of the City Creek road at Highlands. From this junction the City Creek road is in splendid shape to Fredalba, where the Crest road is intersected, and followed to Big Bear. This route will be passable until the first heavy snows.

Victorville—Desert Route

Paved from San Bernardino via Cajon Pass to Victorville. After crossing the Mojave river an excellent dirt road will be found through Apple Valley to Box S Ranch and to the foot of the Cushenberry Grade, with fair road up the grades to Baldwin Lake and good from there to Big Bear. This road is usually open and passable throughout the winter months.

Arrowhead Lake via Waterman Canyon

Pavement extends north from San Bernardino, a distance of six and one-half miles to the junction of the Arrowhead Springs road. Fair conditions prevail up the grade to Skyland and through Strawberry Flats to the lake.

Arrowhead Lake via Hesperia

Pavement is complete by way of San Bernardino and the Cajon Pass to the Gas Station, approximately ten miles beyond the Summit. Excellent dirt road, somewhat soft in places, will be found to Hesperia, with a fair dirt road from there to the bridge across Deep Creek. The road from Deep Creek to the lake, while not as steep as Waterman Canyon, is very narrow and has many sharp turns. Until controls are established this route is not advisable.

TIRES ON RIGHT GET HEAVY WEAR

The fact that automobile tires on the right side of the car wear out more quickly than those on the left side is one which many motorists are unable to explain. A very popular misconception is that turning corners more frequently to the right than to the left is responsible for this wear. Such, however, is not the case.

The reason that tires on the right side of the car wear more quickly than those on the left is that they carry a greater load than their brothers on the other side. The natural slope of the street or road causes more of the load to rest upon the right side of the car. In addition, the natural tendency of the car to slide sideways because of the road slope must be counter-acted more by the tires on the right side than by those on the left.

AMERICANITIS AND GAS

The automobile offers such a convenient means of getting from one place to another quickly and inexpensively that the country is already carrying it to extremes. Restlessness has reached a high peak, and the great advantages of the motor car are being misused in an effort to keep moving.

Physical examination of seventy-five per cent of the folks who go out riding Sunday for pleasure would reveal complete fatigue. The bulk of the motoring population selects the most crowded boulevards and highways, breathing nothing but exhaust fumes, seeing nothing but spare tires and feeling nothing but "nerve jolts."

Resort hotels are losing what is known as the permanent guest, the person who spends his vacation in one place so that he can do one thing at a time and do it properly. The new habit is to travel as many miles as possible per day and visit as many resorts as there are days in the allotted time for vacation. It is a nerve-racking procedure that is not helping the business, social and physical life of the people of North America.

The fever to "move on" has reached such limits that motor tourists do not even wait for lunch at hotels, preferring to tear off 200 miles during the day rather than a modest and enjoyable 75 miles of driving in the afternoon.

Don't allow the clutch to engage suddenly.

PLANS ARE BEING CARRIED OUT TO MAKE INYO NATIONAL FOREST STATE'S BEST FISHING GROUNDS

Thousands of Trout Fry Are Being Planted Annually in the Lakes and the Streams of That Great High Sierra Angling Country

WORK BEING DONE BY BISHOP RAINBOW CLUB

Work of Club Has Backing of State Authorities—Yerby, an "Outer," Heads body, Which Is Making This Mountain Country Ideal for Camper

Plans are actually being carried out for making the high Sierra portions of Bishop and Inyo counties the finest fishing grounds in the state.

This will be very welcome news to the hundreds of motorist-anglers who live in Glendale and the surrounding towns and cities—including Los Angeles and the rest of the "suburbs."

Yearly dozens of motoring parties wend their ways northward into Bishop and Inyo counties in search of recreation. These cars, laden with camping paraphernalia, "grub" and a whole crew of happy souls, all hopeful of falling into a creek or lake or in some other way of getting wet, hit out through San Fernando, Newhall, Saugus and on to Mojave, and from there across the desert to the cities that rest quietly on the east side of the high Sierras.

These parties hit northward in search of three things— scenery, fresh air and— trout. They are not particularly "stuck on" the grind it takes to reach that country but before they start they know that when the High Sierras are reached, they will get everything they are looking for— and more of it than they expected.

In these high mountain sections of the two counties there is scenery aplenty—wonderful views and exquisite mountain colorings, such as would delight the heart of any scenery lover. There are lakes and streams that are literally teeming with trout, from the lock leven to the golden—from the mountain to the rainbow. Sometimes it takes a little skill to hook them, but it is this hard work that makes them worth while after all. And talk about fresh air—regular lung-filling mountain air, the kind that makes you want to "go back." This High Sierra country has lots of it—oceans of it, in fact, and it's free for the taking. This high mountain country is comparatively close to home, which fact makes it unusually desirable.

The fellow who has been there knows all about the trout.

The work that is being done to make this High Sierra country more desirable as a fishing ground is being accomplished by the Bishop Rainbow club, an organization that has been formed for the express purpose of stocking the streams and lakes of that district with trout of various kinds. And while this organization has its headquarters at Bishop, its members are numbered among anglers all over California, Nevada, Arizona and other nearby states. T. J. Yerby is president of this body. Next season he will take over the Hans Loaf Rock Supply store for motorists on the main highway from Bishop to Mammoth.

During the past year this organization planted in the various lakes and streams of its section the following quantities of trout fry: 10,000 eastern brook trout in Fish Slough, 20,000 in Lakes Geneva and Pancher, 70,000 loch leven in lower part of Owens River, 20,000 rainbow trout in Pine Creek, 20,000 in Bishhop Creek, 20,000 in Rock Creek, 30,000 in Hot Creek, 10,000 in Crooked Creek, 30,000 steelhead trout in South Lake, 30,000 in Lake Sabrina, 10,000 rainbow in north fork of Bishop Creek, additional 30,000 steel hea in South Lake, additional 30,000 in Lake Sabrina, 40,000 more in Crooked Creek, 40,000 steel head in Convict Lake, 26,000 in Twin Lakes and the creek, 30,000 in Skelton Lake and stream, 4000 in Keough's, 100,000 in Mono Ba-

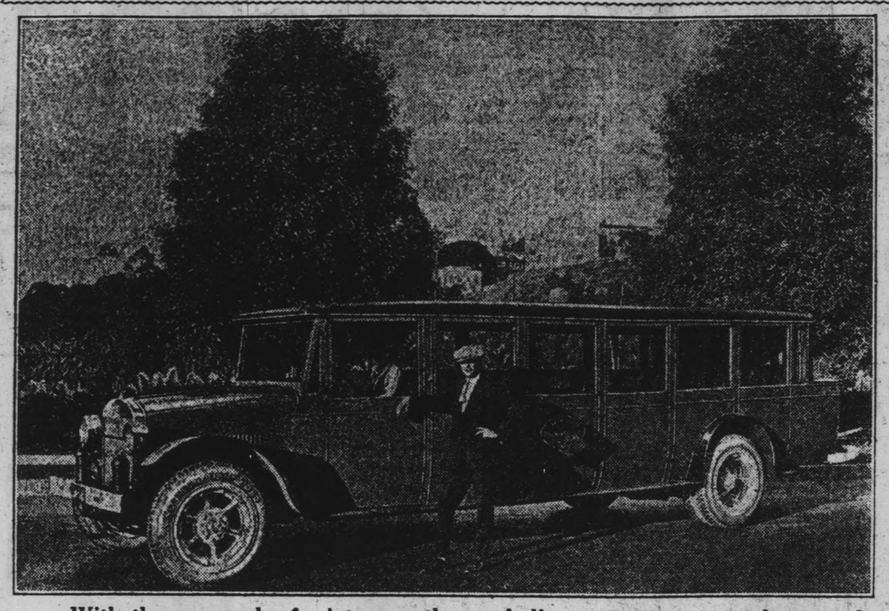
Western Cords Prove Efficient



With the approach of winter weather and slippery streets comes the appeal to drivers to equip their cars with non-skid devices. Here is one of a fleet of motor trucks that has entrusted the safety of its passengers to a set of 36x6 Western Giant cord tires from the Western Auto Supply company.

AUSTRALIA GETS BIG SHIPMENT OF HUPMOBILES

What is probably the largest single shipment of medium-priced automobiles ever sent abroad, left the factor of the Hupp Motor Car Corporation at Detroit recently, according to advices received by Bartlett & French, 111 West Harvard street, local Hupp dealers. There were 136 Hupmobiles in the shipment, consigned to the corporation's distributor at Melbourne, Australia.

The consignment, when laid down in Australia, represents approximately $250,000 worth of motor cars. Hupmobile's distributor in Melbourne, is one of the largest, if not the largest, concerns distributing motor cars of American make outside the United States.

"The Hupmobile has been a popular automobile in Australia and South Africa for many years, and all because of its ability to stand up under the roughest kind of usuage for a long terms of year," declared Mr. Bartlett this morning. "And in those countries the Hupp sells for about $1000 more than here because of transportation charges and export and import duties.

"It's the material and workmanship put into the Hupp that accounts for its wonderful reputation all over the world."

TO CLEAN RADIATOR THOROUGHLY

Drain the radiator. Dissolve one pound of washing soda in five gallons of water. Strain the mixture through a cloth and pour into the radiator; then run the engine for five minutes. Unscrew the plug from the bottom of the radiator and drain thoroughly. If there should be a petcock instead of a plug, unscrew the entire petcock, so that the sediment may run out freely. Then flush system with fresh water and run the engine while doing so. Be sure that all the solution is washed from the radiator and engine water jackets.

PRODUCTION FALLING OFF

Daily average crude oil production in California in October was 792,787 barrels, compared with 858,750 barrels in September.

CAREFUL DRIVING IN WINTER IS URGED

Drivers Should Have Means To Eliminate Skidding

A plea for the use of the right kind of equipment on automobiles to reduce the danger of skidding on wet pavements is again raised by officials, both of the law and of the various auto clubs in the state.

Some authorities in the East have contended that an automobile not equipped with adequate non-skid devices, driven on a wet, slushy street, was not under proper control. Their belief rapidly gained in public favor in fact received such hearty approval that the law soon took action in the matter to the extent of arresting violators whose cars had not been so equipped.

Although this may seem to be a strenuous measure to mete out to car owners, it is one that receives the stamp of approval of every motorist who advocates safety and careful driving in the public highway. Carelessness on the part of may drivers whose names fill the papers every morning following a rainy evening and night, have led many of the new car owners and timid drivers to believe that the only safe place for the car, during the rainy season or winter months, was in the garage.

"There is no reason why any motorist should dread to drive his car on wet streets, says C. H. Roudebush, local manager of the Western Auto Supply Company. "Of course, no driver should travel as fast on wet streets as he would on dry ones, but with a bit of foresight on his part when buying tires together with a little "common sense" when driving, will practically eliminate all skid dangers. Contrary to common belief it is as necessary to have good non-skid tires on the front wheels as well as on the rear, as the tread gives the right amount of traction for steering, and many of the automobile manufacturers are now using them as standard equipment all around.

Four wheel brakes on some of the late models demonstrates the tendency of the manufacturers to concentrate their efforts on a device that will aid in eliminating the skidding menace. Safety is the goal toward which all lines of automobile manufacturers are turning. Safety is the reason back of the instant success of our new Western Giant Cord tires—a tire which we sincerely believe will insure safety to winter driving and defy greasy pavements. How can a tire prevent skidding? After years of experimentation we have found that there is but one way to overcome this menace, and applying these rules we have built such a tire. This is the secret; a broad flat tread equipped with suction cups and square side bars, made in such a manner that the weight of the car compresses the rubber causing the cups to cling securely to the wettest of streets. The sharp edges of the tread prevent side slipping.

That the Western Giant Cord has met with instant approval among motorists is evidenced by the fact that many of the motor stages throughout the country have equipped their transports with our cords. Even on these heavy busses, like on the average touring car, the danger of accident, caused by skidding is reduced to a minimum," concluded Mr. Roudebush.

MANY AUTOS MADE HERE

From 1895 to 1923, American manufacturers produced more than 16,000,000 motor vehicles. Of the total, 80 per cent were manufactured and sold in the last seven years, 60 per cent in the last five year, and 16 per cent in 1922.

OLDSMOBILE SIX IS GIVEN GREAT RECEPTION HERE

For the frist time since the Oldsmobile Six was announced C. H. Hunter, 608-10 West Broadway, local dealer, is able to show more than one model of this car. A car load of Olds was received and unloaded Thursday and another carload will arrive in a few days. Most of these cars have already been sold for Christmas presents to people in Glendale, and will be delivered by Santa Claus in time for Tuesday morning. These cars will be on display until Monday afternoon.

Mr. Hunter says the demand for the new Six has been much greater than was expected, but as the factory has reached an output of 600 each day, he will be able to make deliveries fairly prompt.

Automobiles in the United States now consume nearly 6,000,000,000 gallons of gasoline a year. This amount of "gas" would fill a lake a mile deep and covering three and a half acres.

Auto Thieves Steal $100,000,000 in Cars in 1922

ONE DARK night last year a small auto truck was driven into the alley behind the Philadelphia branch of the largest manufacturers of automobile ignition locks in the country. There was a quick manipulation of keys, handled expertly, and a back door of the establishment was open. A large folded sheet of cardboard was handed from the car, and taken inside.

The cardboard, when unfolded, was an exact reproduction of the safe which stood under lights in plain view of the front window. It was but the work of seconds to set it up as a screen in front of the safe, and a safe cracker went to work on the combination in comparative security from interruption. In the meantime his companions unbolted a machine weighing hundreds of pounds from its moorings in the dark recesses at the back of the shop and carried it out to their truck.

There was an almost unnoticeable explosion as the safe, which had proved stubborn, was blown; a hasty sorting of its contents; and the cracksman, disregarding apparent valuables, carried a heavy volume out to the car, which was driven rapidly away.

Thus was perpetrated one of the most daring and disturbing robberies in the history of American crime.

Master's Rich Haul

It was aimed at no petty loot, such as two or three million dollars in bonds or currency. It was intended to place at the mercy of the criminal element of the country automobiles with a value of hundreds of millions of dollars.

The machine stolen was one of a half dozen in the United States used in making keys to the ignition locks on 80 per cent of the high grade automobiles manufactured. The book bought in the safe contained the code letters and numbers of each of these locks. Simply by looking at the number on the lock of any of these cars and tracing down that number in the code book, keys duplicating the owner's could be manufactured.

Possession of these keys would not only make the actual stealing of these cars more simple, but would aid the organized bands of thieves greatly in disposing of stolen cars without suspicion.

This whole ingenious plot, to which the best brains of the criminal profession had evidently been dedicated, failed because a clerk in the ignition lock establishment disobeyed orders. Strict instructions had been issued that the code book, with its almost incalculable value, should always be locked in the safe when not in use. This had been locked for the night when this clerk, working late, went to put it back. Fearful of a reprimand for not having replaced it earlier, he did not telephone one of the heads of the establishment to return and open the safe, but trusted to luck to get it back next day without observation, and tucked it on a high shelf. Luck was not only with him, but with the establishment and the country's automobile owners. The "code book" which the thieves blew open the safe to obtain turned out to be an accessory catalogue.

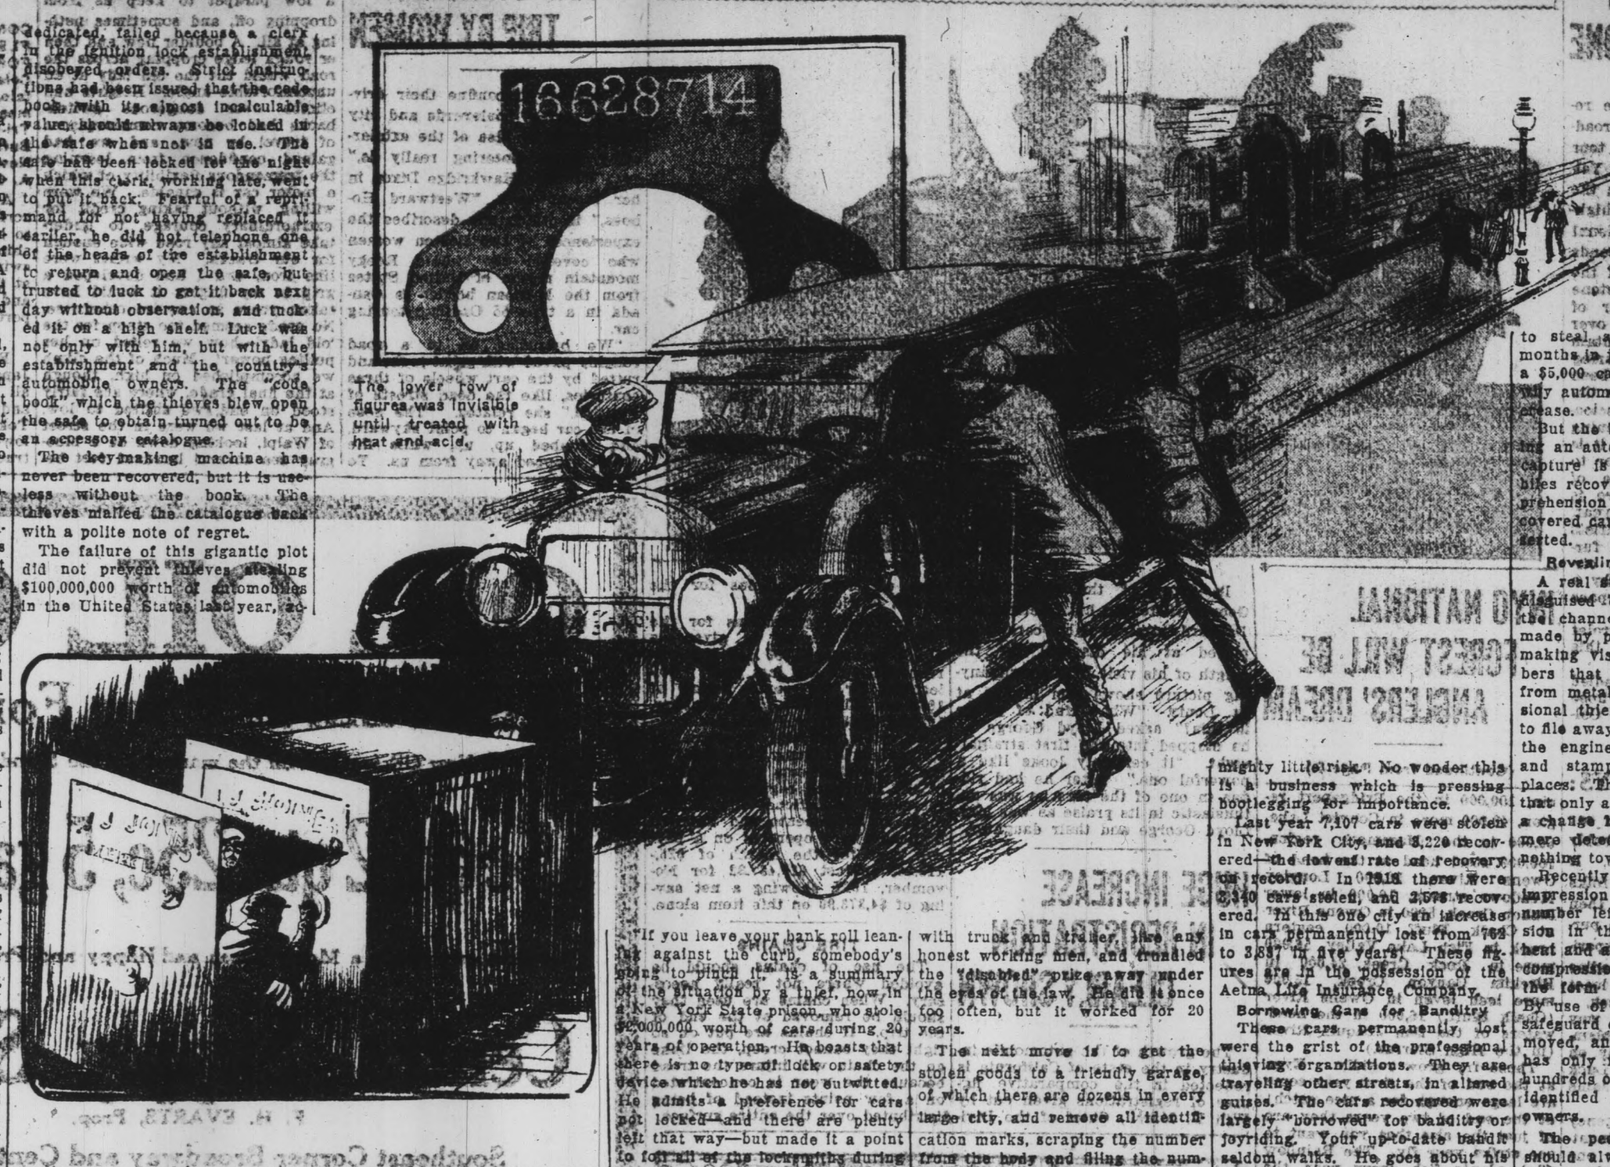
The key-making machine has never been recovered, but it is useless without the book. The thieves mailed the catalogue back with a polite note of regret.

The failure of this gigantic plot did not prevent thieves stealing $100,000,000 worth of automobiles in the United States last year, according to a careful computation made by the statistical department of the Aetna Life Insurance Company,—a figure which is increasing at a rate which staggers the imagination.

Motor Thefts Increasing

The police, despite splendid efforts, are unable to cope with the situation. Automobiles, and those who acquire them by other than lawful means, are increasing out of all proportion to the increase in police departments. As the number of cars which each policeman must guard grows larger, the number stolen mounts and the percentage recovered dwindles.

There has been a tenfold increase in automobiles in ten years. This year will see 3,500,000 automobiles manufactured. As compared to such growth, police departments are almost stationary.



The lower row of figures was invisible until treated with heat and acid.

If you leave your bank roll leaning against the curb somebody's going to pinch it," is a summary of the situation by a thief, now in a New York State prison, who stole $2,000,000 worth of cars during 20 years of operation. He boasts that there is no type of lock or safety device which he has not outwitted. He admits a preference for cars not locked—and there are plenty left that way—but made it a point to foil all of the locksmiths during his career, just as a matter of professional pride.

Laugh at Locksmiths

Gasoline feed pipe locks, steering wheel locks, chained wheels, transmission locks—they are all simple to the experienced mail thieves. When he took a fancy to a particular car, protected by half a dozen or so assorted locks, his crew of huskies drew alongside with truck and trailer, like any honest working men, and trundled the "disabled" prize away under the eyes of the law. He did it once too often, but it worked for 20 years.

The next move is to get the stolen goods to a friendly garage, of which there are dozens in every large city, and remove all identification marks, scraping the number from the body and filing the number from the engine. New numbers are impressed over the old with steel dies, the body refinished and tires changed, possibly, and the car is ready for market. If of a common make it is often sold where stolen. In consequence, it is shipped elsewhere. In rare cases stolen cars have been sold back to the owners.

A small investment, a quick turnover, and a big profit, with mighty little risk. No wonder this is a business which is pressing bootlegging for importance.

Last year 7,107 cars were stolen in New York City, and 5,220 recovered—the lowest rate of recovery on record. In 1918 there were 2,340 cars stolen, and 2,078 recovered. In this one city an increase in cars permanently lost from 762 to 3,887 in five years. These figures are in the possession of the Aetna Life Insurance Company.

Borrowing Cars for Banditry

These cars permanently lost were the grist of the professional thieving organizations. They are traveling other streets, in altered guises. The cars recovered were largely "borrowed" for banditry or joyriding. Your up-to-date bandit seldom walks. He goes about his business in somebody else's gasoline buggy. In the tracks in which he engages his license number is frequently taken, and this clue is of course run down, leading to John Smith, banker and church member. Smith's car is found by a roadside, usually the worse for wear.

It used to be a penitentiary offense—in some sections an offense rewarded with informal hanging—to steal a boy horse, now six months in jail is heavy for stealing a $5,000 car. That is one reason why automobile theft is on the increase.

But the big reason is that stealing an automobile is so easy, and capture is so unlikely. Automobiles recovered does not mean apprehension of the thieves. The recovered cars are almost always deserted.

Reversing Erased Numbers

A real step toward detection of disguised cars, turned back into the channels of trade, has been made by perfecting a process for making visible identification numbers that have been filed away from metal surfaces. The professional thief's first step is always to file away the numbers placed on the engine by the manufacturer and stamp new ones in their places. This is done so skilfully that only an expert can detect that a change has been made, and the mere detection of a change does nothing toward identifying the car.

Recently it was found that the impression by die of the original number left an invisible compression in the metal. By applying heat and acids to the surface, this compression was made visible in the form of the original figures. By use of this method the surest safeguard of the thief has been removed, and although the method has only recently come into use, hundreds of cars have already been identified and returned to their owners.

The pedigree of a used car should always be traced by the prospective buyer. The man selling the car may be honest, but over or two steps back of him a thief may lurk.

Bringing to justice the men who are getting rich in this business is the duty of every citizen. The police can't do it all. They have too much else to do. The first step is for the driver of the car who wishes to be as careful as the thief to hold as positive as possible

OVERLAND 'CHAMP' IS GIVEN BIG SEND-OFF

Unusual Features of This Car Make It Favorite

Ownership of this year's best gift to motorists in its luxuries and the manyfold transportation uses to which it may be put—the new Overland Champion—has made many a household a home sweet home by day and night.

Would you perk up your troubles, equipment and hunting dogs these crisp autumn days in fifty cubic feet of space, right inside of your car and hie to the bush where the drumming of the partridge lulls dull care? Would you, when night comes down on a busy day with your twelve gauge, remove both the front and rear seat of your car with the upholstery and make up a luxurious bed occupying the whole length and width of the coach—and sleep peacefully and undisturbed?

This latest and wonderfully versatile innovation fresh from the Willys-Overland factory at Toledo enables one to do all these things and call every family outing a success.

This unique car like its big brother the Willys-Knight coupe-sedan, has doors both front and rear; is finished inside in Spanish long grained washable upholstery; is powered with the larger Overland engine built in the Willys-Overland shops and built on the standard Overland chassis that assures strength and safety. The body of all steel construction cradled on the famous triplex springs, contains some of the most interesting and useful innovations seen in closed car design in many a long day.

For instance the front seat is adjustable to three different positions. A tall driver can adjust this seat to permit his driving comfortably, without leg cramp, while the short driver has been taken care of by being able to move the seat forward so that he can reach without stretching, the foot pedals. Even when the tall driver has arranged to suit himself with the seat moved back, the passengers in the rear seat are not cramped, the least inconvenienced as the rear seat is also adjustable and can be moved back to avoid crowding.

The Smith-Sloan, Inc., 226 South Broad, local dealers of the Willys-Knight and Overland cars, reports an unusual number of orders recently for the Overland Champion.

Registrations of motor vehicles in the United States have increased from 3,512,996 in 1916 to 13,082,427 on July 1, 1923.

WOMEN ARE NOW SAFEST DRIVERS

Women win again. They have proved they are still the gentler sex.

Leading scientists and boulevardiers agreed long ago that the female of the species is more deadly than the male.

Leading automobile men and statisticians take issue with this dictum, however.

In view of safety statistics just compiled, it appears incontrovertible that women are much safer drivers and walkers than men.

This deduction was made possible by the work of the Chicago Safety Council covering traffic incidents in Cook county, Ill., for 1922. Their findings caused surprise, but they stood by their records during the first six months of 1923 there were 304 fatal deaths in Chicago and Cook county. Of this number 137 were pedestrians.

Only seven women drivers were involved in the 137 cases. The total number of women affected was seventy, while 130 men were involved.

An axle without protection is sure destruction to its bearings.

NEW SIX MAKES WONDERFUL HIT HERE THIS WEEK

The car of secret that has prevailed at the Kelley Motor company, 230 North Brand, salesrooms for below was unsurpassed Thursday, when the reason for the mysterious action of the salesmen and officials was revealed to be the new Essex. It is a six cylinder car built under Hudson super-six patents and features a larger, roomier coach.

"If a nut-shell description of the new Essex is required," said Porter Kelley, when interviewed, "the following might fill the bill.

"The new Essex six combines all the reliability and stamina of the previous car, plus a smooth flow of power heretofore exclusive to the Hudson Super-six. The new Essex measures up in every respect to the traditional Hudson policy of providing a product of outstanding merit. In this new car may be found the results of all the lessons which Hudson has learned from the Essex and from the super-six."

There are two models, an open body of sporting, low-hung appearance, and a finer, larger Essex coach which is an entirely new and exclusive product in the motor field.

In the new coach, there is over six inches more leg space between the front and rear seats than in the previous model. This affords real seat comfort on even the longest drives. There is two inches additional head room above the front seat. On the open car, the top is actually only 5 feet 10½ inches above the ground at its highest point and the front of the top is so low that a man of average height can look directly over it. The coach is built in proportion, and is a remarkable trim, low-hung smart appearing car.

This lowness is obtained in an ingenius manner, and does not sacrifice road clearance. A new principle in the mounting of bodies is involved. It is a highly important factor in bettering the general lines of the car and in lowering the center of gravity, thus improving the riding qualities.

PRESIDENT UNVEILS MILESTONE

An electrical impulse released by the hand of President Coolidge on a telegraph key in the White House offices late November 17, sped across the continent and in San Diego, Calif., a milestone marking the western terminus of the Lee highway was unveiled. The late President Harding was to have performed the unveiling ceremony last Augu—narrow portions of the road, the whole to be covered with a two-inch surfacing of bituthic pavement.

Announcement of the proposed improvement has just been made by R. M. Morton, State highway engineer, and Col. Ed Fletcher, local road authority, and both say the contracts will be let at once and the work pushed to completion as rapidly as possible.

Among other work to be done will be the grading of a number of miles on the Truckee River route between Auburn and the Nevada State line; work on the Redwood Highway north of Eureka to make a connection with the Oregon State highway to Grant's Pass.

Other similar work will be undertaken where the need appears most urgent because of traffic conditions and the necessity for saving old pavements from destruction.

It is estimated that the State's share of the gasoline tax and the motor vehicle fees will be at least $7,500,000 for 1924, which is 50 per cent in excess of present revenues for maintenance and reconstruction. The commission will receive its first allotment from the gasoline tax in May, 1924.

Funds for primary construction, as distinguished from maintenance and rebuilding for which the gasoline tax is specifically reserved by law, consist largely of uncollected Federal aid allotments.

Surveys and plans are under way for considerable work on the main trunk lines in accordance with the announced policy of the highway commission and the engineering department.

NEW ROAD BUILT IN VERY HEART OF YELLOWSTONE

Government engineers have recently completed a feat in road-building that has opened to tourists still greater wonders in Yellowstone National Park. It is the construction of an excellent highway to the summit of Mount Washburn which towers thousands of feet above the brink of the marvelously colored Yellowstone river canyon. For a number of years a highway has existed over the lower slopes of the mountain and visitors to the park numbering hundreds of thousands have been thrilled at the scenic wonders the motor trip over this route disclosed to them, but with the opening of the newest section of road it is possible for the average motor to reach the very topmost rise of Mount Washburn where there is snow practically 12 months a year. For the convenience of tourists who would pause at the top, further to revel in the view, a circular parking area enclosed by a sturdy stone fence affords space for a number of cars.

Fred Engle, of Utah, a Chevrolet tourist, made the trip up this mountain a short time ago.

The sturdy "Chevie" is handled in Glendale by C. L. Smith, whose salesrooms are at Orange and Colorado.

OLD MECHANIC SAYS:

"Moderation in remedies for car trouble is somethin' you probably haven't thought about before. If you're like the rest of the folks who hear strange noises and then go snoopin' under the hood in pursuit of them you doubtless experiment with a half dozen remedies in quick succession, hopin' at least one of 'em will turn the trick.

"This is sometimes a quick way of solvin' the immediate problem, but it may mean a long tie-up on the road at some later date. Luck never strikes twice in the same place.

"A large portion of emergency repairin' is necessarily experimental, but you must learn to try one remedy at a time, for if you do a half dozen jobs at once it will be impossible to tell just which remedy pulled you out of trouble. If the trouble comes your way again you'll be up against it.

"I saw a good illustration of this the other day. A driver noticed that his engine was heatin' up and plainly heard a puzzlin', rattlin' noise at the front of the engine. In an effort to remedy the trouble as quickly as possible he filled up the radiator with water, oiled everything in sight, tightened the fan belt and even changed the position of the third brush on the generator in the belief that it might be improperly adjusted. Of course the trouble disappeared, but he'll never know that the real remedy was the mere addition of water. His engine was overheatin' for lack of water, and the steam in the system was trying to escape around the pump, thus rattlin' the shaft. Had he tried one remedy at a time he'd be in a position to know what to do the next time this happens."

INYO NATIONAL FOREST WILL BE ANGLERS' DREAM

sin, 100,000 in the Bridgeport region, 40,000 more in Convict Lake, 60,000 in the Mammoth region, 100,000 steel head at the head of Owens River, 10,000 Longley Meadows stream, 10,000 in lower Bishop Creek, 5000 in Owens River at Chalk Bluff, 10,000 eastern brook in Fish Lake Valley, 56,000 more in Rock Creek, 24,000 in Birchim Canyon Creek, 15,000 more loch leven in Owens River (Chalk Bluff,) 16,000 in the headwaters of the San Joaquin River (in the High Sierras.)

These fry grow rapidly. Even at the end of the first year some are large enough for a nice catch; at the end of two years they are of just the size that you want to see strike your fly. The Rainbow Club plants fish every year, the fish also multiply greatly in number, so you can see that the club means just what they say when they tell you to come up here and fish, the more you catch, the more fish there are.

The Bishop Rainbow Club receives the strong support of the State Fish and Game Commission and also co-operation from the United States Forest Service, Inyo and Mono county, besides a host of individual lovers of fishing from Los Angeles to San Francisco, as well as from outside States. The Inyo National Forest as a summer vacation, sports and fishing region is becoming more highly prized by many thousands of tourists and campers each year. It is estimated very closely by the club that 75,000 fishermen from Southern California motored to the Inyo region this past summer for the trout fishing in the high mountain lakes and streams. Most of these fishermen were from Los Angeles.

The city of Los Angeles and the United States Forest Service expect to complete their road into the magnificent Rock Creek lakes region next summer. This will make a hitherto closed region, open to the motorist.

This High Sierra region is of such vast expanse that you could tuck all the thousands of tourists away up a couple of canyons and never know they were there.

One function of the Bishop Rainbow Club is to direct motorist-anglers to dependable fishing grounds.

MAXWELL MAKES REAL XMAS GIFT

"The holiday season usually brings an increase in business to the automobile dealers. Many automobiles have been delivered this year in Glendale as Christmas gifts and we, as Maxwell-Chalmers dealers, feel that we have been very fortunate in getting our share of this business," said Lyman P. Clark of the Glendale Motor Car company, 124 West Colorado street, Maxwell and Chalmers dealers.

"It has been an unusually prosperous year in Glendale. Many bonuses are to be paid employes and business houses are going to declare dividends larger than ever. All of this will stimulate the automobile market. Southern California motor dealers anticipate the lragest automobile business in 1924 that they have ever had.

"The Maxwell closed car makes an ideal Christmas gift," said Lyman P. Clark. "The cost of the car is in the reach of everybody; it has the lines and appearance of the higher-priced automobiles; it has the body room, easy riding and comfort found only in higher-priced cars."

KEEP THE WINDSHIELD CLEAR

The following formula has been found useful in keeping the windshield clear in wet weather: One dram of sodium chloride (common salt), one ounce of water, and two ounces of glycerine. Place a little of this solution on a piece of gauze, and wipe over the glass in a thin layer, using a downward stroke.

To keep the windshield clear in rainy weather, try rubbing a sliced onion over the glass, using an up and down stroke.

In many of the cities Lloyd George visited on his American trip Packard straight-eight cars were placed at his disposal for the length of his visit. The accompanying picture shows him in one at St. Louis. "What kind of a car is this?" asked Lloyd George as he stepped into the first straight-eight. "It certainly looks like a powerful one." After he had ridden in one of the cars he was enthusiastic in its praise as was Mrs. Lloyd George and their daughter.

HUGE INCREASE IN REGISTRATION CLEARLY SHOWN

The growth of the automobile industry in the state of California is reflected in the comparative figures of registrations given out by Will H. Marsh, Chief of the Division of Motor Vehicles for the month of November.

The total registrations for the month just passed is given as 65,981 against 48,730 for the corresponding month last year. Collections for the same period of 1923 are $115,356.99. In November, 1922, $87,945.27 was collected.

Carrying out the program of Richardson economy, the chief of the division reports that in spite of the increased registrations and increased collections, the department at Sacramento and the five branches were operated on a payroll cost for the month of $25,113.36, against $29,487.32 for November, 1922, showing a net saving of $4,373.96 on this item alone.

TIRE CHAINS

The use of chains should be avoided where not really necessary. When chains are used they should be removed at the end of the trip. If chains are put on so tight they cannot creep, the links on the chain will injure the tread because the wear is concentrated on a few points instead of being distributed over the entire surface.

Long service and satisfactory operation depends largely on HOW a car is cared for and driven. This is the first of a short series of articles by an expert automobile engineer, who shows you how to care for and drive your car.

Your New Car

There is usually not a great deal of difference between the small boy and his new toy, and a man and his new car. The small boy loses interest in his toy, and it soon lies neglected and broken. Some owners are that way with their car after the first few weeks. When they take delivery of their car they are enthusiastic and hardly allow a speck of dust to settle on its glossy body. Generally the whole family beg to be allowed to help in oiling, washing and greasing it. In fact, the President of the United States does not receive half as much attention and care as does a new car the first few weeks.

When you took delivery of your car and drove it away from the dealer, you felt justly proud of it. The unfortunate part of it, is that sometimes, owing to ignorance on the part of the owner as to the proper care and attention to give the car, the finish soon begins to look dull and lifeless—and small troubles develop. The finish on the average car sold today will, if given proper care, keep its lustre for twelve months or more, and if trouble or replacements are required (barring accidents) before the car has been driven at least 10,000 miles, you can be quite certain that it is not the fault of the car, but YOUR fault in neglecting to do something that you SHOULD have done, or in trying to make some adjustments—or doing something that you should NOT have touched.

How to Keep Your Car Out of the Repair Shop

Looking after a car and keeping it in first-class condition—and OUT OF THE REPAIR SHOP, is a matter of knowing just what to do, and the RIGHT WAY TO DO IT. Experience is a GOOD teacher, but she charges high fees. In other words, if you have owned two or three cars, you will have gained a lot of valuable experience. But in the learning, you have spent a lot of money with the repair man for tuition fees. Take such a simple matter as "washing" a car! Unless you have been told, you will probably leave the nozzle on the hose, and use quite a pressure when hosing down. If there is very much mud on the body, and the car happens to be fairly new, you will probably find, when the body is dried off, that you have a nasty dull spot where the mud was. When you turned the hose on the mud, you simply drove the grit and dirt into the varnished surface and ruined the beautiful lustre. You, perhaps, did not know that the proper thing to do was to take the nozzle off the hose, and allow the water to flow over the body gently, softening the mud and allowing it to float off.

It's very simple doing a thing right, IF YOU KNOW JUST HOW TO DO IT! During the next few weeks I will show you just WHAT to do when you take delivery of your car—what attention to give it—and how to operate and drive it. If you follow these instructions they will enable you to get longer service and more satisfaction—and get MORE money for it than the average owner gets for his car when the time comes for him to sell it.

Read Your Instruction Book Carefully

Unless you have had a car of the same make and model before, the first thing you should do after driving it home is to take out the instruction book and go over it page by page and examine each part as it is described. In this way, you will quickly familiarize yourself with the various parts, where grease cups and oilers are located, etc.

Examine the Tool Kit

Take out the tools and look them over! Some manufacturers provide a fine kit—but others, I am sorry to say, supply only those that are absolutely necessary. For instance,—they will supply one large adjustable wrench, and perhaps two or three set wrenches, whereas a good kit should have a set wrench for every important nut and bolt on the car. Try out the various tools and wrenches and make certain that you have one for the different sized nuts and bolts. There are usually a few tools and wrenches made specially by the manufacturer to fit certain parts. Among these might be mentioned the wheel cap wrench, the pump wrench, starting handle, etc. Whatever you do, put these tools in a safe place, for if they get lost they are usually costly and difficult to replace.

"CAD" IS USED FOR OVERLAND TRIP BY WOMEN

"People who confine their driving to perfect boulevards and city roads have no idea of the exhilarating game motoring really is," says Winifred Hawkridge Dixon in her recent book, "Westward Hoboes," in which she describes the experiences of two Boston women who covered the whole Rocky mountain region of United States from the Mexican border to Canada in a type 55 Cadillac touring car.

"We branched on to a road roughly paved with great rocks and rutted by the cart wheels of three centuries, like the dead streets of Pompeii," she relates. "The nose of the car began to point skyward, and climbed up, up, while the desert dropped away from us. To go over that road once is an experience, but I should not care to repeat it often. It wound up the side of the mesa, with sometimes a low parapet to keep us from dropping off, and sometimes nothing at all. A boulder now and then or rough ledge cropping across the road would tilt the old lady at an uncomfortable angle. Heights and climbs over dangerous switchbacks had become commonplaces of travel by now, and we had gained confidence from learning the tremendous flexibility of which a motor car is capable. We were willing, without taking credit for extraordinary courage, to undertake almost any road wide enough for our tracks. My wrists were like iron, and I had developed a grip in my fingers it would have taken years to acquire otherwise. No grade seemed too steep for the 'old lady'—how we relied on her pulling power! Much of the climb we accomplished on high, though at the final grade, where she fairly stood on end, we shifted to low. And at last we were in the street of Walpi, looking down on a blue-gray sea several hundred feet below us, and surrounded by a group of interested natives."

THE REPUBLICAN PARTY

A Brief History

By FRANK P. LITSCHERT

THE DAWN OF A NEW POLITICAL ERA

In the year 1854 numerous meetings were called in various communities of the North to protest against the enactment of the Kansas-Nebraska bill. In many of them suggestions were made that a new political party, designated to curb the spread of slavery ought to be organized. Many of these have since been characterized as "Republican" meetings, and this has led to some disagreement among historians as to the exact date and birthplace of the Republican party.

One of the first of these meetings was held in the Congregational church at Ripon, Fond du Lac county, Wisconsin, February 28, 1854. A resolution was adopted pledging those present to sever their allegiance from the old political parties in case the Kansas-Nebraska bill passed, and organize a new one to be known as the Republican party.

The bill passed the Senate and a second meeting was called at Ripon by Major Alvan E. Bovay, this time in the school house. The town committees of the Whig and Free Soil parties were dissolved and a committee of five, including three Whigs, one Free Soiler and one Democrat, was appointed to start the formation of a new party. This probably was the first systematic work performed to bring about a fusion of the anti-slavery parties of the north into one organization.

A New Party

In Washington, D. C., on May 9th of the same year, the day after the House of Representatives had begun work on the Kansas-Nebraska bill Israel Washburn, a congressman from Maine, called together thirty representatives in the rooms of Congressmen Eliot and Dickinson of Massachusetts. These men agreed that the only hope of checking the slave power lay in the organization of a new party for which the name Republican would be highly appropriate.

During the spring of 1854 a number of meetings were held in Michigan by men of all parties. In these resolutions were adopted denouncing the Kansas-Nebraska bill and the organization of a new party was freely suggested.

The Free Democrats of Michigan had nominated a state ticket on February 22. A few weeks later at a mass meeting held in Kalamazoo this ticket was withdrawn. Shortly afterward a call was issued for a convention of the opponents of slavery extension to be held at Jackson on July 6th. This was undoubtedly the first Republican convention to be held in the United States, and the following description of the event is from the Life of Zachariah Chandler, published by the Detroit Post and Tribune:

"The response to this appeal was the gathering at Jackson on a bright midsummer day of hundreds of influential men from all parts of Michigan, representing every shade of anti-slavery feeling, and thoroughly alive to the importance of the occasion and the difficulty of the task projected. The convention far outstripped in numbers the preparations for its accommodation, and after filling to excess the largest hall in the town, it adjourned to meet in a beautiful oak grove, situated between the village and the county race course, on a tract of land then known as Morgan's Forty. The growth of Jackson has since covered this historic ground with buildings, and the spacious grove has dwindled to a few scattered oaks shading the city's busy streets.

"A rude platform erected for the speakers was appropriated by the officers of the convention, and about it thronged a mass of earnest men, the vanguard of the Republican host. In a body so incongruous and unwieldy, confused purposes, discordant views, and conflicting interests were unavoidable, but the universal fervor of the fusion sentiment formed a broad foundation for harmonious action, and the convention did not lack for shrewd and sagacious political managers with the skill to direct earnest effort into practical channels. Such differences of opinion as there were on questions of policy and as to candidates exhausted themselves in private conferences and secret committee deliberations, and the convention itself did its business, with promptness, without discord, and amid a genuine enthusiasm.

"It temporary chairman was the Honorable Levi Baxter of Jonesville, a pioneer settler of Southern Michigan and the founder of a family of marked prominence in that state. He was well known as the master spirit of many important business enterprises, had been a Whig and then a Free Soiler, and had been elected to the state senate by a coalition of both these parties in his own county."

Walbridge and Howard

The permanent chairman of the convention was David S. Walbridge, a prominent merchant of Central Michigan, and an exceedingly active and earnest Whig. His selection was a tribute to the important Whig element in the convention. The chairman of the resolutions committee was Jacob M. Howard of Detroit, a noted lawyer of highest integrity, who had been the first Whig congressman from Michigan and afterward was elected Republican United States senator from that state. He had prepared an advance draft of the platform and it was adopted by the convention substantially as written.

The resolutions set forth that the institution of slavery except in punishment for crime was a great moral, social and political evil; that the law of nature which was the law of liberty gave no one man rights superior to those of another. They denounced the repeal of the Missouri compromise by the enactment of the Kansas-Nebraska bill, and the attempt so to extend slave territory and charged that this was an open and undisguised breach of faith on the part of the South as contracted in the settlement of the Missouri question in 1820. They demanded the repeal of the statute and also of the fugitive slave law and advocated the enactment of a law to abolish slavery in the District of Columbia.

The resolutions then continued:

"Resolved, that postponing and suspending all differences with regard to political economy or administrative policy, in view of the imminent danger that Kansas and Nebraska will be grasped by slavery, and a thousand miles of slave soil be thus interposed between the free states of the Atlantic and those of the Pacific, we will act cordially and faithfully in unison to avert and repeal this gigantic wrong and shame.

"Resolved, that in view of the necessity of battling for the first principles of Republican government, and against the schemes of an aristocracy, the most revolting and oppressive with which the earth was ever cursed, or man debased, we will co-operate and be known as REPUBLICANS until the contest be terminated.

"Resolved, that we earnestly recommend the calling of a general convention of the free states, and such of the slave holding states or portions thereof, as may desire to be there represented, with a view to the adoption of other more extended and effectual measures in resistance to the encroachments of slavery; and that a committee of five persons be appointed to correspond and co-operate with our friends in other states on the subject."

Full State Ticket

The resolutions were adopted almost unanimously and a full state ticket was nominated.

In this unpretentious way and under these rather humble circumstances was born the political party which was destined to lead the movement for the perservation of the Union and to reconstruct the nation after four years of bloody civil war, until the United States of America should become the freest, the most prosperous and most powerful nation in the world.

At first some of the more timid ones in the North doubted the wisdom of breaking away from the old parties, but the response of the masses of the people not only in Michigan but all over the North, to the action of the Jackson convention was both spontaneous and cordial.

New England joined the movement. A convention was held in Vermont on July 17 and a resolution adopted urging the "friends of freedom in other states to cooperate and be known as Republicans." A delegation to a national convention was chosen and it consisted of one Free Soiler, three Whigs and one anti-slavery Democrat.

The Republican party of Maine was born on August 7 when a convention was held in the town of Strong. A convention was held in Worcester, Massachusetts, on July 20, and resolutions similar to those of the Jackson meeting were adopted. A convention which nominated a Republican state ticket was held in Worcester on September 7.

Its neighboring Western states were not far behind Michigan. A state convention of anti-slavery men was held at Columbus, Ohio, on July 13, although the name Republican was not adopted until the next year. On the same date men opposed to the extension of slavery met at Madison, Wisconsin, and declared by resolution that they would "accept the issue forced upon us by the slave power, and in defense of freedom cooperate and be known as Republicans."

Old Parties Crumbling

Many so-called Anti-Nebraska meetings were held in New York and other northern states. It soon became evident that the old Whig, the Know-Nothing and Free Soil parties were crumbling. As Curtis in his "History of the Republican Party" has aptly said: "It can almost be said that the Republican party founded itself. The movement once formed became irresistible."

State tickets were run by the Republicans in 1854 in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Michigan, Wisconsin and Maine, while in 1855 in addition, straight Republican state tickets were run in New York, Vermont and Massachusetts.

The Republicans elected their state ticket in Michigan in 1854 including three of the four congressmen and had an overwhelming majority in both branches of the legislature and Michigan has been Republican ever since. The entire Republican ticket was successful in Wisconsin, too, while the anti-Nebraska men elected five of nine congressmen in Illinois and made gains in many other states. The thirty-fourth congress which met December 3, 1855, contained 15 Republicans, 42 Democrats and 5 members of the Know-Nothing party in the Senate and in the House 117 so-called anti-Nebraska men, practically all of whom later found their way into the Republican party, as against 79 Democrats and 37 pro-slavery Whigs.

While the state elections in 1855 were not so favorable to the new party, the Republicans of Ohio completed their organization that year and elected Salmon P. Chase governor by 15,000 majority over the Democratic ticket.

The new Republican element in the Thirty-Fourth Congress immediately made itself felt. It elected Nathaniel P. Banks, speaker of the House of Representatives. Banks had been a Democrat and then a member of the Know-Nothing party, which elected him to Congress. But he presided over the Republican convention at Worcester and has been called by the historians, the first Republican Speaker of the National Congress.

EDITORIALS BY THE PEOPLE

December 21, 1923.

To the Editor
Glendale Daily Press.

At the recent mass meeting regarding the sewer bonds, which we attended in order to become better posted on both sides of the question, a request for a debate on the subject was made by Mr. Knox.

I know of others, besides myself, who will not vote for the sewer bonds unless they are given an opportunity to hear both sides. It isn't a question of whether we want the sewer or not. We all want sewers, but they must be secured in the right way.

It will certainly be to the interest of all concerned if an open mass meeting can be arranged, as I am sure most people want to vote right. Nothing will kill an issue quicker than to have the people feel there is something withheld and the last meeting would certainly give one that impression.

We will all welcome another meeting and hope you will do what you can in this respect.

"SMILIN' THROUGH" IN LAST SHOWING THIS EVENING

The beautiful play "Smilin' Through," which has made such a hit at the Club theatre, corner Lexington and Central avenue, will be given for the last time tonight, and Glendalians who miss it will indeed miss a treat.

The Royal Stock company has proven itself an admirable organization and most all persons who witnessed "Smilin' Through" this week have ordered seats for "Pollyanna" which will be the second offering of the company.

Edythe Elliott, the talented leading lady, is already a prime favorite and her performance of the little "Glad Girl" will just fit into the Christmas spirit.

The Royal Stock company will be host tonight to the movie actors of the Christie comedies but there will be plenty of good seats left for local theatre goers who wish to see "Smilin' Through."

GLADYS WALTON IS A REPORTER IN "THE WILD PARTY"

Gladys Walton, the clever little Universal star, so well established in the film world as a portrayer of "flapper" roles, is the center of interest in one of the cleverest farce comedies of her screen career, in "The Wild Party," playing today at the Glendale Theatre. She plays the part of a society reporter who writes a story that brings about a $100,000 libel suit, and a marriage. The story was written by Marion Orth and directed by Herbert Blache.

Descendants and survivors of a tribe of Cree Indians who participated in one of the most famous massacres of pioneer settlers was employed by David Smith, noted Vitagraph director, in making the massacre scenes in "Pioneer Trails," his super-production which will be shown at the Glendale Theatre Sunday. Chief Three Bears, who led the Indian attack of former years, supervised the work of the newer generation in his tribe in order that the attack be accurately portrayed. Alice Calhoun and Cullen Landis will be seen in the leading roles in this photodrama.

A taxi was standing on a cab stand with the front of the cab almost on the crossing. The driver was sitting on the seat waiting patiently for a fare. He had been waiting two hours.

A man was crossing the road deep in mediation when suddenly he caught sight of the cab. He jumped, glared at the driver for a moment and then exclaimed: "Why don't you blow your horn?"

In interviewing a Bengal baboo who was applying for the position of clerk the employer asked him for his full name.

"Sir, it is Sencanath Bannerjee Payar," replied the baboo.

"Oh! I can't call you all that," said the Englishman.

"Sir, it is unnecessary. If you call me Rose I shall smell as sweet."

JAMES W. FOLEY

WHO WALKS ALONE

One time I was in trouble and he laid a friendly hand
With firmness on my shoulder and he seemed to understand;
He said no word or question, nor he asked what it might be,
But he linked his arm with my arm and he walked along with me.
And he seemed so strong and friendly, and so well to understand
That the trouble of me lightened with the laying of his hand.

He walked with me and talked with me and somehow let me know
That whatever ill might come to me he would not let me go.
And with the nearness of him and the friendliness and word,
I felt the warmth of strength through all my troubled being stirred.
It was not that he spoke to me but only that he led
My soul to newer courage by the words he left unsaid.

And often have I thought of it and often have I known
The gladness of the friendly hand to him who walks alone;
For he may be in trouble and the friendliness of me
May bring him out of darkness and from fear may set him free.
And often I remember how he seemed to understand,
And the trouble of me lightened with the laying of his hand.

HUGE OIL GUSHER SEEN IN "MEANEST MAN IN THE WORLD"

Motion pictures are sometimes harder to produce than the average theatre patron would imagine. Take, for instance, "The Meanest Man in the World," which comes to the Gateway Theatre today only. In this picture, a huge oil gusher is featured. Now a gusher cannot be "made" to gush unless it wants to. Therefore in order to have a gusher "gush" at the proper time, the movie folk had to provide their own oil. Many hundreds of gallons of real oil were used in this particular episode, and at the given signal a blowing device was turned on which threw the black gold high into the air. Bert Lytell, Blanche Sweet, Bryant Washburn and twelve other well-known players take part in this picture.

Marcia Harris, famous for her portrayal of character parts and who achieved considerable success as a delineator of unusual types in many pictures, including "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," "Ann of Green Gables" and "Old Lady Thirty-one," is in the cast supporting Richard Barthelmess in the John S. Robertson production, "The Fighting Blade," a romance of the conflict between the Roundheads and the Cavaliers in the Cromwellian era, which is boked for the Gateway Theatre tomorrow.

HAROLD LLOYD IN "WHY WORRY" BIG CARD AT T. D. & L.

A stellar attraction at the T. D. & L. Theatre is Harold Lloyd's funniest of all comedies, "Why Worry." Everybody who has seen this versatile laugh provoker will surely want to see him again in this, his latest and best.

Rotary Christmas Song

(Air: Jingle Bells)

1.
Gathered round the board,
In friendship true we meet;
Joining hands and hearts
Let each the other greet,
For Christmas time is here
And all is clear and bright;
Lift your voices then and sing
Old Rotary's song tonight.

Chorus
Rotary, Rotary,
Bring us Christmas cheer,
Sending forth thy service song
For all the world to hear;
Rotary, Rotary,
In accents strong and true,
Here and now with one accord
We pledge ourselves to you.

2.
When service fills our lives,
How bright this old earth seems,
How joy and peace abound
Where Rotary's beacon gleams;
Then raise a mighty song
And make the welkin ring,
For this is Christmastide tonight
And Rotary bids you sing.

GLENDALE REALTY BOARD IN SEWER BOND FIGHT TO WIN

EVERY THING POSSIBLE BEING DONE TO FURNISH THE VOTERS OF GLENDALE WITH TRUE FACTS

One Hundred and Twenty Boosters, Full Membership of This Organization Are Out for the Bonds Each One is Working Day and Night

BOARD BELIEVES SEWERS ABSOLUTELY NECESSARY

Wonderful Publicity Program Is Being Carried Out By Board Members—Each Realtor is Busy Day and Night Carrying Facts to Voters

By Albert Marple

The fight for the sewer bonds is on.

And the Glendale Realty Board is in forefront of the struggle.

Why?

Because the members of that organization realize what this bond election means to Glendale. They know absolutely that if the bonds fail to carry this city will experience, in the very least, a lull in real estate and building activities. There cannot help but be, they believe, a period of quiet, and an abrupt halt in the progress of the city.

There is absolutely no argument as to the need of the sewers. Absolutely none.

The members of the Realty Board believe that the city council has done a wonderful thing in securing this contract from Los Angeles. A year or so ago it was believed that to secure connection with the Los Angeles outfall without annexation to that city was entirely out of the question. For months the members of the city council struggled to this end and they succeeded. In securing this contract the Glendale council has done a mighty big service for this city, according to the belief of the Realty Board.

The Glendale Realty Board believes that if the bonds are voted Glendale will experience a period of advancement such as no city in Southern California has ever known. Men of almost untold means are ready and anxious to come into this city, according to reports turned in by the various members of this realtor's organization. These men are waiting, say these members, to see how this bond election turns out. If the bonds carry, you will not be able to see Glendale for dust—and building operations, the board members predict. There will be little trouble then in financing a hotel. Apartment houses similar to the largest in Los Angeles, will spring up in the districts set aside for them. Values on residential property cannot help but increase. In fact, Glendale's progress and advancement will be assured.

In a recent meeting of the Glendale Realty board it was pointed out that at this time there are almost $500,000 worth of cesspools in Glendale—and they are simply a TEMPORARY method of handling the sewage. About every so often they must be replaced. Each replacement means a cost of $500,000 to the people of Glendale—and in the end you have only cesspools. The ground is saturated with sewage and a change must be made and made immediately believe the members of the Realty Board.

The Glendale Realty board members believe these bonds are absolutely essential for the good of the city. That's why they are fighting for them.

When this body of boosters goes in after a thing it does the job well. Here are the things already done by this organization in the interest of the bonds:

It instituted a sewer essay contest in the grammar and high schools, thereby carrying the message of the bonds into hundreds of homes. Six hundred replies were received, and the committee is now hard at work trying to determine the winners.

It got out 3,000 stickers for automobiles and store windows bearing the words: "Sewer Bonds, Vote Yes, Jan. 8." These have been distributed where they will do the most good. More of these will probably be needed.

It is right now having printed 5,000 additional stickers on which will be printed "Yes, Jan. 8." These will be for hanging in the homes and stores and also for auto windshields. As many thousands additional of these as are needed will be printed.

For three days prior to the close of registration the Realty Board placed speakers in the local theatres urging the voters of Glendale to get out and "sign up" so that they might vote at the election.

The board has also arranged for slides urging the voting of the bonds to be shown in all of the local theatres for the last 10 days prior to the bond election.

The sewer committee of the board, of which "Cam" Thom, former president of the board is chairman, has full charge of the house to house canvas that will be conducted in favor of the bonds. Every voter in Glendale will be visited and the truth about the sewer bonds will be passed on to him or to her. C. W. Ingledue is chief of the precinct captains, and will be personally responsible for seeing that this work is done.

In addition to Chairman Thom, those on the special sewer committee of the board are: L. H. Wilson, C. W. Ingledue, Mable L. Tight, J. I. Wernette, J. M. Boland, W. L. Truitt, W. L. Twining and O. M. Newby.

Every member of this committee is public spirited, hard-working and conscientious. These folks have no "axes to grind." They are working in the interests of Glendale. Their time is valuable, but they are giving it gladly.

The various precinct captains, under direction of Chief Ingledue, are as follows: Precinct 1, Charles B .Guthrie; No. 2, T. R. Croswell; No. 3, Twining & Myers; No. 4, A. H. Vollker; No. 5, Mrs. E. L. Foor and J. W. Pearson; No. 6, E. P. Hayward and Mrs. Stewart; No. 7, W. L. Truitt; No. 8, O. M. Newby; No. 9, J. E. Barney; No. 10, S. C. Kinch; No. 11, Mrs. Mable L. Tight; No. 12, C. W. Ingledue; No. 13, D. W. McDill; No. 14, Russell & Boland and Harley Preston; No. 15, W. B. Kirk; No. 16, J. H. Menk; No. 17, J. A. Henneman; No. 18, E. L. Schuyler; No. 19, J. I. Wernett; No. 20, Mr. Gullard and Roy D. King; No. 21, Alfred Johnson; No. 22, J. F. McClish; No. 23, R. N. Stryker; No. 24, Mr. Young; No. 25, L. H. Wilson; No. 26, Spencer Robinson; No. 27, S. S. Gilhuly; No. 28, Mr. Hill of Hamlin & Hepburn.

Another gigantic duty of this committee will be to get out the vote on election day. The precinct captains with their assistants will be on the job from early morning until the polls close at night. As nearly as possible every voter in Glendale will be taken to the polls. It is a complete vote that the Realty Board wants, feeling sure that if everyone in Glendale votes the bonds will easily carry.

The board will conduct a mammoth parade on the day that the building permits for the year pass the $10,000,000 mark. This parade will be jointly to celebrate the reaching of this figure and to boost the sewer bonds. It promises to be the biggest thing of its kind ever held in Glendale.

Except for the things mentioned the Glendale Realty board isn't doing a thing except boost and work for the bonds. Easy, isn't it?

The "boys and girls" of this organization are the ones who KNOW how things are going. They see and hear the need of sewers more in one day than the average home owner does in a year. They are all fair-minded men and women—all working for Glendale—all working in this sewer fight night and day because Glendale MUST HAVE THESE SEWERS, AND TO GET THEM THE BONDS MUST BE VOTED.

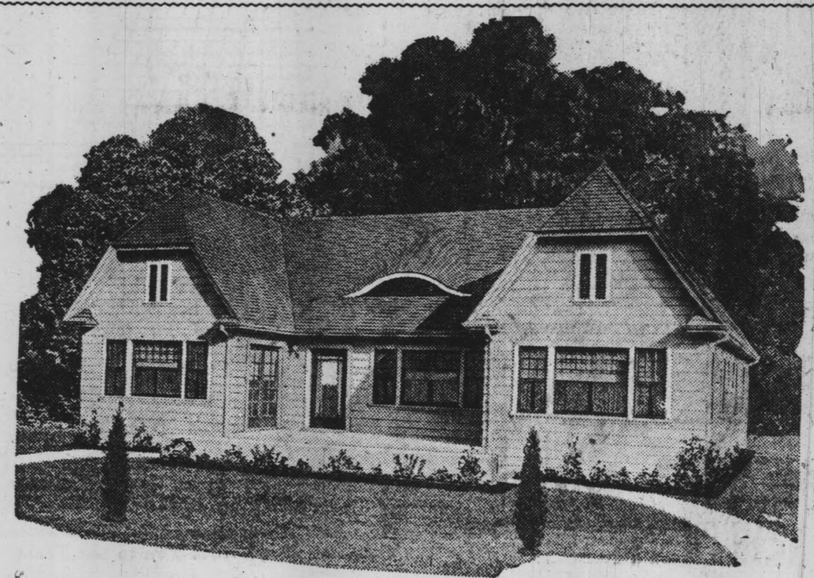
Here's A Feat In Architecture



This building was converted from California bungalow to colonial design home by skilled artists of Low Building Company.

LOCAL BUILDERS TURN REAL TRICK

The double wing construction for a home, shaped in the letter "H" stands for Hospitality. There is perhaps no other type of floor plan that is quite as practical for California climate. With the two wings connected by a central living room, the home's commissary is separated from the bedroom and the living room becomes the central point of traffic. The first double winged bungalows designed in California were made with the typical flat bungalow roofs, but it remained for an enterprising California architect to convert this design into a semi-Colonial structure, a photograph of which is shown on this page. It is unnecessary to go into detail regarding the merits of this plan as the photograph and floor plan give a definite conception of the desirable features.

HEATING OF THE HOME IMPORTANT

Building for permanency, architects and contractors declare, is growing to be more and more the watchword in Los Angeles.

Despite the fact that Government statistics show that more than half of the city's population is living in rented quarters, there is a steady increase of the houses which are being built with the "home center" in view for generations to come.

Heating the house, a real problem in Southern California for the smaller home, is being recognized as a tremendously important factor both for the family's welfare or from the economic standpoint.

Verne R. Norton, whose work as State inheritance tax appraiser takes her all over the Southland, said the other day before a group of prospective builders:

"Use the very best heating system possible.

"The selling value of a home is tremendously increased when hot water, air or steam from a furnace in a basement has been installed.

"Recently a builder advised a family erecting a large home to put in a furnace at the expense of some $700, stating that it would add from $1000 to $1200 to the selling price.

"This was found to be more than justified."

Major Frank P. Hines, director of the Veterans' Bureau in Washington, D. C., in reply to a letter concerning the U. S. Veterans' hospitals to be built soon in San Fernando Valley, said on November 12:

"I am glad to advise you that in the opinion of the Bureau, unvented gas heaters would hardly be suitable for us in connection with Veterans' Bureau hospitals.

"In connection with the Veteran Hospital at Livermore, a system of heating by the forced circulation of hot water, will be provided and, in all probability, the same system will be adopted for the Veterans' Hospital in Southern California."

SOUTHWEST CORNER, ORANGE AND BROADWAY IS PURCHASED BY LOCAL REAL ESTATE MEN

Largest Sale of Business Property in Glendale For Months Causes Real Estate Fraternity to Sit Up and Glance Around

95x115 FEET BRINGS $125,000

Syndicate Composed of L. H. Wilson, W. T. Burton And George Anderson, All Well Known Here, Secured Property—Improvements Planned

One of the largest realty deals to be consumated for months in Glendale was the sale of the southwest corner of Orange and Broadway, which was purchased last night jointly by L. H. Wilson, 1034 South San Fernando road; W. T. Burton, 200½ West Broadway and George Anderson, 125 West Broadway, all prominent realtors in Glendale.

This corner has 95 feet on Broadway and 115 feet on Orange and the price paid for the piece was $125,000. The former owner of the property was William Hedley of Los Angeles. Negotiations for the sale of this property has been under way for the past three months.

At present time on this property there is a one-story brick structure in which there are several stores. It is the intention of the new owners to improve it with at least a six-story building in the event the sewer bonds, which will be voted on January 8, carry. The lower floor of this building, it was stated last night by Mr. Wilson, will be devoted to stores, while the upper floors may be divided into apartments, and offices or may be used for hotel purposes. This improvement, however, depends on the passage of the bonds.

VITAL TOPICS AT BIG CONVENTION

The seventeenth annual convention of the National Association of Realty Boards, to be held June 3 to 6 at Washington, D. C., is expected to be one of the largest and most important convocations of business men to meet during the year.

Home building, wholesome and efficient city development, the plotting of the industrial areas of cities, the financing of real estate development the management of real property, the national farm land situation, the ethics involved in the relationships of real estate men to each other, to the clients and to the public will be some of the large matters in the organization of real estate as a business which will form the topics of the convention program.

Taxation reduction, and systematic tax adjustment toward more equitable distribution, which has become the central plank in the general platform of public policies advocated by the Association, is expected to be an important conference subject

WEIGHTY MATTERS PLANNED FOR CONVENTION

Plans to put the National Association of Real Estate Boards in a position to complete, for use of its members and for real estate in general, comprehensive programs to which it is already committed for the nation-wide collection of real estate facts, the development in cities throughout the country of a high-standard real estate education and the acquaintance of the communities everywhere with the business standards for which the Association stands and the public policies in the protection of the ownership of real property which it advocates—these will be the principal matters to come before the midwinter session of the National Committee of the Association to meet in Augusta, Georgia, on January 17, 18 and 19.

The midwinter session, to which every member board of the 495 local real estate bodies comprising the Association is entitled to representation through a National Committeeman, has come to be the principal business meeting of the year for organized real estate men throughout the United States and Canada.

RECOGNITION OF MEXICO AIDS BORDER R. E. MARKET

Stimulation of business due to the recognition of the Mexican government by the United States, observable in a number of lines, particularly in southwestern sections, has had an effect on the real estate market in territory contiguous to Mexico, according to a report to the National Association of Real Estate Boards from the San Antonio Real Estate board.

EXPERIENCE IN MORTGAGE LOANS TO BE LEARNED

Data that will give a nation-wide summary of investment returns in the field of real estate mortgages and mortgage bonds as they are financing the development of American cities will be brought together through a questionnaire on real estate securities now being sent out by the Mortgage and Finance Division of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

The inquiry will deal with the two prime requisites of any investment, safety and profit. It will draw from the experience of 4,000 specialists in real estate mortgage loans, as represented by their office records since 1900. And its findings are expected to reveal material of great significance not only to the great investment institutions throughout the country and to men interested in the financing of real estate transactions but to every person with savings to be soncerved.

The study to ascertain the desirability of real estate securities as compared with other forms of investment is the opening step in a campaign undertaken as the central work of the Division, to get before the investment public the facts as to mortgage securities, and thus to keep up the normal flow of investment money into the real estate field.

It is vital to general business enterprise that this normal flow be maintained and also increased as rapidly as consistent with conservative practice, a letter accompanying the questionnaire sent out jointly by H. U. Nelson, executive secretary of the National Association, and by Hiram S. Cody, chairman of the Mortgage and Finance Division of the Association, points out.

Findings of the investigation will be placed before banks, real estate boards, chambers of commerce, estates, trust companies and the public generally.

Here are significant facts in regard to security and satisfactory interest return of mortgage investments as already ascertained by the investigations of the Association's Mortgage and Finance Division.

Twenty-eight Chicago mortgage bankers have loaned 729 millions of dollars on real estate mortgages without loss to any investor.

During the past two years forty-four of the great life insurance companies, whose assets represent a great aggregate of American savings, have increased the percentage of their mortgage investments. One company with an increase in assets of ten million has invested all the gain in first mortgages on improved real estate.

Real estate bonds are always at par, while figures compiled by Harold Almert, Chicago engineer, show that forty listed bond issues comprising railroad public utility and industrial bonds have suffered an average decrease in value since 1903 of approximately 12 per cent.

A recent scientific survey of investments of 201 life insurance companies made by the National Association of Real Estate Boards show that in the experience of these companies covering the whole investment field mortgages show an average gross rate of return of 6.1 per cent as compared with an average gross rate of only 4.6 per cent on stocks and bonds, a twenty five per cent advantage in favor of mrotgage investments.

The Mortgage and Finance Division now has thirty separate committees actively at work on investigation of the facts in regard to specific problems of real estate finance.

USE OF WORD "REALTOR" GUARDED IN WASHINGTON

Realtors of the national capital are increasing strongly the use there of the term "Realtor," a letter to the National Association of Real Estate Boards from the Washington Real Estate Board states.

Practice of clipping all advertisements of members where neither the term "Realtor" or the phrase "Member of the Washington Real Estate Board" appears, and of sending the clipping with a letter drawing attention to the ommission, has been adopted to secure a 100 per cent co-operation in the placing of the meaning of "Realtor" before the public.

Consistent use of the terms by members benefits both the members so advertising and the board, the board points out in the letter which its vigilance committee is using.

The Tulsa Real Estate Board is among the boards urging constant use of "Realtor" in newspaper advertising, letterheads, signs and bill boards.

"Capitalize your profession" is the Tulsa slogan.

SECOND UNIT OF BIG BURBANK SUBDIVISION IS THROWN ON THE MARKET—LOTS ARE SELLING FAST

The First Unit of This Tract, Over 100 lots, Was Sold in Thirty Days—And the Second Unit Is Selling Faster Than Parcel No. 1.

TAFT REALTY COMPANY BUYS TWO MORE TRACTS

This Company, Which Operated 35 Years in Hollywood Adopts Burbank—It Sees That The Chances In This District Are Great

Burbank is experiencing the greatest real estate and building activity she has ever known. Hundreds of acres lying in the outskirts of the city in all directions are being subdivided and sold. The old story of the "hot cakes" surely applies to Burbank real estate these days.

Possibly the greatest activity along the subdividing and selling line is taking place in the section immediately west of the city or lying between Burbank and Lankershim. In that section there are several thousand acres of the finest land that lies outdoors. Every foot of land, practically speaking, is as level as a floor. The soil is good and is of a character that will grow anything.

This particular section of Burbank has been taken in charge by the planning commission of that city. This fact is greatly responsible for the activity in that locality. This commission has planned a system of highways and connecting roads that would do credit to the largest city in the country. Everything is being made to "fit in." Every tract in that section to be accepted by the Burbank council must be laid out according to the plans outlined by the planning commission. This fact assures streets without jogs and no butt-ended roads. It guarantees a properly planned city.

The rapidity with which the tracts in this section of Burbank are selling is shown by the activity that has been experienced in connection with Taft's Triangle Tract, the first unit of practically one hundred lots of which was sold out in 30 days. The second unit of this tract, consisting of about 130 lots is now being sold. Every day sees a number of sales and within a few days on this unit will also be hung the "sold out" sign.

There is a reason for the rapidity with which this tract is being sold. The land is good, the location is ideal, the prices are right and the terms are easy. A square deal goes with every lot. The lots have 50 and 60 feet frontage and the prices are $750, $800, $850 on very easy terms. These prices include gas, water, electricity, sidewalks, curbs, macadam streets, etc. This tract is located on Central avenue, Burbank, one-half mile from San Fernando road.

A deal was closed a few days ago whereby the Taft Realty company, owners and subdividers of Taft's Triangle Tract, secured possession of a 40-acre tract located on the proposed Victory boulevard in the northwestern part of the city formerly owned by C. H. Cline, W. J. Riley and Dominick Morro. The consideration of the deal was $72,000, at a rate of $1,800 per acre.

This company has also just closed a deal for the purchase of 50 acres bordering on Lincoln avenue and Victory boulevard. The consideration of this deal is believed to be about $100,000.

Both of these pieces of property will be subdivided and sold in the form of lots by the Taft company, which is considered one of the most successful subdividing concerns in this section of the country.

"We are completely sold on Burbank," said L. H. Boydston, representative of the Taft company. "What we know of the plans of the Southern Pacific company con-

HOMEBUILDING ORGANIZATION

PLANNING THAT KITCHEN GARDEN

The American home owner generally relegates such a thing to unsightly and unseen portions of his premises where it often is merely tolerated and where it seldom serves as an artistic bit of his scheme of home landscaping.

In contrast to this custom is that of the European continent, where the economic value of the kitchen garden is of such importance that the peasants dedicate all available space to it, with the result that there are many roadside kitchen gardens.

Instead of being unsightly spots, these are often garden plots of decided interest and attractiveness.

Growing vegetables are pleasing to look upon, particularly where they are neatly grown in orderly beds, and may well furnish material for a decorative garden.

It is not implied that the radish vies with the rose in beauty, nor the onion with the violet in fragrance.

It will be conceded by most housewives, however, that the kitchen garden is a wonderful "institution," and it is the writer's belief that most gardens of this nature may be pleasingly laid out and planted.

The kitchen garden should be treated as a unity in itself, as are all the other elements that combine to comprise the home grounds, and in the main the kitchen garden should be separated from such other units as the flower garden, the drying yard or the play ground.

Thus treated it will not appear to be encroaching upon other portions of the yard, nor to be mingling its ulitarian products with those that have been grown for purely aesthetic reasons.

Orderliness in arrangement and neatness in its care make the kitchen garden a very attractive and interesting unit in the general scheme of the home landscape.

September is an excellent month during which to start the garden of winter vegetables.

A thorough flooding of the area, followed by cultivation and a liberal application of well-rotted manure, which is spread in, will put the garden patch in excellent condition to receive its seed and produce bumper crops.

All the late fall and early winter seeds may go into the ground now, including beats, early cabbage and cauliflower, carrots, corn, salad, cress, dandelion, endive, kale, kohl rabi, parsnip, peas, potatoes, radish and spinach.

Tomato seed may also be planted now for later transplanting into frostless belts, but the tomato is not hardy in regions where the temperature drops below freezing.

Thrift and diligence in the kitchen garden will produce surprising crops during the late months when the rest of our states are wrapped in their winter mantle of cold.

Oil Shale Is Struck Near Allwyn Park

BLACK WALNUT TREES NATIVE TO CALIFORNIA

The joy of the early-comers to California in the Fifties upon finding black walnuts growing along the creeks from the lower Sacramento clear south, soon gave way to disgust as the nt-meats were found to be meagre and the trees so small and limby as to render the wood almost useless for cabinet work. To this day it is used mainly as a soilholder or as firewood in its native habitat, though nurserymen find that seedlings of the California black walnut form the finest disease-resistent stock on which to graft the soft-shell "English" sorts.

It grows along many streams twenty to forty miles from the coast, and occasionally occurs in the Sierra foothills. In the coast canyons—along Walnut Creek in Contra Costa County, for example, its rich green marks the course of the stream for long distances, growing from 20 to 50 feet high.

The leaves of this tree are what are called "compound," that is, they are formed of leaflets in pairs along a central axis or leaf-stem, each leaflet looking like a complete leaf but central axis and all falling in the autumn. The walnut leaves and the green bark of the small branchlets have a sharp pungent ordor. The old bark of the main trunk is very dark and cut into deep ridges, while the newer bark of the main branches is gray. This time of year, the bark is the best character by which to identify the tree, and the little leaf-scars in groups on the younger wood also help. Then, too, one may find a few nuts that the hogs and the squirrels have overlooked—though this is not likely—and surely there will be a lot of the blackened hulls. In the spring the catkins help.

OIL SHALE IS STRUCK IN SAN FERNANDO VALLEY NEAR PRETTY ALLWYN PARK, CLAIMED BY WHITE

Excitement Reigns at Well That Is Being Drilled on Shimerda Lease of Van Nuys Community Oil Company—Prospects Are Good

TREES COVERED WITH FRUIT AND WALNUTS

If Oil Is Struck It Will Mean Much to Owners in This Tract—Lots Are Being Sold at Rock-Bottom Prices and at Reasonable Rates

By P. KENNARD WHITE

Manager of Sales at Allwyn Park, a W. H. Rees Co. Project

Here's wonderful news to all property owners at Allwyn Park. The Van Nuys Community Oil well No. 1, in the Shimerda oil field, less than half a mile from Allwyn Park, has been drilling for the past three weeks. The first of this week there was great excitement at the well. On going over I found that at a depth of 983 feet they were drilling through oil shale and that every indication pointed to a rich strike further down.

Think what this will mean to property owners at Allwyn Park if a great new oil field has been located! Sherman way and Ventura boulevard are the only thoroughfares that permit an outlet from the Shimerda Oil Field, which covers some two thousand acres. At the junction of these two thoroughfares lies Allwyn Park, the great new townsite of the Ventura boulevard. Every car going to and coming from this new oil field must pass Allwyn Park. With 13,000 machines now passing by every Sunday, what will the traffic be should the Shimerda Oil Field prove to be a second Santa Fe Springs, Huntington Beach, or Signal Hill.

This is no dream. According to all indications, Van Nuys Community Well No. 1 will prove the field and when this comes about every lot, acre and parcel of land anywhere near this well will shoot up sky high in prices. Yet, up to the present time, the W. H. Rees Company has decided against raising prices.

Speaking about oil possibilities there is another source of revenue to be obtained at Allwyn Park that pays exceptional dividends. I refer to the walnut and peach trees. Nearly all the remaining eighty unsold lots at Allwyn Park have between 6 and 12 fine bearing trees upon them. From figures we have been able to obtain on the profit of walnut trees from a single lot at Allwyn Park we have found that one of the tract lots will produce $400 per annum for the owners. The lots upon which these full bearing trees grow cost in the neighborhood of $900. Five years are allowed for full payment. The profit from the trees alone during a five year period will run close to $2000, discounting a few dollars for care and picking. So, at the end of five years, investors of today will not only own a very valuable piece of property, but in addition, will have a net profit of around $1000. The W. H. Rees Company is now pruning all the fruit trees at Allwyn Park in order to insure a bumper crop for owners during 1924.

What more can property owners want? The opportunity to become a "Get Rich Quick Wallingford," should the Shimerda Oil Field prove up to expectations as the Van Nuys Community Oil Well No. 1 indicates and 50 per cent profit per annum assured from walnut and peach crops.

Besides these two reasons for investing at Allwyn Park, there is a third and that is at the intersection of Sherman Way and Ventura Boulevard there is bound to spring up a thriving town. To prove this, stand on the corner of Sherman Way and Ventura Boulevard and count the machines passing back and forth and stopping to buy at the stores already built.

Perhaps the most concrete proof that Allwyn Park is to be a large town in the near future is to see it at night with its thousands and thousands of lights laid out in street formation with ark and flood lights indicating what is to become the business district. Every one who has seen this new town at night, with the headlights from the passing machines coming and going in an unending stream, makes a remark to the effect that here is the logical spot for a second Glendale. If the Shimerda field proves up to the hopes that has made several hard thinking business men at Van Nuys invest their money in Van Nuys Community Oil Well No. 1, which is a closed corporation and not a stock selling organization, property at Allwyn Park will soar higher than any of us anticipate. At any event, prices are sure to double and triple from the natural course of events in the immediate future. There's no question about that in my mind at all.

Willie—"Sister jus' got over 'em and when I woke up this morning I found a feather on my pillow."

Cafe Proprietor—"Are you barbers planning another raise in prices?"

Barber—"No, but we're thinking of putting on a couvert charge and leasing the hat and coat checking privilege."

MERRY AND PROSPEROUS XMAS TO THE FOLKS IN AND AROUND GLENDALE--HAMLIN & HEPBURN

This City Has Thousands of Reasons for Rejoicing This Year, Believes This Firm—Everything Has Been Headed This Way

DELIGHTS IN HELPING THE RENT PAYER

During Past Year Over 1000 Lots Have Been Sold Through This Office—Meaning 4000 New Residents in and Near Glendale

"Merry Christmas and a Happy, Porsperous New Year to the people of Glendale and surrounding territory," says E. D. Hamlin of the firm of Hamlin & Hepburn, 203 West Broadway, one of the leading realty firms of this section. "We hope the people of Glendale will have the most wonderful Christmas season of their lives. This section, during the year that is closing, has experienced the most wonderful success in the way of building activity—it has known a growth that has startled the world.

"But, folks, the progress of this city has just started. On January 8 the sewer bonds will go over with a bang, and from then on just keep your eye on Glendale. We wish to thank the people of Glendale and the surrounding territory for the share they have had in the success of our firm, for we have prospered along with the other firms of this city. To every person in Glendale who has traded with us we say, 'Thank you,' and to those along with all the other residents of this city we say, 'We hope your hearts will be glad this Christmastide. May every shadow of trouble be removed and may the future hold many good things for you.'"

The firm of Hamlin & Hepburn has every reason to feel glad this Christmas season. The principal reason probably is that during the past year it has been instrumental in hundreds of struggling families being given the opportunity of owning their own homes. In addition to selling them the lots on small initial payments and very easy terms, this firm has also sold these people the lumber for their homes—also on easy installments. They have settled here a small city of contented, law-abiding citizens—folks who have for years been struggling under the rent-paying yoke. They have set these people free and have given them their start. When the contract is signed, cooperation between the seller and the buyer starts—so far as this company is concerned. Consequently there are no contracts turned back. This cooperation is the one big satisfying feature of the work of this company this year.

Hamlin & Hepburn have opened and sold out this year a number of pieces of property including several units in Fairview, Castle Heights, Sunset Grove and two units of Edgemont Park—the third unit of which is now on the market. These comprise, probably, a thousand lots. Figure four people to the family and you have a little city of 4,000—all brought here by this firm during 1923. Can you beat it?

The members of this firm are looking forward with confidence to the future. They expect Glendale to progress even more rapidly in the future than she has in the past, and they are willing, anxious and determined to do their part in bringing about this advancement.

SPEAKING OF GARDENS

A New England garden or a southern garden may recall a very definite picture to mind, but it cannot be said that all such gardens are true to a definite type.

The Italian style of garden has been copied in many lands and may be seen in New England as frequently as in California, where the climatic conditions are much more like those of Italy.

Every garden is an adaptation to the demands placed upon it; and just so do types develop through the influence that climatic and cultural environment bear upon it.

PICTURES SHOW SOUL OF OWNER

The selection of art objects and pictures will generally reveal the innermost soul sentiment of an individual, and it is with a background of knowledge and study that real beauty is found.

It is always pleasing to enter a hall and find appropriate architectural pictures or worthy portraits or pictures like Sargeant's "Hosea," Alma-Tadema's "Reading from Homer," a Japanese print or any good landscape giving to the hall a sense of hospitable dignity, then to enjoy in the living room pictures like Watt's "Hope," Turner's "Love and Death," "Scenes from Venice" and landscapes by great masters like Corot, Dupre, or George Innis.

It gives a homely atmosphere to find a Wallace Nutting or an Israel's "Picture of a Dutch Interior from the brush of modern painters like Sargent, Abbey, Keith, Yates, Wendt, Daniels and Maxfield Parrish give just the note of inspiration needed.

TWO OF WILSON'S BLOCKS ARE SOLD

Actual sales, where real "iron dollars" change hands show where property values are advancing and where the growth is liable to occur in the future.

That sounds reasonable, doesn't it?

That's why the San Fernando road section is looking so well these days. Real sales are being made and sure-enough money is being transferred from one fellow's pocket to another fellow's money sack.

L. H. Wilson, 1034 South San Fernando road, the man who "made" that section, has just disposed of two of his stores on that thoroughfare. One of these is located at 743-45 South San Fernando and is 90x100 feet in size. It was sold to L. Childers and the price paid was $13,500. This building is now occupied by the Arbenz Auto Painting company.

Another block, located at 749 and 751 South San Fernando was sold to Mrs. C. B. Crawford of Santa Monica. This is 90x100 feet and the price paid was $13,500. The Arbenz company also occupies this building.

A lot at the corner of Kenneth and Ardmore was also sold to Mrs. Alma Wright through the office of Mr. Wilson. The price paid was $5,800.

SOFTENING WORDS

Pater—"Now, don't take it to heart that my daughter called you a greenhorn. Between you and me, she's colorblind."

CAHUENGA PARK IS MAGNET FOR LOT BUYERS

Lying on Ventura Highway, This Tract Is Cream of Valley

Cahuenga Park, one of the most wonderful subdivisions ever opened in the San Fernando valley, is attracting the atention of the entire of Southern California. Lot buyers from every corner of this part of the country are "running" out to see what all the fuss is about, and a large per centage of them are remaining to make the first payment on one or more of the valuable homesites in that tract.

"This tract is just what you have been waiting for," says the office manager of Young & Young, 212½ West Broadway, Glendale, local agents for Cahuenga Park.

"For a full mile along beautiful Ventura Boulevard, the greatest highway link between Los Angeles and the North— Cahuenga Park stretches its expansive acres. From the gradual sloping level lands above the floor of the valley to the topmost heights of the beautiful Hollywood Mountains— Cahuenga Park spreads its glories at your feet—a mile of bargains almost a mile wide.

"Located right in Los Angeles City, with every advantage of that thriving city, where property values will increase as rapidly as they do in the city's center, Cahuenga Park holds more opportunities than any place you can name. Everything that man seeks in land is embraced within its bounds.

"You need not be a pioneer at Cahuenga Park. Store buildings are completed, homes dot the broad, high acres, everywhere there is building, and this makes land valuable. Any lot you buy in Cahuenga Park will pay you a profit.

"We bought the 1100 acres that we are now developing long before the activity started. We bought it cheap, and we are selling it the same way. We are passing our bargain on to you. We want every one of our purchasers to make a profit. They always have — that's our reputation. When you buy from us you get an acre with all modern city improvements in the city, for less than you'd pay for a skimpy lot."

Cahuenga Park is within the city limits of Los Angeles.

Cahuenga Park is actually only fifteen minutes from Hollywood—seven miles from Hollywood Boulevard.

Los Angeles City Aqueduct Water, Los Angeles City Gas, Electricity and Telephones now installed in Cahuenga Park.

Cahuenga Park borders for more than a mile along Ventura Boulevard.

The Mulholland Scenic Skyline Drive traverses Cahuenga Park for nearly two miles.

Sherman Way bisects Cahuenga Park and is being continued on through Beverly Hills and to the Ocean.

More than seventy miles of cement curbings have been installed in Cahuenga Park.

In Cahuenga Park there is a site of two acres reserved for schools—at present free busses carry children to nearby schools.

Modern brick store buildings have been erected in Cahuenga Park. Hillside and canyon sites covered with the naturel beauty of trees and wild flowers, right on the threshold of the city, are rare. In Cahuenga Park you have hundreds of acres to choose from.

BRICK WAS USED DURING 1900 B. C.

Scientists rummaging among the ruins of ancient Babylon have discovered why the ancients built so universally with brick.

It was a crime to build an unsubstantial building in the days of King Hammurabi of Babylon.

A tablet signed by the ancient king about 190 B. C. was translated recently and the reason for the extensive use of brick in his time was revealed.

According to the order of the king, if a house collapsed, causing the death of the owner, the builder of the house was put to death.

If a son of the owner was killed, a son of the builder was sacrificed to pay for it.

It is no wonder that builders in those days took no chances with flimsy, unsubstantial construction, it is said.

They could not afford to, they used brick.

That tablet accounts largely for the number of buildings which were erected in the days of King Hammurabi using brick in their construction.

Today those who are seeking a substantial building material, which will not depreciate rapidly and require constant repairs, are apt to select brick, it is asserted.

The depreciation on a brick house is estimated at 1 per cent a year after the fifth year, and there are no repairs on a brick house.

A single brick house will last more than a century.

Brick buildings and brick tablets are all that are left today to tell us the story of ancient civilizations.

Truths in Epigram

The law of gravity is not hurt by every accident, though our leg be broken. No more is the law of justice by our departure from it.—A. J. Froude.

It will be a sorry day for this world and for all the people in it, when everybody makes his moods his masters, and does nothing but what he is inclined to do.—Anon.

PROBATION AND PAROLE

Much has been said concerning probation and parole. Probably much more will be said until the two methods have been changed to favor the criminal a little less and the public a little more. In numerous instances it has been found that desperate crimes are committed by convicts released before completion of their terms. Police know such offenders to be particularly dangerous, since arrest while out on parole means completion of the original sentence. The fact transpires that a Long Beach policeman lately accused of a misdemeanor is on parole from the Texas penitentiary. There is a murderer now under sentence of death in this state, who at the time of the murder here, had been out of the Utah penitentiary on parole. In Utah also his crime had been that of murder.

Probation is a little different, and generally regarded as less subject to abuse. It is granted or denied by the trial judge, at the time when all the circumstances are fresh in his mind, and he has opportunity to study the history and personality of the prisoner. If the defendant is a "first offender," it is possible that probation may save him from a criminal career, and this possibility is worth considering. Nevertheless probation has been granted in many cases where it was not deserved, and where it failed to impart any lesson to the beneficiary. Judges have agreed to be less free in granting this favor, but there is no definite prospect of lessened ratio of paroles.

ARKANSAS LYNCHERS

In a little Arkansas town there had been a rule for years that no colored person should be in the town limits after sunset. This was not a statutory provision of course. It was the mere ukase of white citizens. No warrant for it could be found in any law. Recently a negro, porter at a local hotel, was found to have defied the rule. The sun had set on schedule, and the employee still was on the premises. Immediately there was a plan to lynch him. Not that he had committed any offense; not that he was a source of danger, but that a rule which in itself was an outrage, had been broken.

The enthusiasm of the mob was checked momentarily by the employer who sought to protect his porter. Evidently the proprietor had courage, a decent respect for himself, and was averse to seeing the murder of an innocent man at the hands of a lot of ruffians. The mob overcame the interference with its pleasure in the easiest way possible. It killed the landlord and the porter both. After that it scattered, perhaps swelling with the sense of righteousness.

In any community worthy to be a part of the American commonwealth, there would be a speedy sequel. The murderers would be apprehended, for doubtless they are known. They would be tried without delay, and given the utmost penalty. Nothing of the sort is to be expected, however. Doubtless the death of the negro will be regarded as an incident, that of the white man as an accident, and the matter will stand closed.

VANISHING KINGS

Since the end of the world war ten kings have lost their thrones and their perogatives. Tarnished is the royal purple, and the divine right, once a law, then a tradition, is extinct. When the great Shakespeare wrote, "Uneasy lies the head that wears a crown" unconsciously he must have been turning a prophetic eye upon the twentieth century.

There are kings in continental Europe yet, but none holds any station that might be regarded as enviable. In Italy and Spain, although the throne is occupied, and the king may have a scepter to play with still, the monarch has been reduced to nothing but a figurehead. He has no more to do with steering the ship of state than falls to the lot of the carven image high on the prow of a vessel. Perhaps he is retained as a tribute to precedent. Where there always has been a king, the populace might be aghast at the obliteration of his grandeur and potency. So the grandeur is permitted to remain, and the potency passes quietly to other hands.

King George of Greece has joined the long procession of exiles. He was not much of a king at best. Had he been, he might have rallied faithful supporters, and perhaps have banished those who sought his overthrow. He was told to go, and unprotesting as a discharged office boy, he obeyed instructions.

Whatever the future of Europe, it certainly is not to be molded by kingly desire. The best that the king now has to hope for himself is retention as an ornament, with income and rations assured. If he is kept by the real rulers it is on his promise to be good, and not to interfere with public affairs since no longer are these to be considered his concern.

ESSENTIALS OF PEACE

There is no reason to hope for a permanent peace until justice has been established, and the nations of the earth have been brought each to the understanding that towards the others there is a sense of obligation. In other words, a civilization made up of antagonistic units must be imperfect, and almost necessarily give way to conditions either better, or unspeakably worse.

This undoubtedly was the thought in the minds of men who strove for establishment of the League of Nations. None of them regarded the plan as without flaw; they looked upon it as the beginning. Upon it they dreamed of founding a new era in which wars should have no part. But there existed too many men lacking in vision, blind to all interests save such as they conceived to be their own. They were unwilling that their country should lead in a benign movement. They shrank from the thought of sacrifice. They declined to accept a part of the universal burden. They desired to walk aloof and superior and indifferent. They defeated the project, shattered the fair dream, and doing so, lost to their country more than may be regained in generations.

There were some who from the first supported the League of Nations. They did not deem it flawless. They even admitted its defects but they were firm for the principle involved. These never have been convinced that they were in error. They still believe that had the United States entered the compact, the sorry situation that prevails in Europe never would have had to be recorded as a dark chapter in history. They hold that mischief has been done, but they see no method now of undoing it. The opportunity was spurned, and it has vanished.

Capt. Paul Perigord, French by birth, an American by adoption, an instructor by profession, and withal a devoted citizen, recently said in a public address:

"By refusing to become a member of the League of Nations, America, regarded by the Europeans as the mother of democracy, left the newly established democracies of Europe to shift for themselves, and had it not been for the protection of the French, these new governments would have fallen to pieces. From being regarded as one of the greatest constructive nations, our country has come to be looked upon as the most destructive."

These are bitter words, and it is the truth in them that makes them bitter.

Encouragement At So Much Per

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY

"Developing talent" is a trap that has caught more victims than spiders have caught flies.

Los Angeles and every other city in the country is full of talent developers who encourage all and sundry to believe themselves potential geniuses needing only kindly interest and a bit of professional guidance to enable them to rise to whatever height may for the time have attracted their bewitched eyes.

Estelle Lawton Lindsey

These talent developers from time to time call on me to ask my assistance in capturing victimes. Sometimes they are going to give talented children music or dancing lessons, the only provision being that, if musicians, the students shall first purchase instruments from their "benefactors"; if the aspirants are smitten with a desire to become professional dancers the bait is changed a bit; but the hook is always baited. Beneath the bait is a point that is sharp and cruel.

Lured by a fixed belief in their ability to make good in the moving picture profession, 10,000 bewildered boys and girls last year came to Hollywood, largely stone broke. They were of grammar and high school age and they became a poignant problem to Hollywood; because, of course, the pictures could not absorb them.

Next to the lure of the silver screen is the lure of scenario writing. I doubt if there is as many as 100 people in the United States of America, capable of speaking English and making pot hooks on paper who do not believe that scenario writing is simple, lucrative and a profession not as yet crowded.

All over the country are "talent developers" who encourage this psychology at so much per head.

Now it happens that many industrious and still hopeful scenarists are among my acquaintances. I've been watching them function for years. They have studied, worked, dreamed and slaved and all their activities have netted them was a bit of fun and a hunk of disappointment.

To be sure the heads of scenario schools come up from time to time to argue with me and strive for my conversion; but I meet their claims sturdily and honestly, asking, for example:

"What per cent of your students have ever sold a scenario?"

At this point hedging is in order, but by and by there usually comes the admission that perhaps less than one per cent have succeeded; but the talent developers exlaim defiantly:

"But somebody must write scenarios; why not our students?"

Quite so. Why not? The answer is that scenario writing has become a highly technical art and can't be taken up casually any more than any other technical art can.

Genius will have a voice; no denying that. But genius need not leave home by the cross tie route to arrive.

If I thought I had a talent I'd try it out on the home folks before I made a pilgrimage into the unknown world or parted with my savings to somebody who promised to "develop" me.

Wouldn't you?

Watching The Parade

By JOHN PILGRIM

I saw a man get a job last night. Just like that. He does not know he has it, yet, and when he gets it he will not know just how good it may prove to be. I do, for I am on the inside. Half a dozen of us were knocking about town idly. None of us like the movies, we can eat only so many steamed oysters, and strawberry pop loses its attraction after the third round. We dropped into a shooting gallery.

"Let's shoot for a dime apiece," some one suggested. Every one agreed except Tubby;

"Not me," said he. "I can't shoot."

"Aw!" every one shouted. "Be a sport!"

Tubby would not. He said that he would be a sport if we played a game at which he had some chance. But he cannot shoot, never could shoot, and probably never will shoot. Therefore we were asking him to throw away his dimes. Some of us were disappointed in Tubby. But the banker liked him:

"If the boy had given us his dimes," he said in my ear, "he wouldn't have been a sport. He would have been a fool. No one but a fool will play a game at which he only has two chances and both to lose."

He began to ask questions about Tubby. A youngster who has sense enough not to be a chump an courage enough to stand out against a body of older men attracts him. He needs that sort of a man in his business, he said. He always does. The best man he has in his employ now was selected because he is a hard loser.

"There is something wrong with a man who is a 'good loser'," said the banker. "Either he doesn't care enough or else there is a vein of weakness in him. I want hard losers in my bank. Men who fight to the last second and grouch forever when they get beaten. They get the business."

Tubby will think the banker's offer of a job will have been prompted by any one of a dozen reasons. It will not occur to him that it comes because he had sense enough not to permit his good friends to rob him of his dimes.

THE LISTENING POST

By James W. Foley

An eminent man of letters lived some two hundred years ago.

Many of us have heard of him.

Many of us have profited by his literary labors.

JAMES W. FOLEY

And his labors as a lexicographer.

For he gave us a dictionary.

And whatever you may think, a dictionary is a very valuable thing to have.

* * *

And the labor involved in lexicography is arduous.

A matter of painstaking.

Research.

Comparison.

Selection and rejection.

As you will learn if you look at the standard dictionary of the present day.

* * *

This is not an advertisement for dictionaries.

But an expression of appreciation for the work of the lexicographer.

And his value to the world.

Which is not to be overestimated.

When the work of the eminent man of letters was produced he looked for an expression of appreciation from one of the patrons of letters of his time.

Because that timely expression would have been of great value to him.

Or great spiritual value in encouragement.

And of material value in calling his work to the attention of the world.

* * *

But the expression of appreciation that he hoped to get did not come.

And it was delayed and delayed.

While the heart of the eminent man of letters was made sad.

Because of the neglect.

But after a long time the letter of appreciation came.

Many years after it should have come.

It brought forth the most stinging rebuke ever administered by brains to sham and pretense.

After acknowledging the receipt of the letter, the man of letters said in effect:

"Your letter, had it been timely had been kind.

But now I am old and cannot enjoy it.

Solitary and cannot impart it.

Known and do not need it."

* * *

The rebuke was just.

The lesson of it is one easy to get.

If there is a friend you should remember, do it now.

If there is a kindly letter you should write, do it now.

If there is aid you should render, do it now.

Do not put it off.

For the time will come perhaps when the opportunity may pass.

Years may make the act of friendliness impossible.

Songs of the Poets

Romance—By Robert Louis Stevenson

I will make you brooches and toys for your delight
Of bird-song at morning and star-shine at night.
I will make a palace fit for you and me,
Of green days in forests and blue days at sea.

I will make my kitchen, and you shall keep your room,
Where white flows the river and bright blows the broom,

And you shall wash your linen and keep your body white
In rainfall at morning and dewfall at night.

And this shall be for music when no one else is near,
The fine song for singing, the rare song to hear!
That only I remember, that only you admire,
Of the broad road that stretches and the roadside fire.

A HINT TO BIG BUSINESS

By DR. FRANK CRANE

BIG Business is America's greatest fact.

It is now praised as our chief glory, and again cursed as our chief shame.

Cursing and blessing are equally useless. Why not tell the money masters just what to do?

They are spending money in schools, libraries, missions, and for museums, monuments, the promotion of science and religion, and the prevention of disease.

A less proportion of profits go to luxury than at any period of history. The spirit of the times exerts a constant pressure toward using the enormous gains of organized industry to help mankind.

Here is a plain, common sense suggestion to Big Business, therefore, indicating a practical way to use its money:

GIVE EVERY HUMAN BEING IN THE UNITED STATES ENOUGH TO EAT AND WEAR AND A DECENT HOUSING.

A shattering proposal! A thing never before tried! Dangerous! Let us see.

The first objection that arises is that this would encourage idleness and laziness. If people can get the necessities of life without effort they will not work. It is the pinch of need that makes industry. We should presently have a horde of contented paupers on our hands. And so forth.

But we reckon without human nature. In the first place, only a small fraction of the people would accept this aid. All of this fraction, now, in devious ways, are living off other persons. They are getting a subsistence by beggary, by charity, or by crime. The only question, therefore, is this: Would preserving the life of the lowest edge of the people by endowment be worse than doing the same things by driving them to mendicancy and stealing?

But would not the number of the idle be enormously increased? It would not. Very few would be satisfied with bare existence. Man does not live by bread alone, not even the shiftless man. He would still be urged by his wants to earn something to live a little better.

Let Big Business, therefore, take of its mountainous profits and rebuild the slums of the cities. Provide a decent shelter for every family. Abolish rotting, overcrowded tenements.

Let the swollen surplus from our national products go to giving at least one simple meal every evening and a cup of warm drink and a piece of bread every morning to any human being that is hungry.

To say that would debauch the race is a silly libel on humanity. On the contrary, the all-seeing God alone knows how many a ghastly tragedy this simple human scheme would prevent!

Let every child, at least, have simple clothing enough to keep warm in winter.

Let the distribution of these gifts be made with ordinary precautions against fraud.

All this would be the wisest stroke of policy Big Business could make.

It would cut down the feeling of violent discontent now constantly growing. It would lessen crime and hence reduce the cost of police.

It would increase the consuming power of the masses; they would buy more of Big Business's goods, more beef, bread and clothing.

Best of all the moral effect of the act would be tremendous. It would be as much as to say: "People, by fortunate circumstances we have been able to get huge dividends, all of which, in the end, have to be paid by the workers. There is no legal force to make us give these profits back; so we do it voluntarily. The system of the distribution of wealth is now faulty. It is not our fault, nor yours, perhaps. It is the fault of conditions, of imperfect social organization. Hence what we are not compelled to do we will do of our own free will. After all we are fellow creatures. We cannot sit at our turtled feast while women and children anywhere are starving and cold."

Do this, O masters of millions, and let the people build their own schools, hospitals, libraries and churches; for it is better to pauperize the lowest rung of society than the highest. Free bread, I doubt not, will do less harm than free universities.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

WHAT SOUTH DAKOTA MEANS

[New York Herald]

What does the South Dakota result mean? For one thing, judging from the speeches at the proposal convention, it means that the South Dakota republicans regarded Mr. Coolidge as a man more of the people than the eloquent Hiram. The President was described as "a farmer boy who had done everything in his power for the farmer." The brotherhood of the soil is powerful.

But there are broader reasons for the Coolidge victory; reasons which may become more and more evident as the 1924 contest grows older. The President has undoubtedly taken a grip on the imagination of the American people. They regard him as a man who sees right, thinks right and acts right.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

There is great comfort in observing that Secretary Hughes, speaking for the administration, tells Russian bolshevists what this government thinks of them. In a few words he makes them aware that their pretense and insincerity are as an open book. The bolshevists know what status they must assume before there can be possibility of opening negotiations with this country. The essence of the Hughes message may be condensed into the single sentence, "Be off! as you are we will have none of you!"

HENRY JAMES

How refreshing this is after the maunderings of the Brisbanes, the propaganda of Steffens and his kind; the hysteria of the parlor pinks.

It hardly had seemed possible the soviets thought that with all their paid agencies, their specious promises, they could continue to work for revolution throughout the world, and at the same time be bamboozling people. They have not even befooled the comparatively stupid and quite unlettered Russian who is their victim. Yet they tried to approach the United States as though occupying a place on the same plane. Such insolence is without parallel.

The American bolshevists including the gentlemen mentioned, Hearst himself and his trained group of investigators, will be highly indignant at the policy of the state department. In this manner will the wisdom and the patriotic soundness of the policy be accentuated, and the higher the indignation, the greater the compliment.

Probably it is a good thing that horse racing is to be established in Culver City. To many people the sport is the most interesting in the whole list of contests. When men want to see a race it would be a pity if they had to visit Tia Juana for the purpose because no respectable community was offering anything similar appealing to them.

It would be curious to know how much Standard oil has gained by the approval by the Mixed Claims commission of its $900,000 bill for damages against Germany. That country has given small indication of desire to pay its debts. Maybe the concern feels that it has been vindicated, and while this is worth something, the value is difficult to reduce to terms of money.

Courts have held void a will giving a fortune of $20,000 to a dog, and cutting out relatives of decedent. The thing to do with a fool will is to throw it out. If the testament indicates insanity, of course it should not stand, while if it shows meanness, it deserves equally rigorous treatment.

Ganna Walska thinks she can sing. She seems to be willing to bet large sums on the proposition. So far as revealed she has an almost complete monopoly of this high estimate of her abilities.

If is a singular circumstance that when an aspirant says she can sing, and everybody else declares the gift has been withheld, that she cannot be convinced that the majority is not speaking from ignorance nor prejudice.

They talk in Europe now of a "second Joan of Arc. Why not? The original Joan was one of the marvels of the world, a maid inspired to do great things. There is no reason to suppose that the source of her inspiration has been exhausted.

The girl now mentioned as of apparently miraculous powers is fifteen. She preaches to multitudes. The theme of her sermons is that hatred must cease and the world be ruled by love, or be destroyed. So, she utters a great truth, more power to the lofty spirit of her.

But the world has progressed some since the day of Joan. If the heralded successor shall accomplish a great work, her reward will not be that of burning at the stake.

Almost daily there is a murder by automobile. When a man drives through a crowded street at high speed, paying no attention to the safety of pedestrians, or that of other drivers, and succeeds in killing one or more, thereafter running away, he is guilty in a moral sense, of murder. His course shows malice. It either shows deliberation, or that he is a fool. And running away is a visible plea of guilt.

One police judge of Los Angeles fined 48 individuals for carrying concealed weapons. That was right. There is a law against carrying concealed weapons, and it is not of the variety that may safely be left to die in the statute books and be forgotten.

Respectable citizens who have need of a weapon for protection may get the necessary permit. The thug can't get a permit, and if the law were enforced strictly, pretty soon the respectable citizen wouldn't be asking the privilege of packing a gun, for he would have no use for it.

Men appointed to the federal bench average high in ability, and they are of a class whose integrity never needs to be questioned. The public wants good men on the federal bench, and it gets out of patience with politicians who scramble after the places hoping to win favor by handing out plums.

The whole business of selecting judges should be on a plan so different as to eliminate politics altogether.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

THE LAWBREAKER

"Sam, you knew that you were forbidden to belong to the Frat. You knew you were forbidden to smoke. Then you go and do both. What's the matter with you?"

"Nothin'."

"Then why don't you obey? Why do you break the rules? You're always breaking the rules."

"Yeah."

"Why do you? Tell me why do you?"

"'Cause you can't have any fun unless you break the rules?"

"Oh."

"Yeah."

"What do you want to smoke for? You broke training."

"I don't want to smoke. The fellows were all smoking and I thought I might as well. I don't want to be a stick. Got to have some fun. You get tired of training, training, training."

"Yes?"

"Yeah."

"What did you join the Frat for when you knew we didn't want you to?"

"Every fellow that's a live wire belong to a Frat. I don't want to be a dead one. Have everybody think I was such a dub that nobody wanted me in their society. Like Fatty Pacey."

"But what did the Frat do that you felt you wanted to belong?"

"Do? They didn't do anything. Mostly talked. That's all. They're going to have a dance. That'll be something to do I suppose."

"Can you dance?"

"No. I'm learning. Steve is teaching me, so I can dance with his sister and he can go off with Dot."

"Oh."

"Yeah."

"Well, your mother and I thought that you were too young to belong to societies that held dances and parties at night. A boy of sixteen needs to sleep a lot and eat a lot so he can grow. If you want to smoke wait until you're full grown."

"I don't want to smoke. I don't smoke. But I can't be all the time training, training, training. I got to break the rules if I'm ever to have any fun. If you want to do something somebody raps out a rule and you're up against it. You can't chew gum and you can't talk in the halls and you can't go to a dance and you can't eat candy or anything you like 'cause you're training. You got to break the rules or go dead."

"Well, you've broken a few now. Take a while off and keep a few. Training isn't such a bad thing when you remember what it's for. If you break training again you'll be put off the team and you won't like that. And the Frat'll keep."

Then Dad took down his hat and coat and went to the lodge meeting.

CENTRAL SQUARE DRAWS BUYERS FOR MANY MILES

Southern California is looking toward Burbank, and particularly that part of the city lying west of the business section, or between Burbank and Lankershim.

And there's a reason.

Up to a short time ago that locality stood almost idle. It seemed as though the outside world did not know that it existed. The wonder is that it remained in acreage form as long as it did, for it is one of the most charming sections in that section of the country.

About three months ago a subdivider became aware that in the section lying between those two cities there was a piece of land that would be ideal for home purposes. One of these boosters purchased a piece of that acreage and cut it into lots. Like "hot cakes" this tract was sold out. Another was tarted and that, too, sold out rapidly. Other subdividers went into that locality and then still others started operations, until now the whole of the land lying between these two cities is alive with real estate activity. Homes are going up, and streets are being laid out. The prospects are that within another year all of the land laying between Burbank and Lankershim will have been subdivided and sold.

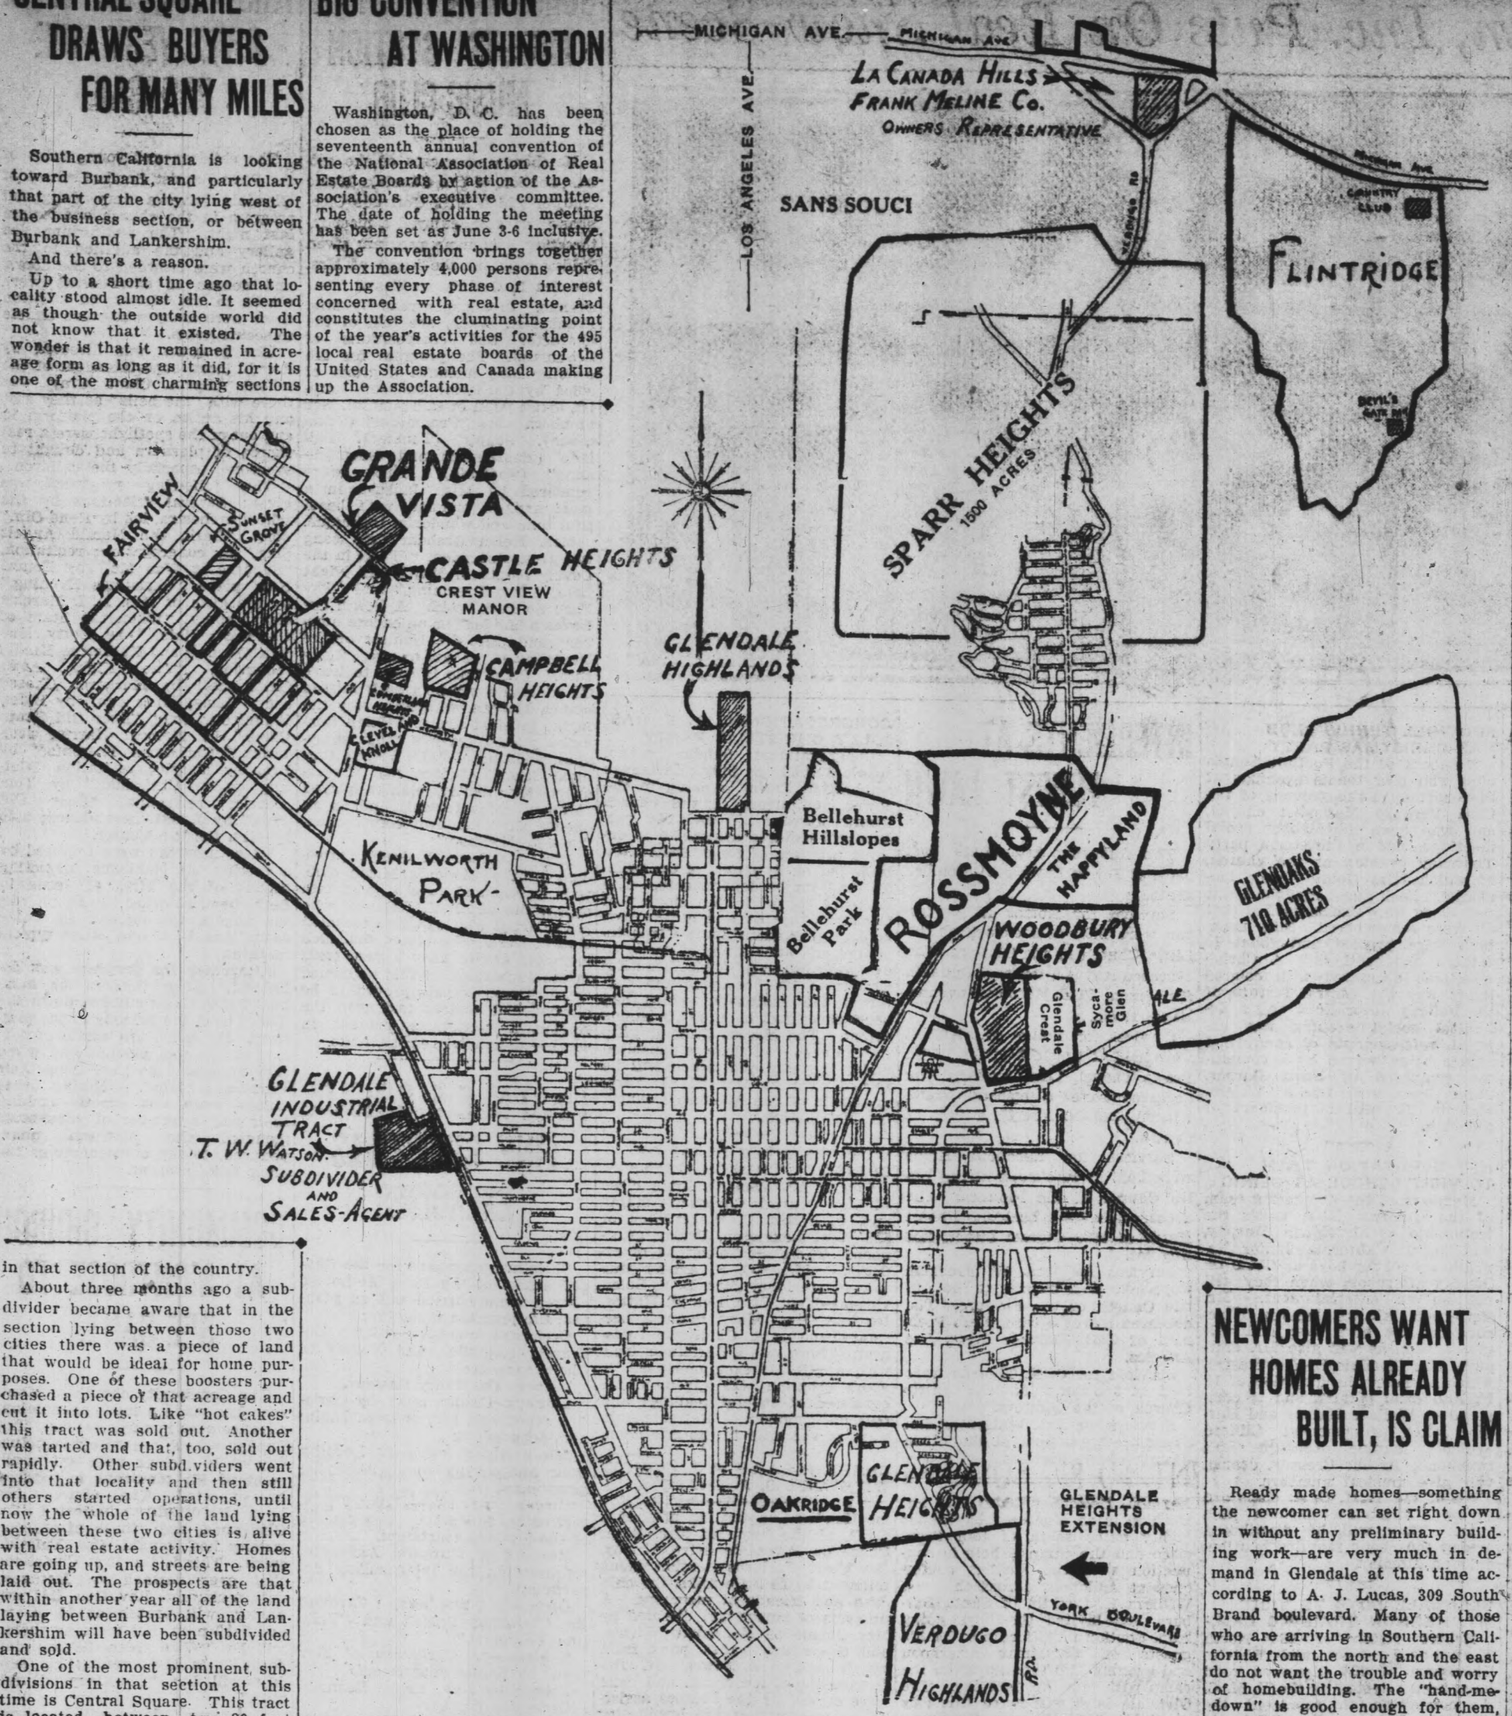
One of the most prominent subdivisions in that section at this time is Central Square. This tract is located between two 80 foot boulevards and is being improved with water, gas, electricity, and decomposed streets. The lots in this tract range from $450 up.

"Central Square commands a wonderful view of the city, mountains and beautiful San Fernando valley," said Mr. Burnett of the firm of Baskerville & Burnett, 126 West San Fernando road, subdividers. "Fronting on Central and Buena Vista Boulevards, each being 80 feet in width and Central Avenue is to be paved at once which gives to Burbank a direct Boulevard from the famous San Fernando Boulevard to Hollywood and Los Angeles, by way of Lankershim. Here we offer an opportunity to make a fine investment or your future home,—right in the city of Burbank—where you can enjoy city comforts and privileges, and only 15 minutes walk to the new $250,000 high school. Hundreds of people employed in Los Angeles are now making Burbank their home, as it is only a few minutes' ride by electric car. The distance to Hollywood is 5 miles and to the business center of Los Angeles 11 miles, with excellent boulevards direct to each city."

BIG CONVENTION AT WASHINGTON

Washington, D. C. has been chosen as the place of holding the seventeenth annual convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards by action of the Association's executive committee. The date of holding the meeting has been set as June 3-6 inclusive.

The convention brings together approximately 4,000 persons representing every phase of interest concerned with real estate, and constitutes the cluminating point of the year's activities for the 495 local real estate boards of the United States and Canada making up the Association.



EIGHTEEN PERCENT OF LUMBER IS WASTED

"Lumber statisticians, after very careful study, have estimated that the good lumber ordinarily wasted in the actual course of constructing a home is approximately 18 per cent, and another astonishing fact revealed by their research was the stupendous waste of lumber in its travel to the completed home," declared W. P. Butte, president of Pacific Ready-Cut Homes, Incorporated.

"As high as 35 per cent of the original tree finally finds its way into the form of a building, and of course, the query arises, 'Where does the other 65 per cent go?'

"From the trunk of the tree practically all of the commercial lumber is procured, so that the limbs, comprising approximately 25 per cent of the tree, are seldom used.

"Then, after the huge trunks reach the sawmill, 15 per cent of the original tree is removed by discarding all the bark, the cracked, splintered and knotted wood and in this loss is also represented the sawdust which in itself is a large waste on account of the large saws required to shape and dimension the lumber.

"But the waste does not end here.

"When the lumber reaches the lumber companies that distribute it, it is revealed that 7 per cent of the stock, or approximately that amount, is found unsalable for construction purposes because of the knots, pitch pockets, bad spots and other defects.

"Then when the lumber reaches its final destination to be used in erecting a house another waste, this time of approximately 18 per cent, occurs in cutting and preparing the material.

"So the entire tree represented by 100 per cent shrinks to 35 per cent when it is actually used in the home and it is therefore of great importance that economy be exercised so that greater lumber footage will be used."

Geraldine— "It didn't take him long to get acquainted with you."

A man was taking dinner at the home of a friend. The dinner consisted chiefly of hash, and on being offered some he refused. The host, not wishing to see his guest go hungray, insisted that he take some. Upon that the guest replied that he never ate hash, not even at home.

"Why is that?" asked the host.

"Well," answered the other, "I never eat it at home because I know what's in it, and I don't eat it away from home because I don't know what's in it."

NEWCOMERS WANT HOMES ALREADY BUILT, IS CLAIM

Ready made homes—something the newcomer can set right down in without any preliminary building work—are very much in demand in Glendale at this time according to A. J. Lucas, 309 South Brand boulevard. Many of those who are arriving in Southern California from the north and the east do not want the trouble and worry of homebuilding. The "hand-me-down" is good enough for them, according to Lucas.

The following sales were made through the office of Mr. Lucas during the past week or so:

A beautiful 7-room home on West Elk to Floyd Mercer, of the Federal Bank of Los Angeles, who will soon take possession of the property. The price of this home was $10,000.

Then there was a 6-room home on Raymond just off Glenwood to Henry Ireland, recently of Denver, Colorado. This home brought $5,000. Mr. Ireland will move in about December 26.

There was also a 7-room home at 1023 Virginia Place belonging to Harvey Gill, which was sold to Mrs. Olive Stowe, who has taken possession. The price of this place was $7,000.

A lot containing two homes on Concord was sold to Mr. W. B. Loomis of Los Angeles, who purchases the property for income purposes. This place brought $4,500.

A home was also sold to Henry Miller at West California. Mr. Miller is from Willows, near Long Beach. He and his family have already taken possession of this home.

Through this office, also, was sold a 60 acre ranch in the San Jauquin valley near Merced, to Oliver L. Estes of Pushamahala, Oklahoma. On this place are 18 acres of alfalfa and the same acreage in grapes. The price paid was $29,000. The new owner will move on this place at once.

MONROVIA BOARD FINANCES HOMES

Formation by the local real estate board of a corporation for the purpose of financing the building of homes in their community is the project reported to the National Association of Real Estate Boards from Monrovia, California. The plan as launched by the Monrovia Realty Board is to aid homebuilders who have not the entire amount necessary over and above the first loan as made by a savings bank or individual.

SECOND UNIT OF BIG BURBANK TRACT NOW OPEN

cerning Burbank further convinces us of the future of Burbank. It is said that the Santa Fe railroad company made Pasadena what it is today. What the Santa Fe has done for that city the Southern Pacific will do for Burbank, and more.

The Taft company, according to Mr. Boydston, has been doing business in Hollywood for the past 35 years. When the company began business it had an orange grove where the center of Hollywood now stands. The fact that this company has turned its attention to Burbank with the enthusiasm manifest in the large amount of money it has expended here speaks well for the attractions presented by Burbank property to men of old and long experience in the real estate profession.

TWO IMPORTANT SALES ARE MADE

Two important sales on Central avenue were made recently. In one W. L. Truitt, 812 South Brand, one of the leading realtors of Glendale, purchased a piece 106x188 feet, located on the east side of Central between Broadway and Wilson, the price paid being reported as $35,000.

The other sale consisted of a lot 50x135 feet next to the corner of Myrtle and Central. This piece was sold to a banker of Vernon and the price paid wos $11,500. It is understood that the new owner is considering the erection of a store building on his new holdings. Mr. Truitt engineered this sale.

REALTY BOARD IN AUSTRALIA

International exchange of ideas among real estate men is being furthed by correspondence now being conducted by the National Association of Real Estate Boards with the organized real estate men of New South Whales, Australia. Information on the American Real Estate Institute, just authorized by the National association, has been sent to Australia for comparison with the real estate institute already in existence there.

Uniform license laws and real estate education were the leading topics discussed by the all-Australian conference of real estate men called recently by the Sidney local board. The conference looked toward the formation for the National association among American boards.

Modern Version of New Testament

THE GOSPEL ACCORDING TO LUKE

As they continued their journey, he came to a certain village, and a woman named Martha welcomed him to her house. She had a sister named Mary, who seated herself at the Master's feet, and listened to what he was saying. But Martha was worried with all she had to do for them, and she came up and said,

"Master, does it make no difference to you that my sister has left me to do all the work alone? Tell her to help me."

The Master answered,

"Martha, Martha, you are worried and anxious about many things, but our wants are few, indeed there is only one thing we need. For Mary has chosen the right thing, and it must not be taken away from her.

Once as he was praying in a certain place, when he stopped, one of his disciples said to him,

"Master, teach us to pray, as John taught his disciples."

He said to them,

"When you pray, say, 'Father, your name be revered! Your kingdom come! Give us each day our bread for the day, and forgive us our sins, for we ourselves forgive anyone who wrongs us; and do not subject us to temptation.'"

And he said to them,

"Suppose one of you had a friend, and goes to him in the middle of the night, and says to him, 'Friend, lend me three loaves, for a friend of mine has just come to my house after a journey, and I have nothing for him to eat,' and he answers from inside, 'Do not bother me; the door is now fastened, and my children and I have gone to bed; I cannot get up and give you any.' I tell you, even if he will not get up and give him some because he is his friend, yet because of his persistence he will rouse himself and give him all he needs. So I tell you, ask, and what you ask will be given you. Search, and you will find what you search for. Knock, and the door will open to you. For it is always the one who asks who receives, and the one who searches who finds, and the one who knocks to whom the door opens. Which of you fathers, if his son asks him for a fish will give him a snake instead? Or if he asks for an egg, will give him a scorpion? So if you, bad a you are, know enough to give your children what is good, how much more surely will your Father in heaven give the holy Spirt to those who ask him for it!"

Once he was driving out a dumb demon, and when the demon was gone the dumb man spoke. And the people were amazed. But some of them said,

"It is with the aid of Beelzebub, the prince of the demons, that he drives the demons out."

Others to test him asked him for a sign from heaven. But he knew what they were thinking, and he said to them,

"Any kingdom that is disunited is on the way to destruction, and one house falls after another. And if Satan is disunited, how can his kingdom last? Because you say that I drive out demons with Beelzebub's aid. But if it is with his aid that I drive out demons, by whose do your sons drive them out? Therefore, they shall be your judges. But if it is with the finger of God that I am driving the demons out, then the Kingdom of God has overtaken you. When a strong man fully armed guards his own dwelling, his property is undisturbed. But when somebody stronger than he attacks him and overcomes him, he strips him of the arms that he relied on, and divides up the spoils. Anyone who is not with me is against me, and anyone who does not join me in gathering, scatters. When a foul spirit goes out of a man, it roams through deserts in search of rest, and when it finds none, it says, 'I will go back to my house that I left.' And it goes and finds it unoccupied, cleaned, and all in order. Then it goes and gets seven other spirits more wicked than itself, and they go in and live there, and in the end the man is worse off than he was before."

As he said this, a woman in the crowd raised her voice and said to him,

"Blessed is the mother who bore you and nursed you!"

But he said,

"You might better say, 'Blessed are those who hear God's message and observe it!'"

As the crowds pressed around him, he went on to say, "This is a wicked age! It demands a sign, and no sign will be given it but the sign of Jonah. For just as Jonah became a sign to the people of Nineveh, so the Son of Men will be a sign to this age. The queen of the south will rise with the men of this generation at the Judgment and will condemn them, for she came from the very ends of the earth to listen to Solomon's wisdom, and there is more than Solomon here! Men of Nineveh will rise with this generation at the Judgment and will condemn it, for they repented at Jonah's preaching, and there is more than Jonah here. No one lights a lamp and puts it in the cellar or under a peck measure; he puts it on its stand, so that people who come in can see the light. Your eye is the lamp of your body. When your eye is sound, your whole body is light, but when it is unsound, your body is dark. So take care! Your very light may be darkness! If, hterefore, your whole body is light with no darkness in it at all, it will all be as light as a lamp makes things for you by its light."

When he said this, a Pharisee asked him to lunch with him, and he went to his house and took his place at table. The Pharisee noticed that he did not wash before the meal, and he was surprised. But the Master said to him,

"You Pharisees clean the outside of cups and dishes, but inside you are full of green and wickedness. You fools! Did not the Creator of the outside make the inside too? But give your inmost life as charity, and you will immediately find everythnig clean. But alas for you Pharisees! For you pay tithes on mint, rue, and every tiny herb, and disregard justice and the love of God. But you should have observed these, without neglecting the others. Alas for you Pharisees! For you love to have the front seat in the synagogues and to be saluted with respect in public places. Alas for you! For you are like unmarked graves which men tread upon without knowing it."

At this, one of the experts in the Law said to him,

"Master, when you say that, you affront us too."

But he said,

"Yes, alas for you experts in the Law too! For you load men with burdens they can hardly carry, and you will not touch them yourselves with a single finger. Alas for you! For you build monuments for the prophets, whom your forefathers killed. So you testify to what your fathers did and approve it, for they killed them and you build their monuments. This is why the Wisdom of God said, 'I will send prophets and apostles to them, and some of them they will kill and some they will persecute'—so that this age may be charged with the blood of all the prophets that has been shed since the creation of the world, from the blood of Abel to the blood of Zechariah, who perished between the altar and the sanctuary. Yes, I tell you! This age will be charged with it all! Alas for you experts in the Law! For you have taken the key to the door of knowledge, but yuo have not entered it yourselves, and you have kept out those who tried to enter."

After he left the house, the scribes and the Pharisees began to watch him closely and to try to draw him out on many subjects, plotting to entrap him in something he might say.

Meanwhile as the people gathered in thousands, until they actually trod on one another, he proceeded to say to his disciples first of all,

Smith-Sloan, Inc. Puts On Real Snow Scene

Santa in a "W. K." Sedan Is Here—Loaded Down With Presents

Santa Claus has already arrived at the salesrooms of the Smith-Sloan, Inc., 226 South Brand boulevard. He came in a brand new Willys-Knight 5-passenger sedan, which is loaded to overflowing with all kinds of beautiful presents for boys and girls, and some for grown-ups, too.

Santa and his "W. K." is a part of one of the most novel salesroom display scenes in Glendale. The winter effect has been carried out in grand style. About a ton of salt, brought from Owens valley, is used to represent snow. There are fir trees and holly growing around and as a part of the display are two "highway signs." One bears the words, "Turn to the right, Turn to a Knight." The other reads: "A Merry Christmas and a 'Good Knight' to all."

The idea of this wonderful display originated in the mind of George T. Smith of this company, and was carried out under his personal supervision.

The new Willys-Knight five sedans is distinguished by a number of commendable body changes featuring a variety of improvements, added beauty, more comforts and increased utility, placing it far in the lead of all competitive cars in a similar price class, is bound to be the talk of "automobile row" when introduced to the public.

Without question this new model is the most beautiful proportioned and attractive closed car that Willys-Overland has ever put before discriminating people—people who want the best and who are quick and keen to recognize superlative elegance in motor car construction.

The critical eye of Willys-Overland merchants will light up with delight when they cast a long, lingering, appraising look at the Willys-Knight model 64 five passenger sedan—a car that will jump ever dealer's sales to the top of the list in his respective town.

NAZARENE CHURCH REVIVAL WILL CLOSE TOMORROW

A healing service will be held on Sunday at the Nazarene church and the sick prayed for.

The evangelistic campaign that has been in progress for the past month has been a great series of meetings. Rev. John T. Hatfield who has been doing the preaching is one of the leading evangelists of the Methodist church today, it is said. He is also a strong Holiness preacher. He has laid great strees throughout the entire campaign on the need of people getting a very deep experience. The community has been very greatly stirred as a result of these meetings.

SCHUMANN NIGHT BY ARTISTS' SECTION MUSIC CLUB

Members and guests of the artists' section of the Glendale Music club, of which Miss Gertrude Cleophas is curator, enjoyed a most interesting Schumann program given Friday night at the home of Mrs. Charles B. Guthrie on Grand View avenue. In a paper read by Mrs. Frankie A. Webb, she told of the character and compositions of Schumann. The program for the evening also included a group of solos by Catherine Jackson, harpist, artist pupil of E. Tramonti. Her numbers were "Traumerei" (Schumann), "Soupir" (Tounier), "Ballade" (Hasselman), and "Harp Ellanne" (Godfroid). These were rendered by Miss Jackson in a most artistic manner, with beautiful tone and wonderful technique.

Mrs. Helen Graham Cole sang two groups of solos: "'Twas in the Lovely Month of May," "All Night Long I Am Dreaming," and "Thy Face So Fair," with "A Youth Oft Loves a Maiden" as an encore number; and "He, the Noblest of the Noble," and as an encore, "Lady Bird." Mrs. Cole is soon to leave Glendale and will be greatly missed stance Morgan, who is a very tal- in the musical circles. Helen Conented pianist, gave a most enjoyable rendition of "The Vienna Carnival Scene" (Schumann). By request, Mr. Wolter, pianist, played "Minuet" (Paderewski) and as an encore gave his own composition, "In a Clock Shop."

Mrs. Mattison B. Jones, president of the Glendale Music club, was present and gave a short talk on the life of Allen McQuhae, who is the artist who will give the next club concert. She stated that club members are to have a rare treat in the appearance of this renowned artist. Mrs. Guthrie proved to be a wonderful hostess and gave the section a Christmas present in serving delightful refreshments.

CARNATION SOCIAL CLUB IN LAST MEETING TODAY

The social club of Carnation Rebekah lodge is holding its last meeting of the year at Odd Fellows hall this afternoon. Plans will be perfected for the Christmas dance it is giving Saturday evening, January 22, in the I. O. O. F. hall.

FIRST BAPTIST S. S. GIVES VERY FINE PROGRAM

The children and young folks of the First Baptist Sunday school of Glendale gave a very delightful program in the church auditorium last night. The auditorium, the gallery and the addition to the church were crowded to the doors, and dozens of extra seats were placed in the aisles. In addition there were many who were unable to secure seats.

The program was directed by Roy L. Kent, superintendent of the school. Santa Claus Gray was there with "the bells" as they say, and his antics on the platform in and out of the spotlight were a real source of pleasure and delight to everyone, especially the children.

The following program was given: Several selections by the school orchestra, led by Rene Olin; song, "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing," by congregation; recitation, "Suppose it Was Me," by Louise Hill; piece, "Christmas Evening," by the girls of Mrs. F. I. March's class; songs, "When the Stars of Christmas Shine," by Betty Mae Van Wormer and Katherine Knoll; recitation, "The Night After Christmas," by Margaret Chase; song, "Long, Long Ago," by Elden Wannicott; song, "Dear Old Santa Claus," by Malcom Harris; recitation, "Christmas Presents," by Bromley Marple; recitation, "Getting on to Christmas," by Tom Harris; recitation, "Dear Old Tree," by Janette Swendener; solo by Mrs. Bernice Center.

These numbers were followed by a series of tableaus depicting scenes of the birth of Jesus in Bethlehem, showing the shepherds, the angels, the manger in which Jesus was born and other typical features.

Altogether the program was delightful. After the various numbers Santa Claus climbed down the ladder from the balcony to the platform. He called the names of several of the tots present and when they responded he gave them their Christmas treat. Noting that things were not exactly coming their way a number of youngsters mounted the platform unannounced, to the amusement of the older folks present.

COMMUNITY CHURCH AT MONTROSE TO SEE SANTA

The Community church at Montrose has made a most phenominal advancement in three weeks. The Sunday school started off last Sunday at 10 o'clock with an enrollment of 65; tomorrow a hundred are expected. The church has been beautifully decorated for Christmas, and the entire community has caught the Yuletide spirit. This is the first Christmas that ever dawned on Montrose with a church. Rev. Geo. L. Dure, pastor, will preach at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. His morning theme will be "Wise Men Worshiping Jesus." In the evening his subject will be: "The First Christmas."

The church doors will be opened on Sunday for charter members, and it is expected that forty or fifty will unite at the morning service. Thirty church letters have already been handed in. Monday evening there will be an entertainment and Christmas tree. Santa Claus will be there with his red nose and cheeks, and it looks as though everybody who comes will get something. Miss Walsh, a graduate in expression and elocution, will have an important part in the program.

OLYMPIC ELEVEN AND INDIANS PREPARE FOR XMAS GAME

With the Olympic club eleven in outfit from San Francisco meeting the Haskell Indian eleven of Lawrence, Kansas, local football fans will be given their usual Indian gridiron game. The contest will be held Christmas afternoon at Washington park, Los Angeles. It is expected that in addition to the local buts, there will be a number down from the north to see the Olympics perform, while riverside will be well represented at the game. The Sherman Indian school will turn out in full force to see their eastern brothers play football. The Haskell tribe is making its home in the Sherman wigwam during its stay in these parts.

Coach Hanley of the Injun outfit put his men through a stiff workout this afternoon. He says that the trip west did not trouble his men and that they will be in perfect condition for the game Tuesday.

Up in San Francisco the members of the Olympic club gridiron squad are working hard every afternoon in preparation for the game. They will arrive in Los Angeles Monday morning. The winged O outfit realizes that the Indians are a formidable gang and is working hard in preparation to down them.

Several names famous in Pacific coast football history will be on the Olympic lineup. "Stew" Beam and "Eat" Latham, former California stars, Patrick, ex-Stanfordite, and possibly Brick Muller and Horgy Evans, former Californians, will be on the eleven that meets the Indians. Muller may compete with John Law of Haskell in an exhibition of passes and punts.

Don't shoot at any object unless you are certain what it is. Many persons are killed and crippled each year because hunters take a chance and shoot at some object without knowing what it is. Be sure before you pull the trigger.

MIDDIES EASE UP ON GRIDIRON PRACTICE

ANNAPOLIS, Dec. 22.—Brief and simple practice was the rule at the Naval academy this afternoon, the squad having completed its severe preparations for the game against the University of Washington in Pasadena on New Year's day.

Today's workout lasted not over 15 minutes and consisted in formation drill and some kicking and passing. Practice along similar lines will be staged Monday. The team then starts on its trip west, and Thursday will do a little limbering up on the grounds of the Illinois Athletic club in Chicago. The second stop will be at the Grand Canyon, probably on December 29, and there will be some more signal work or a long walk. There will be an opportunity of at least one day's practice at Pasadena before the game. The party will be under the charge of Lieut. B. Eagsley, football representative, and Bob Bolwell, head coach. They will have Ensigns Welchel and Scafe as assistants, but Ensigns Pop Perry and Ewins have received orders for duty and probably will not make the trip. Commander Byron McCandless, who has been representing the Academy at Pasadena, will return with the squad.

At practice this afternoon Clyde, the upstanding tackle, was back at his old position and will probably start against Washington. Shewell will be on the other side of the line, but Walker will be on reserve and ready to step into the game if either of the first selections is not up to the mark. Chillingworth, the lad who has been putting in such great form was at left kuard this afternoon, Carney and Lentz being absent from practice. He is a dead cinch for a regular line position next year, as his punting will be valuable.

Only a well scraped, completely fleshed, pelt dries quickly. Nothing but dry pelts should be shipped.

WHITE SOX TANGLE WITH SAWTELLE BASEBALLERS

Mike Donlin's Glendale White Sox will go to bat tomorrow afternoon against the formidable Sawtelle outfit in a Triple A league game with hopes of breaking their losing streak and coming out with the long end of the score. The game will be played at the Glendale baseball park on South San Fernando road, and will start at 2:30.

With a baseball team that has been practically rebuilt in the past two weeks, Donlin should surprise the local fans by taking the game. However, you never can tell. His aggregation looks good on paper, but as has been said before, the White Sox have always looked good on paper. They have always been a potentially strong team but their strength has failed to materialize.

Latest advices are to the effect that Carl Sawyer, comedian of the Vernon Pacific Coast league team will be on hand to strut his funny stuff. Included in the new men who will appear in Glendale uniform tomorrow are Chicken Hawkes, Lyman Smith and Jack Adams. It is expected that Arnold Crandall will receive the hurling assignment, although Reidler may be selected to do the heaving.

The Sawtelle crowd is a formidable bunch and will give the White Sox one hot scrap. Tomorrow's game will be one of the most hotly contested that has ever been played in the local ball orchard.

Other Triple A league games will be played tomorrow at Signal Hill, where the San Pedro nine plays the Shell Oil outfit and at Wilmington, where the Wilmington and Union Tool teams tangle.

The skunk is fond of flesh, crowetc., so is the fox, mink, possum, and weasel; the racoon likes fish, and sometimes the mink will take a notion to sample some kinds of fish. The possum is the greatest fish eater of them all, and not particular as to the kind of fish, either.

K. OF C. BASEBALL TEAM TACKLES LANKERSHIM

The Glendale Knights of Columbus baseball team will journey to Lankershim tomorrow afternoon to take on the Lankershim horsehide artists in a regular game in the San Fernando valley league.

The local Caseys have been playing great baseball of late and look like the real class of the valley loop. The Lankershim crowd is a fast aggregation and should give the Glendalians a hard battle. Last week the Caseys defeated the Post 8, American Legion outfit. Leroy Bacon will probably do the hurling for the Glendale Caseys.

EXAMS KEEP MANY HUSKIES FROM PRACTICE

SEATTLE, Dec. 22.—Final examinations kept many of the University of Washington squad away from practice here today, but those men who were out were put through a long drill in defensive and offensive work against the Pennsylvania system of play which Coach Bob Folwell's men are expected to spring in the Navy-Washington contest at Pasadena New Year's day.

The Huskies went up against the Pennsylvania tackle and end formation as handled by experts. Certain plays were shifted a bit to allow for the different defense to be met and a long lecture on tactics given to the quarterbacks. Signal drill completed the afternoon's workout.

The coaching staff and squad were guests at a luncheon given by the Seattle Chamber of Commerce at noon, in which the hopes of Seattle and the state were expressed to the football men, and they in turn promised a real battle with the Navy.

Examinations being over, the team will have a long workout today, then another one Monday, miss Christmas day and resume on Wednesday afternoon, with three days of intensive drill before the train is boarded for Pasadena on Friday night.

Don't point a firearm or any description whether loaded or empty, at anyone. The "didn't-know-it-was-loaded" kind are the most dangerous.

SPORT O-GRAMS

By FRANCIS W. READ

At the banquet given Thursday evening for the football team of Glendale High school there was a statement made by the toastmaster that might be interpreted to create a false impression as to the status of football in the local High school and its relation to the regular scholastic work. The statement was to the effect that the members of the football team should be glad that they are on the team and should think of all the things they are missing, especially the hard studies.

We cannot help but feel that the toastmaster was misinformed in regard to this particular phase of the relation of football and studies in the local High school. As a graduate of Glendale High school and one who has been in close touch with the athletic situation there for some time, the writer is in a position to state that at no time have athletics been rated above scholarship there, nor have football players enjoyed scholastic immunities or privileges not enjoyed by the other students. It is as Coach Hayhurst remarked in his talk that standings "will not have men in our teams who are not up in their studies." According to the rulings of the California interscholastic federation, a man in order to play football must have passed in the same number of units that is expected from the average student who is not participating in athletics.

Instead of making the life of the athletes easier, the fact that they are playing on the teams demands that they must work all the harder. They have to keep up in all their studies the same as all the other students in the institution, and at the same time practice and play on the football team. They go to classes all morning and early in the afternoon, then spend the rest of the afternoon and often into the evening on the football field. At night they have to study, in addition to which athletes can continue in their positions only if they are receiving passing grades in their studies.

Coach Hayhurst has also called attention to the fact that the football men must be in bed by 10 o'clock every night, and must not stay out after that hour. This is the same basis upon which athletes can continue in their positions.

Football is a game that is played in the high schools. To place them in a position superior to the studies would be to defeat the purposes for which the schools exist. The present arrangement is satisfactory for both the football player and the school. It is not easy, for he has to do all that is demanded of the other students, work and play, and makes it necessary for the students to be in their work in order to take part in athletics.

BURBANK NOTES

Mrs. Marye Trepani Swift, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, is quite ill at her home, with a cold.

Mrs. C. B. Kahl, of 823 Olive avenue, who has been quite ill for several days, is reported better.

L. A. McQuarter, who claims Burbank as his home, was found at 2:15 this morning indulging in the pastime of breaking bottles on the pavement along San Fernando boulevard near Palm avenue, which action as all motorists are aware, can hardly be considered conducive to good automobiling or in any way healthful for tires.

D. A. McFall of 723 North Verdugo avenue, received a box of very fine apples this past week from his father, F. H. McFall who is spending the winter in Michigan. The apples, which were sent from Rushton, Mich., are of the Northern Spy variety, and are of delicious flavor. F. H. McFall makes his home in Burbank at 452 Providencia avenue but returned to Michigan this September to spend the winter. He had not been back to his old home state for 35 years. He reports an enjoyable time although the weather is quite cold.

The boxing exhibition put on by the Burbank Athletic club under the auspices of the Goodfellows' club and the police department charity funds, came off on schedule time Thursday night at the armory and was witnessed by a crowd which was estimated at four or five hundred people. The result was that the charity fund was replenished to the extent of several hundred dollars. As previously announced, Jim Jeffries, ex-world champion, appeared in the ring as referee. He did not remain on the job very long, however, retiring from the field before the show was very far along. There were some exhibitions of strenuous pounding at times and some good exhibitions of faint-heartedness on the part of the fighters at other times, but taking it all in all the fans seemed to be reasonably satisfied with the show.

PROPER CARE OF FOOD PREVENTS WASTE, SPOILING

While most good housekeepers pride themselves on being able to care properly for the food they purchase and prepare for their families, there are many details in connection with the handling of specific foods which may have escaped the attention of many housewives unless they have made a special study of the subject. Again, although everyone knows that spoiled food is both unpleasant and dangerous, many persons do not know that food may be contaminated with dangerous bacteria and yet show no outward traces of spoilage.

Farmers' Bulletin 1374, Care of Food in the Home, prepared by the Bureau of Home Economics, gives information as to the forms and causese of food spoilage and suggests methods for keeping various ordinary foods in good condition.

Emphasis is placed on keeping all foods clean: that is, protected from visible dirt and from contamination by insects and other carriers of dangerous microorganisms. Most kinds should also be kept cool. Dry foods, such as crackers, need to be prevented from absorbing moisture, and succulent foods, such as fresh vegetables, from losing it.

The following practices, which are brought to the reader's attention, in connection with the home care of food, serve to remind the experienced housekeeper as well as the novice of points that will bear watching in her kitchen, pantry and icebox, whether she cares for the family food personally or entrusts it largely to servants or other persons:

Milk, fresh meat, poultry, fish, and many fresh fruits and vegetables should be kept at a temperature of 50 degrees F. or preferably less in order to check the growth of micro-organisms that cause souring and decay.

All frutis and vegetables that are to be eaten raw should be thoroughly washed, for even though they look clean, dangerous bacteria may cling to skins or leaves. As a rule, uncooked meats of any kind should not be eaten. Smoking meat does not kill parasites.

Left-over cooked foods should be kept cold and covered, used promptly, especially in warm weather, and if possible, heated thoroughly before being served again. Dangerous poisons sometimes develop in such foods without making noticeable changes in taste or smell.

Fats and fat foods, such as nut meats and chocolate, should be kept cool and in covered, light-proof containers to prevent their turning rancid.

Bread and cake should be stored in a covered box or dish which is scalded frequently so that molds can not develop.

Flour, sugar, cereals and other dry groceries should be kept dry and protected from household pests. Tea, coffee, and spices hold their flavor best in air-tight containers.

Canned foods keep best in a cool, dry closet or storeroom. Those in glass jars should be shielded from the light to prevent possible fading.

Under household conditions, the refrigerator is oftentimes the best means of keeping food cool. Choose one with well-insulated walls, put only clean ice and clean food in clean containers into it, and keep it clean by the daily practice of genuine neatness.

Food must be safeguarded from spoilage by bacteria, yeasts, and molds, by changes produced by heat and cold, light, and loss of absorption of moisture, by insects and household pests, and by animal parasites.

Adequate storage places and containers make for economy and safety in handling food in the home.

GRATEFUL FOR AID YOAKUMS ARE MOST

most generous-hearted people that we have met anywhere. This is evidenced by the bountiful way that people from many quarters of the city have ministered to our needs.

"We did not come to Glendale with a single thought of asking or receiving any assistance from the people or any charitable institution. And while we are in no way responsible for our needs being made public, we do wish to thank every person who has had any part in helping us. We appreciate every donation.

"Our gratitude does not end in the material help that we have received. The generous brotherly spirit in which the people have responded means much more to us. We are indeed glad to become one of you."

The doctor's little girl had sung for her mother's guests.

"How well you sing," said one. "I suppose you'll be a soprano when you grow up?"

"Now suppose," said the teacher, "a man working on the river bank suddenly fell in. He could not swim and would be in danger of drowning. Picture the scene. The man's sudden fall, the cry for help. His wife knows his peril and, hearing his screams, rushes immediately to the bank. Why does she rush to the bank?"

COMMUNITY SERVICE CHRISTMAS DOINGS

the Christmas committee. There is to be community singing, led by J. Arthur Myers.

The Glendale Choral club, assisted by other singers, will render the Hallelujah chorus from Handel's "Messiah." Santa Claus will be present and after the program will receive gifts from the children and grown ups. These are to be distributed among the needy in Glendale and Los Angeles on Christmas day. The Boy Scouts will have charge of marshalling the crowd and will assist Santa Claus in receiving the gifts. It is announced that in addition to candy, books, toys and canned fruit that the Kiddie Koop in Los Angeles, where some of the gifts are to be given, is very much in need of ribbons, towels, gingham dresses and sleeping garments for children.

After the community Christmas celebration the Glendale Choral club and assisting members will go to as many of the local hospitals as they can reach before too late an hour and sing some of the Christmas songs.

EAGLE ROCK NOTES

The local realty board is expected to hold its meeting in the near future. President Johnston announces that it will be a called meeting.

The Kiwanis club will hold its meeting at the Mountain View lodge, Monday noon. Charles H. Emmons of the Los Angeles Kiwanis club, will speak on "America's Investments in the Children of the Near East." Mr. Emmons has just lately returned from the Near East, and knows the conditions there very thoroughly.

Yesterday morning the police had a telephone call to rush down Yosemite drive, formerly Sycamore. Due to a misunderstanding over the telephone, it was thought that something of a serious nature had happened, but on arriving, only a little argument between some boys was found to be the cause of the call.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Whaling, of 4738 York boulevard, will spend Christmas with Mr. Mathews of Huntington drive.

Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Reily of 1750 Colorado boulevard, will spend Christmas with Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Finley, their relatives who reside in Long Beach.

This is the quietest time of the year. People, do not, as a rule, start house building; practically all the club have finished their affairs until next year and everyone is hurrying up to complete the quota of Christmas gifts. This is the natural time for a letting up. The trees have lost their leaves, the sun's rays are neither so hot nor last as long. The year is about over; and we look back on the mistakes we have made, the good we have accomplished, and hope and expect to make next year still better.

If you or any of your friends are going away for Christmas; if there is a death in the family; if some one is sick and needs a little cheer; if you have a party; if you build a home; if you have friends visiting you; that's news. We print news, and we also have a place to deposit it. A special box in placed in Sol Gans' restaurant at the southwest corner of Eagle Rock boulevard (formerly Central avenue) and Colorado. The box is just inside the door. It is your box and articles must be in by 9 o'clock in the morning you wish them to appear in the Daily Press.

The Chevrolet sedan that was donated by R. A. McLean Motor Sales, Inc., of Eagle Rock, to be disposed of by St. Dominics parish, was won by J. S. Thomas, 1379 East Walnut, Los Angeles.

The Highland Park Christmas committee has completed plans for The Hollywood Legion bond will play, a tableau under the direction of Mr. Ingram, giving "The Nativity," will be given by a prominent cast, and many other numbers are billed for the evening's entertainment. The program will start at 7:30 tonight at the Arroyo Seco playground. A special lighting effect has been installed and a wonderful time will be had. Candy bags will be given to the children, and everyone is invited. The baskets will be delivered Monday night to those who need them in this community, by representatives from all the organizations of this community.

"Is that clock right?" asked the caller who had outstayed his welcome.

"Oh, no!" she said. "That's the clock we always call 'the visitor.'"

The obdurate one sat down again.

"The visitor," he remarked. "What a curious name to give a clock!"

His hostess ventured an explanation

"You see," she said, "we call it that because we can never make it go!"

And even then he failed to see the point.

MERCHANT MARINE HAS 27,000 SHIPS

The American merchant marine as of June 30, 1923, consisted of 27,017 vessels of all kinds, of 18,284,734 gross tons, according to the annual report to Secretary Hoover of Commissioner of Navigation D. B. Carson, released today by the Department of Commerce. The gross tonnage on June 30 was 178,234 less than on the same date in 1922.

American vessels of 500 tons and over engaged in foreign trade numbered 1,958, totaling 8,441,892 gross tons, and 1,575 vessels of 4,661,896 gross tons were engaged in coastwise trade. Three-fourths of the total tonnage was owned by the United States Shipping board.

Oil-burning vessels of over 1,000 tons almost doubled those burning coal in number and more than doubled the coal burners in tonnage—1,681 ships using oil fuel and 890 using coal. Fifty-two ships had internal combustion oil engines.

Seven hundred and seventy documented vessels were built during the fiscal year, aggregating 335,630 gross tons, compared with 845 of 661,232 tons built in the previous fiscal year.

Two hundred and ninety-eight vessels were lost during the year, 139 were sold to alien flags, and 628 were abandoned, their tonnage being: Lost, 127,584; sold, 218,401; abandoned, 142,916.

Minor officers and seamen shipped, reshiped and discharged during the year by shipping commissioners and collectors of customs were 583,110.

An important feature of the year's work was the extension of the use of radio apparatus. Including stations on government and commercial ships, there are now 21,967 transmitting radio stations in the United States and over 2,000,000 receiving stations.

Other achievements of the service were the counting of 6,142,031 passengers on excursion vessels and the prevention of 243 attempts to overload such vessels, and reporting for action 11,251 violations of the navigation laws. Revenues amounting to $1,688,786 were collected during the year.

MORTALITY FROM TUBERCULOSIS, 1922

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 21.—The department of commerce announces that compilations made by the Bureau of the Census show that 90,452 deaths were due to tuberculosis in the registration area of the United States in 1922, with a death rate of 97 per 100,000 population. This is a drop of 2.4 since 1921, which year the rate was 99.4 per 100,000 population.

Though 12 states show increases in rates for 1922, in 22 states there are decreases, indicating that the general trend is still downward.

To permit better interstate comparisons for the year 1922, adjusted rates based on the standard million population have been calculated. The highest adjusted rate from tuberculosis for 1922 is 172.6 per 100,000 population for Colorado and the lowest is 36.1 for the adjoining state of Nebraska. The high rate for Colorado should not be ascribed to unhealthfulness of climate, but rather to the fact that the climate attracts those afflicted with tuberculosis.

For certain states adjusted rates have been calculated separately for the white and colored populations. In this group of states Tennessee has the highest adjusted rates for both white and colored (respectively, 121.8 and 299.8 per 100,000 population). The lowest adjusted rate from tuberculosis for white population is 54.5 for Mississippi and this state and Florida each shows the lowest rate for colored population (171.5 per 100,000 population)

JUST FELICITATIONS TO YOU AND YOURS

It is you and your friends who have really made the name of "Rees," the symbol of success, so we say, May you and yours enjoy a real Christmas and a happy, healthy and prosperous 1924.

MERRY XMAS TO GLENDALE, SAYS H. N. LANDON

"Merry Christmas and a Happy and Prosperous New Year to the people of Glendale and vicinity," says H. N. Landon, 213 West Broadway, this morning. "I believe the people of Glendale have every reason to feel cheerful this holiday season. Prosperity has been Glendale's middle name, as they say, during the year that is rapidly closing. Many local property owners have profited by the sale of real estate and for this reason the town generally is better off. Many newcomers from the east have made their abode in Glendale and have purchased homes here. In every way things have been as they should be."

Mr. Landon is owner and subdivider of Landon Heights, one of the most beautiful home tracts in the entire La Crescenta valley. For a few days longer the pre-opening sale of lots in Units 1 and 2 of this tract will continue. During these few days the people of Glendale and the surrounding territory will have a chance to get one of these lots at prices that are lower than anything in the vicinity, and on terms that are right.

Unit No. 1 consists of 50 full sized, 60-foot front lots facing on Ramsdell avenue, between Honolulu and Michigan, La Crescenta. A number of these have been sold but some of the choicest pieces in this unit are still unsold.

Unit No. 2 also consists of 50 lots, each having a 60-foot frontage. This property fronts on Orange Grove avenue and adjoins the beautiful millionaire's home.

These lots are priced at $700 and up and are being sold for $50 and $100 down and the balance at $15 per month.

All lots are practically level and are covered with a fine grade of grapes. They command a wonderful view of the city.

To get to this tract drive out Verdugo road to Michigan avenue in La Crescenta to the tract, or take the Glendale-Montrose car to La Crescenta, where the office is located.

REALTOR WATSON WISHES FRIENDS CHRISTMAS CHEER

"Glendale should have a wonderful Christmas this year," said T. W. Watson, 708 East Broadway, one of the leading real estate dealers in this city, this morning. "Things have been coming this way all year and the residents of this city have had more than ordinary prosperity. Profits have been made on practically every piece of real estate that has been sold here during the past twelve months and there are few cities in California the size of this that has had more realty exchanges than has Glendale.

"All of these things are reasons why the people of Glendale generally should be glad this Christmas time. We wish to every man, woman and child in this city the finest kind of a holiday season. We trust all will be happy and that the New Year will break bright and cheerful for them. May 1924 4be even more prosperous than 1923 has been.

"The big thing for Glendale to do in 1924 is to vote the sewer bonds. Prosperity cannot continue without the sewers and as a New Year's present to this city we should put over these bonds by a 10 to 1 vote. With sewers there is no limit to the progress Glendale will make."

A certain city clerk never missed the opportunity of expatiating on his garden to his colleagues, who, however, were never given a chance of inspecting its wonders for themselves. Day by day he enlarged upon it until it assumed the proportions of a young park.

At last five of his fellow-workers resolved to call upon him one Saturday afternoon and seen this marvelous garden for themselves.

On being reductantly taken through to the rear of the house, judge their surprise on seeing a back yard about twelve feet by ten. One bold spirit ventured to remark that it was not very big.

"Big?" asked the boaster, with well-assumed surprise. "Big? Why, man alive, look at the height to it!"

MAGNOLIA PARK TO HAVE SOLID BLOCK OF STORES

M. Reiss, prominent attorney of Los Angeles and president of the Magnolia Park Development company, which is subdividing Magnolia Park for E. L. White, the owner, was very enthusiastic when asked as to the progress of the park.

"We were very optimistic about the park when we first took it over," said he, "as we had gone very carefully into its merits before accepting the responsibilities attendant upon the sale of any subdivision. But we have been more than surprised at the wholehearted way in which the public has shown its confidence in Magnolia Park, not only by buying lots but improving them.

"Brick and other materials are already being delivered at the intersection of Magnolia and Pioneer boulevards for the solid block of stores to be erected there.

"These will include a bank location on the corner, with offices for physician, dentist and attorney above, and eight individual brick stores for various lines of business, practically all of which are already arranged for, occupying the rest of the block.

"A. L. Thompson, who has bought a number of lots in various portions of the tract, is starting work very shortly on a three-story brick apartment house. He states he already has applications for the major portion of the apartments to be in effect as soon as completed.

"Three lots have been purchased for a church site and it is confidently expected that work on the church will be commenced before the new year, as the money for it is on the way.

"In addition to the 45 or more new houses and stores now on the tract, plans and specifications for 16 more have gone in this week to the building department.

"A stucco garage and repair shop is nearing completion, also. Building activity is being greatly stimulated by the fact that the improvements are going in at a great pace. Curbs and sidewalks are almost all in, and the streets are running a close second. Water, gas and electricity are on the ground and can be connected to the individual houses practically as soon as desired.

"There are only a few lots left in Unit No. 3, but these are some of the most desirable in the tract. So lon gas they last we will not raise the price or the terms of 15 per cent down and 1½ per cent per month, although these were pre-development prices and terms and the present conditions of the improvements would more than justify us in greatly advancing both."

REALTORS' "FEED" PROMISES TO BE WELL ATTENDED

Special preparations are being made by the social committee of the Glendale Realty board for the annual banquet of that organization, which will be held at the Egyptian Village cafe on the evening of January 15. The early part of this evening will, of course, be taken up by the banquet, after which a pleasing program, of especial interest to the members of the organization, will be given. It is understood that President Barbour, and Secretary Glenn Willaman of the California Real Estate association will be present at this meeting. They will doubtless be called upon for speeches.

The fact that these prominent state officials will be on hand will assure the good behavior of "Cam" Thom and "Hatless." Gilhuly and "Noisy" Twining will also have to stay pretty well within their holes. In other words, this will be a strictly formal meeting, and the noisemakers will have to leave their playthings at home, 'tis said.

A Dutchman was relating his marvellous escape from drowning when thirteen of his companions were lost by the upsetting of a boat, and he alone was saved.

"And how did you escape their fate?" asked one of his hearers.

'I didn't go mit the pote," was the Dutchman's placid reply.

MAY OLD SANTA CALL AT EVERY HOME--RIPLEY

"It's a very Merry Christmas with all the pretty little 'fixin's' I'm awishin' the people of Glendale."

E. R. Ripley of the realty firm of E. R. Ripley company, 200 West Broadway, is taking quite a space in the advertising columns of the Press today to wish the people of Glendale a Merry Christmas. He hopes that every man, woman and child in Glendale will experience to the full all the happiness and joy the holiday season naturally brings with it.

Old Santa Claus is coming to Glendale this year. You bet he is! And it is the hope of Mr. Ripley and associates that he may stop at every home—that he may give to every girl and boy just the presents that each little tot has been hoping and praying for.

"May everyone in Glendale also have a 'giving' Christmas," says Mr. Ripley. "There are those who do not have an equal break in this world. Those who have a little more than their share should 'divide up.' It is in giving that the heart finds real happiness.

"We have many clients in Glendale. These people have helped to make our business this year a success. For this assistance we thank them. We ask for their continued patronage—and promise in exchange only fair and square dealing."
